I-M Race Meet Won by Guarino, Tucker Second

By virtue of his victory in the final heat of the 80-yard dash, the main event of last week's intramural meet, Gene Guarino was proclaimed the fastest man in the I-M football league. This meet, the first of its kind ever held at State, took place on the Page Hall field. It was sponsored by Bart Kiley through Intramural Council for the purpose of determining the fastest man, the best place-kicker and punter, and the longest and most accurate passer in the league.

Nosing out Bill Tucker by a two-yard margin, Guarino won the title of the fastest man in the Intramural League. Dave Griffin took third place. Tucker beat Tassoni in the first heat, turning in the fast time of 9.2 seconds. Griffin won the second heat over Guarino in 9.4 seconds. The final heat was run in 9.5 seconds. Frank Hansen, one of the pre-race favorites, was nosed out by the first heat.

Rich Young booted the oval sphere 57 yards 2 feet and 9 inches to win the kicking contest. Johnny Sussina with a boot of 51 yards 2 feet and 8 inches placed second in the event.

Place-kicking the ball 41 yards, Joe Tassoni nosed out Rich Young whose best try was 40 yards.

Fay Welch tossed one into the basket to defeat all rivals in the accuracy-passing contest. Triple threat man Tassoni, who did quite well in each of the four contests, climaxed an "on" day by winning the long distance passing contest. His best heave was good for 51 yards. Ernie Mennillo and Red Evans tied for second place, each getting a toss of 48 yards.

It is true that students participate in intramural sports voluntarily. However, we feel that it will be fair to let the students pay the bill. The student body as a whole can pay it a lot easier than can the private families of the two injured students. MAA has promised to pay $150 of the bill, but this amount falls short by a large margin.

Under present conditions there is no other agency with the exception of the budget surplus, through which the money could be obtained. The surplus is to be used in case of emergencies. If this isn't an emergency, we would like to know what is.

A motion to obtain this money will have to be made in Assembly. When this is done, let every student cast his vote with this in mind: How would you vote if you were in the hospital bed instead of Gerber or Smyth?

What of the Future? State College was caught flat-footed when the two students suffered major injuries. Such a situation cannot be allowed to happen again. With special emphasis placed on physical fitness in the college, especially the commando course and more spirited gym classes and intramural contests, the chances of injuries have increased appreciably. Steps must be taken to insure that enough money is being set aside to provide for such casualties.

We would like to suggest that MAA and WAA be empowered to start a combined infirmary fund so that if any college man or woman is injured in athletic events, funds are available to take care of any hospital bills. One way of starting this fund may be to put the remains of each year's infirmary quota into this combined fund until an arbitrary amount is reached, say $1000.

Another suggestion may be to investigate the possibilities of insuring the students participating in sports. The premiums could be divided proportionally and paid by MAA, WAA and the college administration. The administration is included because we believe that everyone who is taking gym should be insured if it's financially possible.

Chess Club Sponsoring New Membership Drive A movement is now underway in the undergraduate body to revive the Chess Club, an organization which has gathered fame to its name in years past with its impressive victories.

At present Jim Wahler and Clarence Orr are seeking out possible members to form a new nucleus to replace the fine players lost in last June's graduation. Plans are under way to hold meetings and discussions on play, as well as to give aid to any who may lack sufficient skill or experience.

An initial step in this direction came in the form of a match between Sayles Hall and SLS played a week ago yesterday which ended in a draw, each team winning three games. It is hoped that similar meetings between other groups will uncover more talent and lend impetus to the movement.

Any student who might be interested or desires further details should consult Orr or Wahler as soon as possible so that the groundwork may be started immediately.

Tennis Tourney Incomplete The closing of the Washington Park courts has made completion of the WAA tennis tournament impossible, and the remaining three matches will be played in the spring. The main factors of the delay were poor weather conditions and the inability of the contestants to arrange the playoffs of their matches. Also the tournament got off to a later start than last year's.

It is expected that the semi-finalists will complete their matches and that the victor will secure the cup as soon as the courts are again opened.

