YOU SAID IT!

"Does it matter when I ask your teacher to dinner?"

"Sure. The exam is Wednesday. If I ask her Tuesday it will look like a bribe and Thursday will be too late."

CONGRATULATIONS!!!

There have been quite a few articles in the Crimson and White recently about how we act at basket-ball games, in assembly, and at Wagar's. At the last basketball game, I was glad to notice how well we acted. It was a great game, we were all excited, but we did conduct ourselves properly. After the game the majority of the crowd went up to Wagar's. There again we showed that we really did have some manners. Again may I say ----- congratulations.

HISTORY OF MILNE

A great many people have a desire to learn more about Milne. We have tried to help you out by supplying a history (or at least as much information as was possible to find) of our school.

Milne used to be located on Willet Street. After this burned down they moved some place downtown.

Last year was Milne's 47th commencement. However before this, it was known as the Normal High School. Following this it was called the High School Department of New York State College for Teachers. Later it was named after the president of the college at that time, Dr. Milne.

At one time Milne started with the kindergarten and continued thru high school. Then, starting in 1907, it was limited to the junior and senior high school. They had it for about six years and then abandoned it in favor of just senior high.

As this is the last issue of the paper, would all you students who are sweating and toiling over the future mid-terms, starting the day before. Heh! (JOKE. Some more like that and Benny will never have to worry about his job.) So after all youse folks recover we will proceed with the review of the future test.

"Now, will some one pupil tell me how many apples will I have left out of 23 if I eat 3."

"None and a Doctor bill," answered the star pupil as he slowly gathered his books and flew from the room before the teacher could remember to stop him and give the homework.

What individuals on the ninth day of last week faint from throwing ping-pong balls at airplanes?

I gave up. You try!

What certain person spent all night trying to write this article. Sputter, Sput-ter!

Recently a most enigmatical thing happened to a fellow Milne student. He was looking for an ensconced place to be alone. After many seconds he decided the only thing to do was not to look. The reason being that the assembly was over.

Pe, P.O., and P.O.. The "Pe" is a river in Italy. "P.O." is the abbreviation for Post Office with other modified forms. Yea man! Wow, "P.O." is the same thing as Please Omit. (This article).

Here is a sticker for you geniuses: (Southern style streamline) (Minus the E). Or is it spelt D-o-r-c-m-o-u-a-e-----.

What is the name of the song that has the same title as the famous story of the Bible? Good-bye Taa-Taa-TA-Taa-Ttt.

Parting is such sorrow but when the Radio calls "It's Earaches of 1939".

History of Milne (continued)

Now the junior high school has returned, and we all think Milne is one of the best schools in New York State.

A SUGGESTION

After Saturday night's basketball game, I heard several of our opponents remark "These Milne High People have no sportsmanship."

This hit me as rather a blow because I had just been thinking how well we had behaved. The girl went on, "Of course that doesn't apply to all of them, only a few. Isn't it a pity that two or three people have to give the school that reputation?" (cont. on page 3)

I know that I was eavesdropping but I just couldn't help it, I had to see what was wrong with Milne. Finally I reached the conclusion that these people weren't criticizing the school, only one or two boys and girls in it.

After listening to this conversation, may I make a suggestion? Let's be quiet when a team gets a free shot, and let's all stick together, and sit on the Milne side instead of the opponent's.

This is only a suggestion, but Milne has always had a good reputation as far as sportsmanship is concerned. Do you think it's fair for a few unruly boys to spoil that reputation?

Think it over!

DO YOU KNOW?

Do you know:

That not so long ago Miss Halter and Miss Crooks exchanged home-rooms?

That one of our handsomest Romeos got his dark complexion from spending one day under a sun lamp?

That the Junior High party is only 25 school days away?

That if you talk in assembly you will be reported?

That Professor Sayles "has his eye" on the "Hallflowers"?

That we may have several new clubs next semester?

That is you don't pass your Mid-Years it will be just too bad for you?

SUGGESTIONS WANTED

Every week when we make up this paper we try to put in it things that will appeal to all of you. We really want you to enjoy it. We hope that we have thus far succeeded. However, the paper is yours and we want you to help make it a good paper, so we ask you to give your suggestions to the "Crimson and White". If there is anything that you would like to have included in our paper or anything that you think could be bettered, we want you to let us know about it. Please do this, and we will try to make our paper a better and much more enjoyed one than ever before.

GIRL'S SEW CLUB

The new industrial Arts room will be ready for use in February. Pottery modeling metal work and various crafts will be taught under the supervision of Mr. Raymond and Miss. Martin.

Advanced Art students may sign up for craft work.

Both Junior and Senior High School people are invited to join the Crafts Club

"TEACHER'S NIGHTMARE"

Miss Mackey's ninth grade English class has published a booklet titled "Teacher's Nightmare." This booklet is composed of stories written by the class.

Anyone wishing to purchase a copy of this book may do so from any member of the English class. The price is five cents. There is only a limited number of these books to be printed, so you had better hurry and order your copy now!

