I thought back to the first day I had come to this place, unaware of and unprepared for what was to happen to me here.

Sybillyn Hoyle

There is, in my acquaintance, a pleasing young lady who has two turned up lips, always smiling, two beautiful dark brown eyes, two long brown pigtales, and fair skin with rosy cheeks. She has good grooming, spritely taste, and petite figure. This young lady has a great deal of attractiveness. She also has a fine sense of humor, a mind full of good ideas, eagerness in class, and interest in others. Although she is most of all kind and sweet, she has, also, a good disposition and a little generosity and honesty. Now you have the personality of a fine young lady.

A PERFECT EVENING

In my life I have never had a perfect evening although I have dreamed of one many times. It will start when I begin dressing for my first formal. My date will be a gentleman and someone I like very much. The ballroom will be decorated to carry out the theme of spring in the country. After the dance, my date, another couple and I will get into a car and go for a long drive ending up at a small, secluded restaurant where we will eat something and dance for a while. When my date (after taking the other couple home) brings me home, he will kiss me goodnight—a kiss that really means something. I will go to sleep and wake up in the morning with a wonderful feeling of happiness knowing that my first formal has been the most perfect evening I have ever lived through.

As most people know, we go to school to learn something. When I look at the pages and pages of notes accumulated during the year, I realize that with all the trouble my classmates and I have had we did learn something. We emerged from our toils enlightened and slightly confused with the world around us—but we are prepared to do it all over again—twice, as a matter of fact, because we still have to make it through our Junior and Senior years.

*“There will be time, there will be time
To prepare a face to meet the faces that you meet;
There will be time to murder and create,
And time for all the works and days of hands
That lift and drop a question on your plate;
Time for you and time for me,
And time yet for a hundred indecisions,
And for a hundred visions and revisions.”*

interested in a job after graduation?

If we were looking for a symbol of the telephone business, it would be the telephone operator. She is our first line of communications, important to the functions of her community and to the welfare of our nation. Operators have saved lives, prevented crimes and averted disaster by their expert handling of important calls. And in her normal, everyday work, she is the key person in the business and social activity transacted by phone.

YOU MAKE YEARBOOKS FUN HERE AT PROGRESS

in

"The City of Albany"

Working closely with you has been truly a wonderful experience. In the beginning there was nothing except enthusiasm, ideas and many blank pages. Upon this meager foundation you have built this beautiful memory book. Our work at Progress really is fun . . . because we enjoy, so much, getting to know such splendid faculty members and students as you.