It Could Be Wurz

At this point there are few things so intriguing to the women of State as the Commando course. While most of the girls are content merely to talk about it, three intrepid souls decided to try it. Flo Garfall, leader of the Sophs, Marie DeChene, glamorous sports writer, and Peggy Bostwick, dynamic mite, appropriately clad in faded dungarees and plaid shirts, set out to try their luck.

So the three lined up to take the hurdles. Up and over went Garfall and DeChene—up but not over went Bostwick. Peggy, never giving up, climbed the hurdles in a fashion hardly approved in the best Commando circles.

Military training, it was emphasized, is not desired in the colleges. If the student is in good physical condition when he enters the Army, his military training can be much shorter and easier. Training in coordination and timing, however, such as can be obtained by running over an obstacle course similar to that which State has, is desirable.

The wall presented the real problem to our lady Commandos. Once, twice, three, four times they tried to mount it. No luck. Then they went into a huddle and decided to boost Bostwick to the top of the wall. So Dee and Flo lifted Peggy to the top. Then the mighty Garfall braced herself and made the top by her own power. Dee, with assistance from above and below, soon joined her pals. "Let's wait here a moment or two," gasped Flo, "just until I start breathing again." So they rested, perched gingerly on the narrow top. Then down they jumped, at least Flo and Peg did, but Dee insisted that she was stuck and would never be able to get down. But at last, she too, hit the ground and the three completed the course.

The Woman's View "What do you think about it?" we asked. "What do you mean—what do we think about it—are you kidding?" said Dee. "I'll never be able to walk again." "I don't think that it would give any man in the college any trouble," was Garfall's contribution. Bostwick just groaned.

On the next day all three of our Women Commandos said that as far as they were concerned, the Commando course could be given to the men, but permanently.

WAA Fall Program Rolls Along Smoothly There is not much new going on in the feminine sports world. The various sports offered by WAA are all running smoothly.

June Clark, captain of riding, has announced a new policy. Riding credit can now be obtained at any time throughout the year, by having the stable manager write a note addressed to June Clark stating that you have ridden.

The end of the fall sports season and the beginning of the winter sports season occurs at Thanksgiving. So, check up and see that you have your fall sports credit, there's still time to finish up an incomplete sport. And get ready to enjoy the winter sports which include swimming, basketball, bowling, ping-pong, ice-skating, and of course, weekends at Camp Johnson.

Hatfield Attends Varsity Cagers Start Scrimmage NYC Conference

Last Thursday and Friday Coach G. Elliot Hatfield attended a joint Armed Forces conference in New York City. This conference was held by the Army, Navy and Air Force in order to acquaint physical instructors of the various colleges and universities with what training the undergraduate men students are expected to receive. Coach Hatfield, in his capacity as physical director of the men of State College, represented this institution.

An innovation in the past week was the start of the scrimmage practices. Strong emphasis is still placed on the fast break figure eight offense, and the man to man defense.

All of last year's lettermen in school at the present time are out, with the exception of Combs and Gerber, who are still on the injured list. However, Combs is expected to be able to go very shortly. Gerber's chances of being allowed to return are considered very slim.

After a good showing earlier in the year, freshmen candidates were noticeably lacking last week, no more than two being present for any one practice.

Since there are only a total of two and a half weeks remaining for practice before the first contest, with the break for Thanksgiving vacation coming right in the middle, Coach Hatfield has plans for some strenuous sessions to come.

NEWS Elects Six Sophomores To Desk Positions

Board Also Chooses Business, Sports Staffs

The Board of the STATE COLLEGE NEWS released this morning the results of the election held this week to determine which of the competing reporters should succeed to the positions of Sophomore Desk Editors. Others were also elected to the Sophomore Sports and Business Staffs.

