MONTCLAIR GAME TO BE TONIGHT

Varsity Defeats Cooper-Union
39-20; Will Play at 8:15
on Page Court

By THOMAS RYAN, '34

With one victory over the New Jersey State Teachers' of Montclair to its credit, the Purple and Gold quintet will be a strong favorite to repeat its victory when it meets the Montclair aggregation on Page court tonight at 8:15 o'clock. The first string of Bud Kissam and Roger Bancroft, forwards; Ray Harris, center, and Captain Gil De Laura and Cliff Rall, guards, will probably start the game. Coach Baker has Ossy Books, Jerry Butler, Tom Garrett, Bill Allard, Ben Boldt, Ben Ingraham, L. De Temple, and Paul Bulger in reserve.

The team regained its winning stride by staging a brilliant fourth quarter rally to run up thirteen points and down Cooper Union Institute of Technology, 39-20, on Page court. Bancroft, Bill Allard, and Ray Harris, last Friday night, Cliff Rall, Roger were the main factors in State's scoring spree. Bancroft contributed fourteen points to lead his teammates in this department, and flashed a smart offensive game throughout the entire contest.

The Cooper Union quintet gave the Balermen plenty of trouble during the first three quarters of the game. The short snappy passes with which the varsity defeated Hamilton and St. Stephens, were too often intercepted by the visitors.

State started off strong in the first quarter. Harris, on a center block play dribbled in to sink a basket in the first minute of play to give State the lead. Bancroft contributed a field and two foulbaskets and State seemed to be on its way to an easy victory.

Cooper Union had trouble solving the varsity's outplays, and Bud Kissam and Bancroft broke through repeatedly for easy shots. Kissam, who played a fast, peppy game at forward outshone his opponent to dribble in for easy shots, but failed to cage the ball and went scoreless for the night. Bancroft caged the ball from all parts of the Cooper Union territory to run up twelve points during the first half and give State a 20-13 lead at half-time.

In the third quarter the State attack bogged down, and the visitors leadlocked the score 20-20. Shanevitz, at center for the visitors was the pivot man in their attack, scoring eight points and leading the passing attack. The Teachers made a sudden spurt, and Rall and De Laura caged two baskets to give State lead which it held throughout the remainder of the game. Rall led Cliff Rall who caged four baskets to pave the way for their victory. The Balermen out-classed the visitors in the final period. Led by Harris and Rall, the Purple and Gold quint rallied up thirteen points in the final frame and held their opponents to a single basket to wind up the victory.

The first event of the energy course will be a general assembly, at 3 o'clock in the auditorium of Page hall, March 6, Dr. Brubacher stated.

He has had charge of the younger boys division of the Hi-Y club, and also is a leader of the Roosevelt club. He was editor-in-chief of the Echo last year, and a member of Myskmania, senior honorary society.

14 PAY TAX SINCE REPORT IN NEWS

Assembly Vote Makes Amount Payable in Installments; $644 Is Last Total

It is obvious that organized student activities cannot be continued next year, if students continue to fail in the payment of their student tax," Clarence A. Hidley, assistant professor of history, and treasurer of the student association, declared today. The major activities of State college, dependent upon the student association budget, are already at a standstill awaiting the further payment of student taxes.

Since the last News of two weeks ago, fourteen students have paid the tax in full making a total of 644 who have paid according to the amendment which was passed in assembly Friday, stating that the Finance board be empowered to collect taxes on the installment plan." The relation of the infirmary benefit to this payment of student tax was considered at the finance board meeting. The board passed a motion to allow a benefit out of the infirmary fund of $5 per person to those students who make partial payment on their tax and pledge to pay the remainder. The maximum amount which students who have paid their full tax can receive from the infirmary fund is $25, with no more than $15 on one bill.

Finance board at this meeting also accepted the offer of student council to aid in managing the collection of part payment taxes.

Students holding offices who have not paid the student tax will be asked to withdraw or resign by the first of March.

Although some activities have already met with a curtailment of activities because of lack of money in student budget, the cut for every activity will be much greater unless over two hundred and fifty students pay the student tax. The budget was planned originally to benefit 1200 students. If only one-half of the student body supports the student association, then only one-half of the activities can be carried on. Even if 900 students which will mean payment by 256 more students, there will have to be a gradual decrease in the allotment of each student activity.

Those students entering second semester and paying half tax will receive half of the benefits derived from the student tax at the infirmary fund, and this semester's News, Louie, and Echo.

ALL FRIENDS ON YOU!

The members of the News staff present this issue to you, with sincere hope that we may continue to do this every week during the remainder of the semester. It rests entirely with you whether this issue is to be the last in the "Swan song" of the Fall News, or whether it is to resound the trumpet calls of loyalty and honor which will echo only when the college year shall have been brought to a close.

