SUNYA MANAGEMENT SEMINAR SET FOR OCT. 15

A seminar on "Management by Objectives" will be held at State University of New York at Albany on Wednesday, Oct. 15, in Draper Hall of the downtown campus. Donald F. Favreau, associate director, Center for Executive Development and Public Safety Management will be leading the seminar, and the university's College of General Studies is the sponsor.

At the seminar, Mr. Favreau will discuss his successful experience at several companies in which he has applied the concept of management by objectives. The seminar is intended for executives, middle managers, and others, including general foremen, superintendents, office managers, regional sales managers, line or staff department heads, those who are managing other supervisors or managers and personnel officers, and it will provide participants with enough information to decide whether a given company could be using the method to improve its profits.

Professor Favreau has been in the field on industrial relations, manpower utilization, management development, and training for the past 20 years. Prior to coming to SUNYA, he was manpower coordinator for the New York State Department of Labor, manager of personnel development and training for the New York Stock Exchange, senior training coordinator for Ford Motor Company, and a faculty member of the Graduate School of Business Administration at Western Reserve University.

"GODOT" TO OPEN OCT. 8 AT SUNYA

"Waiting for Godot", described by the London Times as "one of the most noble and moving plays of our generation...", will be performed Wednesday-Sunday, Oct 8-12, in the Main Theatre of the Performing Arts Center at State University of New York at Albany. Samuel Beckett's play, the opening production of the State University Theatre's 1975-76 season, is being directed by James M. Symons, chairman of the department of theatre.

The action of the play centers on the frustration of waiting experienced by two hobos who arrive at an appointed place to meet someone named Godot. Along the way, they encounter a master and his slave whose presence helps to pass the time. Interestingly enough, one of the first successful productions of the play was presented at San Quentin Prison; its success seemed to be in the fact that it was performed by, and for, prisoners who particularly understand the anxiety of waiting.

"Waiting for Godot" will be presented Wednesday through Saturday at 8 p.m. and Sunday at 2:30 p.m. Tickets which are $3 general admission, $2 with a student identification card, and $1 with a student tax card, are available at the PAC box office, 457-8606.

MUSIC PROGRAMS SCHEDULED AT SUNYA

The music department at SUNYA will present two programs the week of Oct. 6. A program of "Music for French Horn," featuring Peter Knott, horn; Helen Ghiradella, piano; Lois Fishman, violin; and Irvin Gilman, flute, will held on Tuesday, Oct, 7 at 8:30 p.m. in the Performing Arts Center Recital Hall.

The program will highlight Brahms' "Trio Op. 40" for violin, horn, and piano. The performance also will include Alec Wilder's "Sonata No. 3" for horn and piano; G. P. Telemann's "Sonata in E Minor" featuring a seldom used combination of flute and horn; and Malcolm Arnold's "Fastasy" for solo horn.

Mr. Knott, principal horn player with Albany Symphony and the Berkshire Symphony Orchestras and faculty member of the Pittsfield Community Music School and Williams College, is participating in his first recital as new faculty member at SUNYA. Lois Fishman, Violin instructor at Union College, and Helen Ghiradella and Irvin Gilman, both SUNYA faculty members, are all musicians with the Albany Symphony Orchestra.

On the following two days, Oct., 8 and 9, Findlay Cockrell will present the second in his series of "Wednesday-and-Thursday-at-4 O'clock Concerts" in the Recital Hall. The program will be Brahms' "Variations and Fugue on a Theme of Handel" for piano and the piece on which it is based, Handel's "Air with Variations" for harpsichord. Admission to both concerts is free.

FRENCH LANGUAGE SCHOLARS TO ATTEND RENAISSANCE SYMPOSIUM AT SUNYA

As many as 100 French language scholars will be meeting at SUNYA next week for the fourth Modern Language Association Symposium on the Renaissance. The conference begins Thursday evening, Oct. 16, with a welcome reception at the Hyatt House and an official welcome by Vice President for Academic Affairs Phillip Sirotkin. Sessions will be devoted to the program theme, "Renaissance and The New Criticism."

The successful proposal for the program, being supported officially by the university, was prepared for the MLA by Ray Ortali, associate professor of French at SUNYA, who is serving as symposium director. Earlier, the 16th Century segment of the MLA, which meets each year in New York, had decided to have a special session somewhere in the United States devoted entirely to 16th Century studies.

Among leading French scholars expected are several from France. Many from the Northeast and Canada will be present, as well as others from colleges and universities throughout the country.