The Desk Editors for the year 1942-43 are: Gordon Baskin, Sunna Cooper, Jane Heath, J. Michael Hippick, Dorothy Meyers and Barbara Putnam. In this election, the News reverted to its customary policy of electing six to the Sophomore Desk. Last year the Board elected only two special positions to provide an adequate working staff required for the expanded program under which the News operated. With six-page issues necessarily eliminated this year to a large extent, it was felt that eight Sophomores were not needed.

Business, Sports Add to Staffs At the same election, additions were made to the Sports and Business staffs.

The Junior Business Staff is composed of Herman Blumel, Mary Corbett, Georgia Hardesty, Carmelina Losurdo and Jane Pickert. Clarence Orr is Junior Assistant Sports Editor, and Margaret Byrne is also on the Junior Sports Staff.

Lois Drury and Dorothea Smith have been named to the Sophomore Business Staff; Sophomore Sports-writers are Margaret Bostwick, Marie DeChene, John Dooley, Stanley Gipp, Joan Hylland, Eugene McLaren, Ernest Mennillo and John Sussina. Edna Marsh and Mary Sanderson have been appointed Sophomore Feature Writers.

Club Classes to Continue Cub classes for freshmen interested in the News will continue until the first of the year, when the clubs will assume a more active part. (Continued on page 3, column 5)

Thanksgiving Vacation The Office of the Registrar announces that Thanksgiving vacation will begin at twelve noon of Wednesday, November 25. Classes will be resumed on Monday, November 30.

Classes in the Milne School will end at 11 A. M. and resume the same time as college classes do.

Hutchins Gets There (First; Exhibits Snapshots of Africa

When Miss Hutchins brought back postcards from her tour of North Africa, she probably never suspected the timely appearance they would make in 1942 on the large bulletin board on the second floor of Draper.

In view of the newly instigated second front, students may see in snapshot form what our soldiers are seeing in reality.

There are colored postcards of North African natives, depicting them in every phrase of life. But even more interesting are the scenes of Algiers: La Medarsa, Jardin Marengo, and La Cathedrale. Here's your chance to see what Algiers should and what it is hoped does look like.

There are also snaps of Casablanca, the Sultan's home, and Rabot.

Fraternity Dances To Honor Frosh

Rushes of '46, will be entertained for the last time this weekend at Potter Club and Sigma Lambda Sigma rush parties. Potter Club will hold its traditional "Club '46," tomorrow night, and SLS will entertain at a semi-formal dance in the Commons tonight. Dates will have two o'clock hours at both parties.

Sigma Lambda Sigma is using the theme "Holiday Inn" for its semi-formal in the Commons tonight. Dancers will wear masks and corsages of pompons provided by the fraternity. Holidays beginning with Christmas will be celebrated. The entertainment, in the hands of John De Nike, '44, will be based on the theme of the dance.

Chairman Gordon Hastings, '43, is planning a "super-duper" time and continuous refreshments will add to the general enjoyment. The dance will last from 9 p. m. to 1 p. m.

On Saturday evening, Potter Club will transfer the Commons into its famous "Club '46." "Club '46," is annually Potter's last and most extravagant party. As its name implies, it is a typical night club with sweet music, delightful entertainment and tasty food by the men of Potter Club. Entrepreneur Bob Combs, '44, announces that informal attire will be the rule, and that the Club opens at nine and closes at one. He promises that no effort will be spared in providing a pleasurable evening for its patrons.

Numerical results of the past five years should be included in any analysis of fraternity bidding and rushing.

Table with 4 columns: Fraternity, '37, '38, '39, '40, '41, '42. Rows: KDR, Potter, KB, SLS. Total 34 58 59 59 48

However, mathematics does not guarantee that changes will not be made. The above table says nothing of percentages of bids returned, nor does it include any information about pledging of Frosh and upper-classes at times other than the official interfraternity pledge period. It might be pointed out that in spite of a drop in male registration KDR had an increase in the number of pledges. However, it has been shown in the past years that history does not necessarily repeat itself. It may well be that Potter will regain her old standard and SLS reach her heights. Only time will tell.