Beginning with this issue of the News, each student will be required to present his student tax ticket whenever he purchases a ticket to be allowed to receive his copy of the News. The students who do not purchase tax tickets because of the fact that they have failed to pay their student tax assessment may procure a copy of the News each week, by paying the regular subscription price of ten cents an issue. Students may also obtain a subscription card for the rest of the year by presenting a dollar and a quarter.

Members of the faculty are being invited this week and are being asked to present a reception for the rest of the faculty at the Fall News. These meetings are now far advanced and will be held on the 25th, 26th, and 27th of the month of February, date to non-purchasers of student tax. If you have lost your ticket, or are unable to find it in the finance board, and yet desire to attend the reception, you may do so by presenting a dollar and a quarter.

We are asking the cooperation of every member of the student association in carrying out the emergency policy. We are also asking you to find the best and most efficient method by which financial aid may be secured weekly for the publication of the new schedule every week. Will you do your part?

A SPECIAL SECTION

Due to the insistence of regard to the printing of the new schedule, the following editorial was not published in connection with the communication from the athletic council. It is now being printed in this issue.

In the issue of the News, a communication from the men's athletic council of the College in regard to the severe comments made by the Commentstater concerning phases of the athletic situation has been published. The council has stated its stand upon the question, and therefore it has been decided to let the organization in charge of athletics and the athletic policy serve as the spokesman for all the communications which the News has received from participants in the College athletics.

The News regrets that the remarks and comments which were made upon the subject were emphasized by an attack upon a member of the faculty of the College, and by personal illustrations to accentuate several of the points which were maintained. Any criticism of any project or activity should be done in a constructive manner, if an improvement or betterment of the activity critized is sincerely the aim which is being sought.

It is the duty of the athletic council to formulate the athletic policy of the teams representing the College, and any statements or criticisms concerning these teams or the activities should be made to the council. It will then be the work of the council to investigate and substantiate and evaluate the situation, and to decide what principles shall be maintained in the future athletic participation of the College.

COMMENDATION FOR CLUBS

Congratulations and commendation are due to the members of the Classical club of the College for their interest and enthusiasm in planning and presenting a translation of Euripides play, "Electra," last Thursday night in the Page hall auditorium. Departmental clubs have long been a source of criticism, both destructive and constructive, for their activity for their evident utility, and for general apathy towards intellectual, educational, affairs of interest to the members of the club, in comparison with a very evident leaning towards the social possibilities of such a club organization.

The work and constant persistence which was necessary in attempting and successfully presenting a project of this art is an encouraging sign of the fact that clubs of this type are worthwhile, and that the members are to be commended for their realization of their activities, and for their generosity in allowing the students and faculty of the College to share in their production. Advance notices of the annual tele of the French club are further indications of sincere student interest in the work of a departmental club.

OUR ALUMNI

The varied activities of the State college alumni as shown in the presentation today and tomorrow of a program of travel talks, and in the forthcoming production by the Blackbirds of Philip Barry's play, are tangible indications of the real value and interest that graduates of State college retain after their college requirements have been completed, and of the sincere efforts of members of the association to weld all graduates together in a co-operating organization, by means of co-operation in such productions as these.

We, as undergraduates, and as potential members of the alumni group, should be grateful that four years experience as students at State has left these graduate members with a vibrant interest in all affairs of the College, and with a desire to further the reputation and standing of our school. Each student should remember to do his part in assisting the alumnus in these productions. When we are alumni, we shall be glad if we can remember that we have always tried to do our part for State.

BOOKS: Priestley Writes Novel on Dangerous Corners

For Sale in the Co-op

Dangerous Corner. By Ruth Holland and J. B. Priestley. Doubleday, Doran and Company. New York. 273 pages. $1.70.

Priestley, in the preface to this novel, remarks: "Plays are frequently made out of novels, but it is so rare a thing to find a novel made out of a play that I feel that this requires a few words of explanation. The idea was born in two places at once. One of the publishers concerned, having just seen the play remarked to me that it would make a very interesting novel and that he wished someone would do it. Now Miss Holland, who had seen the play twice, had also remarked to me that the characters had fashioned her so much, had taken such a grip on her imagination, that she felt she could write a novel about them. So there we were."

"There will probably be puzzled readers of 'Dangerous Corner' just as there were a great many puzzled playgoers, and for their joint benefit I will take this opportunity of explaining just all that happens between the two blackouts in the play and between the Prologue and the Epilogue in this novel is neither an actual happening nor yet somebody's dream, but a What Might Have Been, a sudden excursion for all people concerned into some other kind of time. You must suppose that Owen alone, in a moment of agony, guessed this. You can even assume it does not annoy you too much that by a grand effort of will, she pulled them all back into our own world and time again, back to the ten o'clock. Miss Mowbridge heard the chimes strike in the Epilogue."