Literary works of Rabelais and Montaigne will be discussed. Most of the program participants are specialists on "Renaissance and The New Criticism" and there will be an open forum to discuss the new approach which is still controversial.

Other leading French scholars will be sending papers. They are from Princeton University and from France and Switzerland. Their discourses will express three different approaches to the new criticism.

Speakers on Friday, Oct. 17, in the Assembly Hall at the university's Campus Center will include Paul Zumthor, chairman of comparative literature at the University of Montreal, "Plurality of Discourse in the Grands Rhetoriquers"; Michael Riffaterre, chairman, Department of French, Columbia University, "Poetics of Imitation and the Concept of Intertextuality"; Alfred Glauser, professor of French at the University of Wisconsin at Madison, "The Abyss in Rabelais Considered As Scriptural Space"; and Paolo Valesio, professor of Italian at New York University, "Rhetorical Structure in Rabelais Within the Text and Outside the Text."

In the evening there will be a banquet at the Hyatt House and the film, "The Bible and The Sword," produced in France by the official archives in Paris will be shown. It is a scholarly account of the religious wars within France during the latter half of the 16th Century. There also will be a concert of 16th Century music presented by the French and music departments at SUNYA, and by the Department of Music at Vassar College.

At the Saturday morning session, Oct. 18, also in the Assembly Hall, Randolph Runyon, associate professor of French at Case Western Reserve University, will speak on "Montaigne, Another View," and Michel Beaujour, professor of French at New York University, will have as his subject, "Rhetorical Problems in Montaigne."

CANADIAN FILM SCHEDULED AT SUNYA

"Wedding in White," a Canadian film directed and written by William Fruet, will be presented in the Recital Hall of the Performing Arts Center at State University of New York at Albany on Oct. 17 and 18 at 8 p.m. as the first in a series of distinguished and acclaimed foreign films entitled "Prize International Cinema." The series is being sponsored by SUNYA's Office of University Affairs.

Both an unsettling drama about a working class family and a sensitive portrait of a Canadian village during World War II, "Wedding in White" tells the story of a young woman who is raped by her brother's army buddy and later forced to marry a middle-aged bachelor to preserve the family's honor. A moving study in human values, the movie depicts a world where men and women are defined by traditional roles which have grown obsolete. "Wedding in White" was selected by International Film Guide as one of the top ten films of 1974.

Judith Crist, of "New York Magazine," said of the film: "We are grateful! A penetrating and harrowing study...achieves emotional power."

Single tickets are available for $2 ($1.25 for students or senior citizens with identification cards), and series tickets are available for $10 ($7 for students and senior citizens) at the PAC box office. The box office is open 11 a.m. to 4 p.m. Monday through Friday and one hour before each performance.

SUNYA PROFESSOR CO-AUTHOR OF MEXICAN STUDY

Peter T. Furst, chairman of the department of anthropology at State University of New York at Albany, is co-author with Marina Anguiano, a Mexican anthropologist, of a study of the function of myth and ritual in the enculturation of Huichol Indian children in Mexico, which will appear in a book on traditional non-formal education and enculturation in Latin American Indian societies, to be published by the Latin American Center of the University of California at Los Angeles. The study also is being translated into Spanish for publication in Mexico.

Professor Furst, who joined the SUNYA faculty in 1971, formerly was associate director of the Latin American Center, UCLA. He received his doctorate from UCLA in 1966 and previously had studied at Reiman College of Art, London, and at Realgymnasium, Cologne, Germany.

NEW WEEKEND COURSE POPULAR AT UNIVERSITY CENTER

"It's a smash," said Arthur A. Hitchcock, professor-in-charge of the experimental Weekend Drive-In Course in "Current Issues in Counseling, Rehabilitation Counseling, and Personnel Services," offered by the Department of Counseling and Personnel Services of the School of Education, SUNYA, in the university's Education Building.

"Thirty students have registered for the course," Dr. Hitchcock continued, "and all are most enthusiastic. Since those enrolled in the course are all outsiders who are working, the course really is answering a need."

The three-credit course consists of five weekend programs, including late afternoon and evening sessions on Friday and morning and early afternoon sessions on Saturday.

The next session is scheduled to begin Friday, Oct. 24, when in the afternoon Thayer Heath, director, Group Home Program, and Steve Roberts, social worker, Albany Home For Children, will lead a discussion on "Multiple Family Therapy: Description and Demonstration." That evening Gilbert Moore, dean, School of Education, will speak on "Applying Career Education and Career Development Emphases."