Due to rivalry between KDR, Potter, and SLS over the same freshmen, triplicate bidding has been prevalent in the past few years. (Continued on page 3, column 2)

Round Robin Dances

Interfraternity Council announces that all the four fraternities, Kappa Delta Rho, Potter Club, Kappa Beta, and Sigma Lambda Sigma, are planning Round Robin dances Tuesday afternoon from 3:30 to 5:30 p. m. The dances will take place at the fraternity houses; KD will share SLS's house.

Col. A. E. Dedicke

The founder, organizer and first Editor-in-Chief of the STATE COLLEGE NEWS, Colonel Alfred E. Dedicke, died of a heart attack on October 8 while on duty with his Infantry Regiment at Camp Berkeley, Texas. Dedicke thus lived to see the organization he founded, celebrate the twenty-fifth anniversary of its founding.

In 1916, Dedicke, then a Junior in State College became Chairman of the Committee of the Class of 1918 on Publishing a Weekly College Newspaper. On October 4, 1916, the first issue of the NEWS appeared. In this first publication the initial editorial formulated the policy which has guided the newspaper. The principle, therein expressed, to provide a medium by which "a need for bringing each extreme of our student life into direct touch with the others" would be provided, remains still a cardinal principle of NEWS policy.

A few days after the declaration of war in 1917, Dedicke left college to join the military forces. He never returned to college.

Fraternities Issue 'Directory' to Be Sold Monday

The State College Directory will be ready for sale in the Co-op Monday immediately following the assembly. For convenience there will also be a table in lower Draper. Contrary to rumor, the Directory this year will remain at ten cents a copy.

Because of the rapid changes in the addresses of the service men, their names will not be included in this publication. However, information concerning service men may be secured from Rolf Toeffler, '43, editor, or Dr. D. V. Smith, head of the Social Studies department.

There will be no complimentary copies given. The faculty members will be especially solicited by the staff.

This Directory embodies the names, addresses, and telephone numbers of the College faculty, student body, administrative staff, and group houses in addition to a complete outline of the college calendar.

Toeffler says, "I am grateful to the staff for the wonderful co-operation they have shown. They did their job well, considering the short time that was allotted. Perhaps I'm prejudiced, but I think the Directory is the handiest gadget on the campus."

In answer to this suggestion, Dr. Sayles said that three years ago (Continued on page 5, column 1)

Campus Chest Drive Reaches $300 Mark

At present count, student contributions to Campus Chest total more than $300, but are still far away from the original goal of $500. Although the date marking the end of the campaign was set as last Friday, the drive will remain open indefinitely in order to procure a sum nearer the goal. Supporters will no longer approach students, but anyone who still wishes to contribute to Campus Chest may contact Sol Greenberg, '43.

Greenberg explained, "Many members of the student body have complained that the money collected their contributions. A note in the student mail addressed to me will bring prompt action in making collection. Since Campus Chest is the only request for funds for charitable organizations made of students during the year, 100% co-operation is expected."

"At a later date the Campus Chest committee will meet to decide upon the organizations which will receive the funds. This planning can be done efficiently only when the drive is completed."

Drinking of Milk To Be Encouraged By Lower Prices

With less than a month of conference and deliberation, the committee appointed by Dr. John M. Sayles, President, whose purpose it was to "determine policies and procedures" in regard to the operation of the Annex and Cafeteria submitted its report.

In part, the report submitted to Dr. Sayles by the committee reads as follows: "The student-faculty committee appointed by you to determine policies and procedures for the college cafeteria submit the following report for your consideration and action."

"The committee first considered the nature of the criticisms aimed at the cafeteria. In general they are, unattractiveness of the physical surroundings, careless preparation of the food, the uniformity of menus, the price of milk, and the inadequate room for properly handling the groups of students who must eat in the Annex. At its second meeting a sub-committee with Dr. Rienow as chairman was appointed to consider and report on the practicability of decreasing the offerings and increasing the quality of foods; also make such other recommendations that would aid in the organization and management of the cafeteria. The report of the sub-committee which has been unanimously accepted by the general committee contains the following recommendations:

1. That the menu of the cafeteria be simplified by: a) eliminating the hot lunches b) substituting a hot dish and made more appetizing.