Telling the truth is about as healthy as holding at mud the corner of a dry. This is the theme of the sparkling novel made from Priestley's drama that has delighted playgoers in both London and New York. The truth is inadvertently let loose at a pleasant tony dinner party. The hidden passion for each other's wives and husbands, the secreted secret that are suddenly and comically revealed beneath the pleasant surfaces of life make some highly dramatic moments in a young girl's drawing room. Then with some nice ironies together show how easily the dangerous corner might have been passed in the truth had been avoided."

As they were nice people, Miss Mowbridge decided, of them really very simple and unpeopled, and unusually friendly. The evening had turned out well, after all. She sat with her host and hostess, smiling at the dancers."

Reading Good Books Is Greatest Of All Magic, Donor Of Newbery Medal States

"The greatest magic in spite of all modern inventions is the magic of books. It is through this magic of print that an individual can obtain anything that he wants, when he wants it, and as often as he wants it, stated Frederick Melcher, the original donor of the Newbery Medal, in the student assembly on Friday in Page hall auditorium.

"The attitude towards books is one of free and voluntary reading," Mr. Melcher said. "This type of reading starts in the grades where the children are allowed to find their own way. In the Junior High school the trick of reading has reached its height. Sadly enough the High school has fallen behind in this improvement; there it tends to become formalized.

In the afternoon a tea sponsored by Library school was conducted in Mr. Melcher's honor. Here Mr. Melcher spoke about the various Newberry medal books, among which were the following: "Hitty, Her First Hundred Years," by Rachel Field; "Shen of the Sea," by Arthur Bowie Chrisman; "Tales from Silverlands," by Charles Finger; "The Voyages of Doctor Doolittle," by Hugh Lofting and "Smoky" by Will James.

"The future is yours and it is up to you to see that free and voluntary reading is given a fair chance, especially in the high schools," Mr. Melcher concluded.

The assembly lecture was under the auspices of the library school. Last year a gift was left to the library school which will enable them to bring a noted speaker before the student body annually. This donation is known as the James Sullivan lecture. It was named in honor of James Sullivan, assistant commissioner of education in New York state. Deeply interested in books, Mr. Sullivan furthered various advancements in this field. He established the library schools.

G.A.A. To Have Bowling At Center On Tuesday

Bowling for women will be conducted at the Jewish community center, beginning Tuesday, as a part of the sports program of the girls' Athletic association, according to Mary Treloar, '34, president of G. A. A. There will be a charge of fifteen cents per person for each game. Kathryn Haug, '34, will be sport captain for bowling. Miss Haug was captain for the sport last year.

The junior quintet amassed only twenty-four points during the first three games of the season, while Harry Hall of the sophomores scored twenty-two points alone. Yet the juniors lead the league. Page Mr. Ripley!

The State team which bowed to Seth Low appeared a much inferior team to that which started off strong with five straight victories and looked unbeatable in its game with Hamilton. The team appeared to crack after the Hamilton game. There was little teamwork. The players seemed stale against Cooper Union one of the poorest teams on the schedule. Four straight months of basketball is a long, steady grind and there is bound to be a growth of ill-feeling among the players, a condition with which the varsity had to contend at intervals throughout the season.

By the Playgoer

The play of Tuesday night was an unhappy choice because of its lack of strength no consumer, as it adapted to that lot, is a bungler, a span of mishaps and untowardness. However unwise the choice of play may have been, the set was excellent in assuring us of the depressing sadness of the life of the family. Occasionally we wondered at the intensity which the play needed would have been provided by an accelerated pace.

Helen Dunphy as the over-worked drudge did a commendable piece of work; she had moments of deep feeling when we, too, knew her pathos. She was thoroughly in character in business, voice, and appearance. Whether the play presented an effective last impression because of its abrupt close, or whether Mrs. Dunphy should have made more of her last lines we can not decide.

Tom Garrett in a meagre role was completely at ease. Again we commend Tom for mastery of his one-time annoying habit of measured, staccato speech.

The character of the shop girl, Alice, was sympathetically taken by Lois Fitzpatrick, but we wondered if even the most garrulous department store clerks could hold that fact. It tends to make difficulty in having her to indicate her meanings.

Ken Christian was a nondescript as the part demanded. We fear that Ken may become permanently loquacious and vain-haired if he takes the parts of many more old men.

The neighbor who asked for meat because hers had soured in the ice box was successful in giving a haphazard, sloppy effect but not successful enough. When Miss Jones has more poise on the stage, she will be more convincing.

The refreshing way in which Bill Jones fits into his parts and makes us murmur an approval of his naturalness is an attribute which he should prize.

HAMILTON DEBATE TO BE THURSDAY

Dolan and Christian to Defend State College at 8:30 in Page Auditorium

The State college varsity debate teams will meet representatives from four colleges during the spring season. Marcia Gold, '33, president of the debate council, said today.