NEW WEEKEND COURSE POPULAR AT UNIVERSITY CENTER

Saturday morning, Margaret Griffel, psychiatrist, will speak on "Working With Sexual Problems and Sexual Dysfunction" and Harold Howes, professor of counseling and personnel services and administrator of the course, will speak on "Planning Period for Students."

Saturday afternoon, David Horenstein, Rehabilitation Counseling Program, SUNYA, and Paula Wilson, project coordinator, Parent's and Children's Center, will head a discussion on child abuse.

At the group's Nov. 7-8 meeting, Sheldon Grand, associate professor, Counseling and Personnel Services, will speak on "Organizational Hurdles to Effective Professionalism: How to Manage Mis-Management." The program for the Nov. 21-22 class is still in the planning stage.

JIMMY BRESLIN TO SPEAK AT ALBANY UNIVERSITY OCT. 28

State University at Albany's Campus Center Ballroom will be the scene of an "epic tavern talk" by author, reporter, and barroom monologist Jimmy Breslin, on Tuesday, October 28, at 8 p.m.

In addition to more than two decades of award-winning newspaper reporting, Mr. Breslin is also the author of three novels, The Gang That Couldn't Shoot Straight, World Without End, Amen, and Can't Anybody Here Play This Game? The latter was the saga of the New York Mets' first season that led Breslin into a regular sports column for the New York Herald Tribune, and eventually into a syndicated general columnist for the new defunct paper.

The writer also is doing a thrice-weekly news commentary on New York television, and his prowess as a barroom monologist is legendary.

Admission is free with a student tax card and 50 cents without.

MUSIC TEACHERS TO CONVENE AT SUNYA

The New York State Music Teachers Association will hold a convention at State University of New York at Albany Friday through Sunday, Oct. 24-26, in the Performing Arts Center, co-hosted by District 6 of the NYSMTA and the university. Dorothy Morrow and Emily Lorraine, Albany area chairmen, are serving as convention chairmen.

The program for the convention will consist of workshops for teachers of applied music in piano, voice, orchestral instruments, and theory and composition. Local musicians participating in the workshops will be Angelo Frascarelli, Rene Prins, and Marjory Fuller. Among panelists addressing the Independent Music Teachers Forum will be State Senator Ronald Stafford, who will discuss Senate Bill No. 3485 as it relates to the music teaching profession.

Music students from throughout the state will be auditioning in high school and collegiate competitions. The winners will perform in concert on Sunday afternoon.

Friday evening the Dorian Trio will present a concert, and on Saturday evening Helen Boatwright, soprano, will give a recital entitled, "A Singer's Survey of American Song," accompanied by William Dale. At the Sunday afternoon finale, students from the Eastman School of Music will perform "Fantasy on Irish Airs," a NYSMTA-commissioned work by Miriam Gideon. The piece is a composition in three movements for oboe, viola, bassoon, and percussion.

UNIVERSITY AND COLLEGE GROUPS TO GIVE CONCERT AT ALL SAINTS CATHEDRAL

The University Community Orchestra, State University of New York at Albany, the SUNYA choruses, and the College of St. Rose Chorus will perform in concert at the Cathedral of All Saints, So. Swan St., Albany, on Monday, Oct. 27, and Tuesday, Oct. 28, at 8:30 p.m.

Soloists Patricia Danzig, soprano; Marjory Fuller, contralto; Stephen Osmond, tenor; and Terry Dwyer, baritone, also will perform. Nathan Gottschalk, chairman of the university's department of music, will conduct the orchestra; Mr. Osmond will conduct the SUNYA choruses; and Robert Sheehan will conduct the St. Rose Chorus.

Mrs. Danzig, a teacher of voice, piano, and organ, has studied at the Octavo School of Musical Art, the College of St. Rose, Siena Collège, and SUNYA. Recently she has appeared as a principal artist with the Lake George Opera Co., has served as a member of the Music Advisory Council at Schenectady County Community Collège, and has taught voice at Adirondack Community College.

Mr. Dwyer, a native of Rochester, received a bachelor of science and master of music degrees from Indiana University, where he sang in several productions of the I.U. Opera Theatre, including "Carmen," "Faust," and "Les Contes d'Hoffman." He also has appeared on educational television in Rochester and at the Aspen Music Festival as soloist in Bach's "St. John Passion" and "Cantata #131." Currently he teaches voice at Union College.