2. That the drinking of milk be encouraged by lowering the price to five cents.

3. That special accommodations be made for the students of Milne High School."

The committee, Dr. Sayles announced, also advises some reconstruction in that portion of the building in which the Annex and Cafeteria are located in order to take better care of the large number of Milne and State students who eat there.

Rivalry Debate to Be Featured In Assembly

Responding to the challenge of Florence Garfall, President of the class of '45, delivered two weeks ago, the annual Frosh-Soph debate will be held in assembly this morning. The freshmen will maintain the affirmative, the sophs, the negative of the question: "Should State men go steady?"

Members of the frosh, as released on Wednesday night by Harry Wartz, '46, Junior advisor for the debate, are Marie Scudder, Dabert Wood, Robert Ferber, and Robert Sullivan, alternate. The sophomore debaters are Samuel Scott, Cecil Goldberger, and Louis Rabineau.

According to the rules in the Freshman Handbook, at some time during the year a debate will be held between the rival classes. The freshmen have the privilege of choosing the subject, and the sophs may select either the affirmative or the negative. The winning class will add three points to its rivalry score.

Filibuster Employed by Senators To Block Anti-Poll Tax Measure

The good news from the world's battlefronts has dominated the newspaper headlines of this last week, and relegated an important, though shameful, item concerning the United States Senate to the fifth and sixth pages of the country's papers.

We are speaking about the filibuster in the Senate designed to block action on the anti-poll tax bill now before the body.

The measure aims to remove the payment of a poll tax as a requisite for voting in a federal election. For the last six days the Senators from the poll tax states have used the filibuster to stall senatorial action on the bill until the Senate adjourns, thereby defeating the bill.

A filibuster in Congress is not a debate expressing the views of the majority and minority. It is not an attempt to compromise diverging opinions upon pending legislation.

The accusation against the Senate is not that they are obstructing the war effort by not passing the laws necessary for victory. Congress has voted the necessary money, passed the eighteen year old draft bill, but is the sight of the greatest deliberative body in the world attempting to block legislation which would extend the right of franchise to more people a pleasant one?

PM in its recent editorial stated: "Something to be proud of, isn't it? A great spectacle of democracy to put alongside the heroism and sacrifice of our African army, of our Pacific forces? A great satisfaction to know that, while our young men are fighting for democracy in the field, our old men, like Senator McKellar, preserve it at home by putting on a spoiled-child, cry baby act on the floor of the United States Senate? A great justification of the principles for which our country stands in the fight against Fascism, when men of the stature of Senator Bilbo tie up the whole processes of government and prevent rule of the majority?"

The entire blame of the filibuster does not lie wholly on the minority, but the majority is equally, if not more, responsible. It is the majority which has created the opportunity to prevent the filibuster. The will of the majority should prevail and the minority should not be able to block legislation desired by the majority.

Communications

To the Editor: This will not be an easy letter to write. Being one of those students whose actions after an AD play recently were severely criticized, I find it hard to keep an unprejudiced attitude about it all.

The party which was wrongly termed a celebration of a "triumph," was in reality a farewell party for a freshman boy who must leave college after Thanksgiving. All of us who had worked with him in the plays felt badly about his going, and we wanted to give him a night of hilarity to remember. I, and all the others concerned, refuse to apologize to those who were annoyed by our songs and impromptu acts.

The fitted in the spirit of the evening, and if there are some "prigs" who think it is "disgusting" to have a good time at a farewell party, I'm afraid their opinion doesn't mean much to us.

We were asked to leave the Tavern, yes. At that time, we were singing rather quietly, and feel that the management was unnecessarily severe since only two tables there were not occupied by State students.

But at the Pliadum where we really "hit it up," no one asked us to be quiet or made any signs of disapproval. The organist accompanied us on many flights of song, and a lot of the patrons joined in with the singing. I am rather proud that I was encored when I sang "Frankie and Johnny" as a solo—for the first time in public.