The men's varsity team will debate Hamilton college Thursday night, March 2, at 8:30 o'clock in the Page hall auditorium. James Dolan, '34, and Kenneth Christian, '35, will uphold the negative side of the question "Resolved: That world peace is impossible under an economic capitalistic system." Dr. Harold W. Thompson, professor of English, is coaching the debaters. It has not been decided as yet whether the decision for the debate will be by judges or by the audience.

The women's debate team, composed of Miss Gold and Margaret Rausch, '33, will meet the women's team from Syracuse university Thursday night, March 7. This will probably be a radio debate from WGY studios at Schenectady. The State college team will uphold the negative side of the question "Resolved: That married women teachers whose husbands are employed should be ineligible as teachers in the high schools of New York state."

Cecilia Fox, '33, and Dorothy Griffin, '34, will debate Middlebury college, at Middlebury, Vermont, and Keene Normal school at Keene, New Hampshire, on the weekend of Friday and Saturday, April 7 and 8. They will uphold the affirmative side of the subject "Resolved: That democracy as a form of government has played a failure."

The members of the debate council will attend a conference of debating societies of colleges of New York state which will be conducted at Syracuse university on Friday and Saturday, April 28 and 29. The purpose of the conference is to foster informal debates and open forum discussion rather than the formal debate. The members of the council which will represent State college are Miss Gold and Miss Rausch, seniors; and Miss Griffin, Frances Higgins, and Grenell Rand, juniors.

Immediately after leaving State college in June, 1931, Dr. Wheaton went abroad where she studied at Vienna, Austria, and in Germany. Since her return to the United States, Dr. Wheaton has completed a special internship in pediatrics at the Bellevue hospital, New York city.

The St. Louis paper gave the story to the press services and the list was carried in papers all over the country. Then folk began to ask Dr. Muzzey:

"Where is Jane Addams; where is Calvin Coolidge?"

Dr. Muzzey then made an admission: "It is not a good list. It was written in a hurry. It was late. I was tired. I left out Calvin Coolidge on purpose. I should have included Jane Addams."

He went on: "It would be a rash historian, indeed, who would venture to predict who will be deemed important fifty years from now."

"Then why did you attempt to make such a prediction?" he was asked.

"The reporter wanted a story, and I guess I was just too good natured," he said.

SPICY leaves of
are strung to dry
and cure in the sun.

Well, that's something about cigarettes
I never knew before the cigarette that's Milder

the cigarette that Tastes Better

I'd never thought much about what's inside a Chesterfield cigarette. But I have just been reading something that made me think about it.

Just think of this, some of the tobacco in Chesterfield—the Turkish—comes from 4000 miles away! And before it is shipped every single leaf is packed by hand. All because Turkish tobacco is so small and delicate.

Of course I don't know much about making cigarettes, but I do know this—that Chesterfields are milder and have a very pleasing aroma and taste. They satisfy—and that's what counts with me!

ALBANIAN SPEAKS AT CLUB MEETING THURSDAY AT 4:10

Harold D. Leslie, executive manager of the Albany Chamber of Commerce, was the chief speaker at the last meeting of the commerce club, and made the significant statement that "teachers are expected to teach more than the mechanics of their particular subjects. They must aid in the formation of habits which will determine the success or failure in business of the pupils who they go out into the commercial world." He gave several illustrations of how little things such as courtesy, tact, and punctuality have been instrumental in the making of many of our business executives today.

The next meeting of the club will be a dinner meeting to be conducted in the cafeteria of Huyett hall on Thursday, March 16. A number of the commercial department are invited. The arrangements for the affair will be under the supervision of Ruth Putnam '33, vice-president of the organization. The main speaker will be Adam V. Walker, head of the economics department.

- THE COLLEGiate WHIRL -

A questionnaire for the identification of fifty famous men in the country was given to the students of a class in government at the University of Oklahoma. Al Capone was the only one who was identified correctly by all the students.

(IP)—Ten married men in the Penn college public speaking class asked to be allowed to bring their wives to class—at "one fare and a half" a couple.

Said Dean Paul R. Andres: "Any married man who has the courage to train his wife to speak even more fluently than she does now should be congratulated. Your studies have given you unusual self-confidence, and you deserve a reward. Bring your wives along."

Reporters for the Columbia university newspaper questioned people on the street, and discovered that five out of six classify college students as loafers.

At last! The meanest man in the world has been discovered. This personage is a Syracuse professor, who while recuperating from an appendicitis operation, used a microphone, a radio loud speaker and a telephone to render a lecture to five hundred chemistry students.

The Wilson Spectator reports the following impromptu debate between an instructor and a student as to the hardships endured during their respective days at the College:

Said the student: "But you don't have to sit in the classes."

Replied the instructor: "Well, but I have to stand and look at all of you."

Imagine the complexion of the students in that class!