CONCERT AT ALL SAINTS CATHEDRAL

Mr. Osmond, director of choral activities at SUNYA, recently returned from conducting performances with the Shenendoah Valley Festival Orchestra in Virginia. After an audition with the Baltimore Symphony in May, he was chosen from more than 100 conductors to be one of the six full-time participating conductors with the festival. As a singer, Mr. Osmond has performed extensively in oratorio, recital, and opera. Before coming to SUNYA in 1974, he was at The Yale School of Music.

Ms. Fuller, a native of Arkansas City, Kansas, received a bachelor's degree from Ottawa University, Kansas, and a master's degree from Indiana University. A former faculty member at DePauw University, Indiana, she is a teacher of voice at SUNYA. She has performed a broad repertoire with numerous symphony orchestras, including many oratorios, and has played leading roles in more than 10 operas.

Admission to the concert is free and the public is invited to attend.

SEMINAR ON PENSIONS AT SUNYA

A one-day seminar on Defined Contribution Plans intended to comply with the Employee Retirement Income Security Act of 1974 will be held at State University of New York at Albany on Saturday, Nov. 1. The seminar is sponsored by SUNYA's College of General Studies and the Albany District Internal Revenue Service.

Reno S. Knouse, SUNYA, director of the seminar, said that the program is specific and limited to procedures in submission of, or amendment to, Defined Contribution Plans, including the preparation of Forms 5301, 5301-A, and 5302. Approximately 300 certified public accountants, attorneys-at-law, chartered life underwriters, public accountants, and others are expected to attend.

The program agenda includes Professor Knouse; Lewis P. Welch, vice president for university affairs, SUNYA; Stanley Goldstein, chief, Employee Plans-Exempt Organizations Division, Brooklyn Key District, Internal Revenue Service; T. F. Carr, assistant regional commissioner, Employee Plans-Exempt Organizations, North Atlantic Region, IRS.

Also, John J. STATE DEPARTMENT PLANS METRIC CONVERSION MEETING AT SUNYA

The New York State Department of Agriculture and Markets will host a metric conversion planning conference on Tuesday, Nov. 25, at State University of New York at Albany. The primary goals are to alert and inform the various state agencies relative to the impending use of the metric system and to study the financial, managerial, and political impact on state government as well as on industry and the citizens of New York.

According to Commissioner John S. Dyson, of the State Department of Agriculture and Markets, "The experience of conversion to metric weights and measures in other nations has shown us the importance of preparing the public. A concerted education effort is vital to a timely transition to metric living."

Tentative plans call for a morning session which will host various prominent speakers discussing metrication. Among those addressing conference delegates will be Jeff Olom, National Bureau of Standards; Adrian Weaver, chairman, American National Metric Council; and Paul Boire, executive director, Canadian Metric Commission. An afternoon session will consist of work shops which will study the effects of metrication on specific sectors of government, business, and industry.

The State Departments of Transportation and Education, the Cooperative Extension Service, Hudson Valley Community College, and SUNYA are working with the Department of Agriculture and Markets on the conference.

NEW ENGLAND PURITANS EXHIBIT AT UNIVERSITY LIBRARY

In the spirit of Bicentennial awareness, an exhibit of texts, portraits, and literature dealing with the New England Puritans from 1620 to 1750 is on display in the main cases of the State University of New York at Albany Library through Nov. 18.

Entitled "Major Figures of Puritan New England, 1620-1750," the exhibit features works of history, literature, theology, and philosophy. Among those represented are: William Bradford, Anne Bradstreet, Jonathan Edwards, Cotton Mather, Samuel Sewall, Edward Taylor, and Michael Wigglesworth. All items on exhibit are from the holdings of the SUNYA Library, and a brief, descriptive commentary accompanies each work.

An item of particular interest in the exhibit is a 1799 printing of Johathan Edward's "The Justice of God in the Damnation of Sinners," a sermon preached at Northampton, Mass., by the leader of the evangelical revival of Puritanism, also known as the "Great Awakening." The text, which is part of the Rare Book Collection of Special Collections in the SUNYA Library, is significant as a representative piece illustrating book-binding techniques during the late 18th and early 19th centuries in America.

Ronald Bosco, of the department of English, has organized and provided the commentaries for the exhibit.

FUTTERER LECTURER TO GIVE MARIONETTE PERFORMANCE

Peter Arnott, of Tufts University, has been selected as the annual Agnes E. Futterer Lecturer by the department of theatre, State University of New York at Albany. Professor Arnott will give a marionette theatre performance of "The Bacchae" of Euripides on Friday, Oct. 31, at 8 p.m. in the Studio Theatre of the Performing Arts Center. Admission is free; however, tickets are required and may be obtained from the departments of theatre and classics or by calling 457-8360.