We were drinking—beer. We were noisy—there were about twelve of us. But we were not being arty, no more than any other group of students having a good time. Perhaps we all are "wet behind the ears"—but if so, it is a wonderful feeling. Some people around college might try it sometime themselves to good advantage.

What we do wonder is if the student body agrees with us that every college student should have an evening or two of grand and glorious fun, without having to care what people think? We didn't destroy any property, we didn't molest anyone—all we did was sing, and rather well, too, if I must say so to myself. Well, that's our side of the story, contrary to the opinion expressed in a column of the STATE COLLEGE NEWS last week. We all suggest that such opinions (stories reported) be checked for details from now on, to avoid embarrassing moments for everybody.

Also suggest that people in glass houses shouldn't throw stones. We also send our regrets to all students who couldn't be with us that night—they would have had the time of their lives. We did.

Defiantly yours, Rhona Ryan, '44. My understanding of the word "criticism," taken from Webster's Collegiate Dictionary, is "the art of judging with knowledge the beauties and faults of literary or artistic works." A critic, according to Mr. Webster, is one who expresses his reasoned opinion of the merits of literary or artistic works.

Perhaps Miss Marston's review of Miss Hampel's play was written on the assumption that it was neither a literary nor an artistic work. Be that as it may, the guilt cannot be placed entirely upon Miss Hampel's shoulders. She had the very difficult task of producing a rather long play in two weeks. During one of these two weeks the college had midsemester exams.

Mr. Loucks had the good fortune to direct three members of Advanced Dramatics class, while Miss Hampel had but two, whose performance, it is true, Miss Marston noted. Three of Miss Hampel's cast had not been on the State College stage before.

One of the cast had not been on any stage. In my opinion Miss Hampel is a competent director. Possibly I am mistaken, but I think not.

Conscientious Objector.

In order to facilitate the payment of State College students who are employed at Albany Hospital, a representative of the hospital payroll department has arranged to be at the College twice a month.

Senior Period Begins Monday

Beginning Monday November 23, the so-called "silent period" of conversation between freshmen and sorority women. The period will last until December 9. Invitations from the sororities for buffet supper and formal dinner will be received via student mail by the freshmen women on Monday.

College Changes Entrance Demands

In order to eliminate summer interviews and at the same time insure a quota of freshmen entrants, a new policy of admission requirements has been established by Dr. Milton G. Nelson, Dean of the College, and the Committee on Admissions.

Applications will be receivable only before April 1, and consequently the scholarship qualifications will be based upon the January regents marks. Admissions made at this time will be tentative.

The personal interview and physical examination will be given in Albany, but in certain localities a large number of applicants warrant it, these tests will be given at designated centers.

These interviews will take place between April 15 and May 15, and will include tests for speech and voice, and a physical examination given by a college physician. The results of these will form a personality score and applicants will be admitted provisionally in order of standing, until the established quota is filled.

SEB Issues Request For Senior Registration

The Story of Bona Aimes Who Cut Her Way to Fame

I cut, you cut, we all cut classes. When it isn't a necessity, it's a social custom. But whether it's due to a neglected assignment, or to keep a soda date, it's a cut. They count up. I'll tell you a little story about a girl who thought that the cutting was the quickest way to a success.

There once was a girl named Bona Aimes. She'd been one of those high school quiz kids, and so she came to college with home town blessings. She'd had to pinch a few pennies, but she promised herself she'd succeed.

She was a sweet kid and she pulled through her first year all right. Yes, she was one of those charming freshmen who learns all the answers without telling anyone about it. She went with the popular crowd and made one of the top sororities. She had talent too, in a number of things, and she knew how to talk to people.

That year Bona lived at the sorority house. That was really fun with evenings to spend chattering with the girls. She did have some history to do, but she could cut gym tomorrow and do it then. She was good in history anyway. She didn't worry a bit.