Professor Arnott received a doctorate from the University of Wales in 1958. He is well known for his theatre scholarship as well as his marionette productions of Greek dramas. He has published several books and articles on the history of both the Greek and Oriental theatres.

The Agnes E. Futterer Lecture is funded by the Theatre Alumni. This year's presentation is also one of the scheduled events in the department of classics' series, "Focus on Classical Mythology." As part of that series, Hans A. Pohlsander, chairperson of the classics department, will lecture on "Dionysus and 'The Bacchae' of Euripides" on Monday, Oct. 27, at 7:30 in Humanities 354.

UNUSUAL ELECTRONIC MUSIC CONCERT SET AT SUNYA

The Free Music Store, State University of New York at Albany, will present a live electronic music concert by John Driscoll and Philip Edelstein on Wed., Oct. 29, at 8:30 p.m. in the Futterer Lounge of the Performing Arts Center.

Mr. Driscoll will perform "Bog Works," a sole composition for "custom built resonant loudspeakers and electronics," which utilizes tape recordings of frogs played on "unique speed controlled cassette machines." Both musicians will perform "Interfeed," a joint composition. The piece will be performed on two floors of the PAC, with Mr. Edelstein and Mr. Driscoll feeding sound material electronically back and forth to each other. They then will "process" the sounds and send them to loudspeakers or back to each other for further "processing."

Mr. Driscoll has been active in sculpture, dance, film and video, puppetry, electronic music, and intermedia. His present work focuses on the use of electronic systems for sound, movement, and visuals and includes a video, dance, and music project at WNET with Mr. Edelstein.

Mr. Edelstein, affiliated with the Electronic Music Studios at the Performing Arts Center at SUNYA, is media director for Electronic Body Arts, Albany. His work incorporates electronics of other programmable systems. Previous pieces have utilized synthesizers,

SUNYA MUSICIAN RECEIVES SECOND ASCAP AWARD

Joel A. Chadabe, associate professor of music at State University of New York at Albany, is the recipient of an American Society of Composers, Authors, and Publishers Award for 1975-1976 in recognition of his professional excellence in music. Mr. Chadabe received a similar award last year.

The ASCAP awards are granted by an independent panel and are based upon the unique prestige value of each writer's catalog and the performances of his compositions which are not reflected in the survey of performances.

Dr. Chadabe, composer and teacher of composition and related courses, is a graduate of University of North Carolina and the Yale School of Music, where he studied under Elliot Carter. He was a Ford Foundation artist-in-residence in Berlin, Germany, and a free-lance arranger and accompanist in Rome, Italy.

The musician has received grants from the Research Foundation of SUNY and from the Cultural Council Foundation. His compositions have been played throughout the United States and in Europe at concerts and festivals of new music. He is designer and director of the Electronic Music Studio at SUNYA.

NEW COURSE IN NURSING AT SUNYA

The School of Nursing, State University of New York at Albany, will be offering a new course entitled "Concepts of Professional Practice" for all registered nurses during the spring semester, which will begin on Jan. 22, 1976. The two-credit course will meet on Thursday afternoons from 4:30 to 6:30.

The course will examine selected theories and concepts which provide a philosophical basis for professional practice. It will explore the concept of behavioral stability, using the theory of stress and adaptation, and will emphasize use of the nursing process to develop a nursing diagnosis and plan of care.

Enrollment in the School of Nursing is not required of those wishing to take the course. Further information may be obtained by writing to School of Nursing, SUNYA, Albany 12222, or by calling 457-3312.

NATIONAL LAMPOON TO ENTERTAIN AT SUNYA

The National Lampoon, Inc., will perform in the Campus Center Ballroom, State University of New York at Albany, on Friday, Nov. 7, at 8 and 10:30 p.m. The University Speakers' Forum is sponsoring the event.

The National Lampoon magazine was published and created in 1970 by Twenty First Century Communications, Inc., after that company had worked with undergraduates at the Harvard Lampoon to produce a number of nationally distributed magazine parodies. Those undergraduates then joined with Twenty First Century Communications and started what has become the world's most widely read humor magazine, particularly among college students.

The National Lampoon also has cut records and produced a highly successful musical comedy, "National Lampoon's Lemmings." The company publishes a number of special editions each year, and "National Lampoon's High School Yearbook" is possibly the most successful newsstand publication of its kind, having sold over 600,000 copies.

Admission to the Lampoon show is $1 with a student tax card and $2 without.