I-M Council Plans Basketball Season To Open Dec. 1

Games to be Played Each Tuesday, Thursday

Court Schedule Tough

It will be but a mere two weeks before the varsity basketball squad will trot out on the Clarkson court to inaugurate the 1942-43 basketball campaign.

As has been the custom in previous years, the team will open the season away, Clarkson Tech playing the host at Potsdam on December 4.

Besides the "Larries" and the "Techmen" the Eagles will meet such formidable foes as Niagara, Brooklyn Poly, and Pratt, all of whom boast teams of better calibre than the Statesmen.

Candidates Few

Colleges with a small number of male students find it difficult to compete in intercollegiate circles. To this, State is no exception.

This year will be a unique one, as far as basketball is concerned as it will probably be the first time that Coach G. Eliot Hatfield will not be forced to cut his basketball squad.

Upperclassmen On JV

Juniors and Seniors are desirable on the varsity but their presence on the Junior Varsity is far from acceptable.

McLaren On I-M Council

Intramural Council is at present making plans for the fall opening of basketball. Bill Marsland and Ed Reed are in charge of arrangements and hope to have the first games played by December first at the latest.

According to present plans the games will be played on Tuesday and Thursday nights on the Page Hall court. Two games will be played each night; the first beginning at seven and the second getting under way at eight.

The league will probably be stronger in manpower this year due to the emphasis put on sports in the new athletic training and a deep feeling of rivalry already being set into motion by several groups.

However, a strong loss will be felt if the College House cagers, who have won the trophy for the past three years, fail to enter a squad.

The number of teams is not known definitely as yet, but at least eight, and possibly ten, will appear. Each "frat" is expected to display its talent with individual teams as in the past. The men's Dorm will have one team at least, and plans are being made for a second if sufficient players respond to the call.

Captains of each of these groups are urged to turn in their lists of players as soon as possible to Marsland or Reed so that the schedule of games may be arranged.

MAA Probes Player Insurance

MAA council is now investigating the possibilities of providing insurance for varsity and intramural athletes. The council is determined to make some provision whereby medical funds will be available, should anyone be injured while participating in any sport supervised by MAA.

This investigation has been begun because of the recent hospital cases incurred in intramural football games. Serious injuries of this type had never before occurred, and no one knew just exactly how to meet the circumstances.

Gerber Wastes No Time

With Bevy of Pretty Nurses

After kissing some ten or eleven of his nurses goodbye, Moose Gerber left the Albany Hospital on Tuesday afternoon.

Just before leaving, Moose bid goodbye to Terry Smith, who has been his roommate for the past few weeks.

Basketball Squad Dwindling Rapidly As Hopefuls Drop

With three weeks of fundamental drills and light scrimmages already past, Coach Hatfield has his rapidly dwindling basketball squad practicing diligently for the December 4 opener at Canton.

Of the thirty odd candidates who answered Hatfield's first call, only twenty-two remain, permitting a maximum cut of two men if both varsity and junior varsity schedules are maintained.

Because of the small number of aspirants the strength of the junior varsity is going to depend greatly on the strength of the varsity.

It Could Be Warg

Thanksgiving vacation will end WAA's fall program and usher in the winter sports. Among these are ping-pong and bowling.

We would suggest that the Ping-pong tourney be conducted in this way. Let each house hold a preliminary tourney to pick a house champion.

At this point, we would like to say a word to the directors of WAA. The manner of conducting tourneys could be improved.

The number of hours which each student must have to obtain credit in any single sport have not been decided as yet and neither have the specific days and periods for each activity been arranged.

WAA Plans Program

At WAA's council meeting last Thursday, the captains for the winter sports were selected. They are as follows: Lois Dann and Mary Now, bowling; Pat Lathimer, swimming; Leda LaSalle and Florence Garfall, basketball.

As a member of the Committee of the Association of American Universities several years ago, Dr. Stoddard at that time along with his associates, formed a very favorable opinion of State College, its students, and organization.

When asked about the feasibility of a Student Union in the Farrell Mansion, he had the greatest respect for one.

In the field of sports, his theory was far each person to do what he could best.