"BESSIE BOOKBUG"

Today Bessie has been scouting around and guess what she discovered?

That: Mary Baker's pet book is The Call of the Wild by Jack London.

That: Carroll Boyce's favorite book is Byrd's Discovery and not Webster's Dictionary.

That: Chuck Locke must confess that Famous Funnies is "tops".

That: Little Women has had Marcus Myers in tears ever since he started it. And Jeanne Selkirk's choice is Daddy Long Legs by Webster.

Now I say tally-ho with a sincere wish that you'll find time between cramming and exams for at least one or two books from the library.

BIOGRAPHY OF MISS JOHNSON

Miss Lydia Antoinette Johnson was born in Oneida, New York. She was graduated from a high school in Norwich, New York, from State College, and from Columbia University.

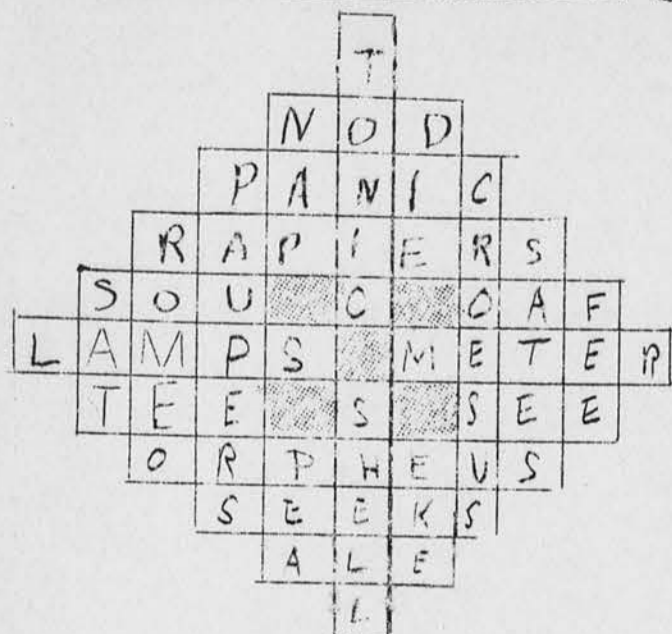

Miss Johnson has traveled in England, France, Switzerland, and Italy. While she was in Italy, she took a summer course at the American Academy in Rome. She enjoyed Italy, because they speak Latin in some parts. She also admired the ruins. However, she prefers to live in England because the living conditions resemble those in America very much.

Miss Johnson was with Milne when it was located in Draper Hall. She has been teaching here since 1912, 26 years. We hope she will be here for many more.

Answer To the Puzzle Last Week

"Millions of times but once a year and it means that spring is near"

But what can we do about clothes until spring comes? The same old things blossom but little every morning, skirts and sweaters --

We could be "sissies", so wailing to Mother, "Oh, tell her we haven't a thing to put on. Or we could be Mother's little princesses and wear the old ones.

Save your pennies and buy a few sporty collars. Buster Brown collars tucked into a dark sweater will alter it greatly. Bright colored boyish blouse with a skirt is a suggestion.

I bought a new jacket last week. They are delicious with that sweater and a skirt in the dresser for the last time.

In our next issue this article will be about the "ts". We will be glad to answer questions about them.
Put your questions in the Crimson and White drawer in the British office.

Here's to the in between season.

To the Crimson and White:

It was very kind of the Junior Crimson and White to grant me a Doctor's degree from France - but I haven't earned it yet! I spent my leave of absence studying at the Sorbonne University in Paris, and doing research work on Balzac at the Bibliotheque Nationale. I hope to finish my book in three or four years.

Venice is a beautiful and rather strange city, with canals instead of streets and gondolas to take the place of cars - but it is not the city which reminds French people of Paris. The city I named was Vienna, capital of Austria, once the gayest place in Europe.

I should like to state that I am the one who feels privileged and "honored" to have had the chance to teach in Dr.

Can't,

Syles' school with such a fine group of colleagues! As for "mes cloves". Well, they are "de bons enfants" most of the time and I think they really work quite hard - once in awhile.

H. M. Crooks.

To Miss Crooks:

We regret our mistakes in misquoting
Miss Crooks last week, and also the fact that her letter arrived too late to be printed on the editorial page. Thank you for correcting us.

High Adventure in a Hodge-Podge

(See if you can find the first names of sixteen junior high school boys and girls hidden in this article. Ex. The emptied ward was dull.)

Oh, it was a grand party. They posted the entertainment bill yesterday, and last night the thing came off. Ben came in with a banjo and a fiddle. They said he played the banjo excellently. When I saw him demure, I elbowed my way through the crowd and urged him to play. Everyone danced. A couple was trying to do the "big apple" ahead of us ruthlessly, with disregard for dignity and bobby pins.

Our hostess served a caramel batch of candy she said she had made herself. But everyone showed scorn at a lie like that.
It was good!

The party was nearly over when Pete blew in, late as usual, and said, "Hello, is everybody here?"

He was in high spirits and told us a story, something about Lawrence Tibbett typhooned in the sand for days while he watched a sandbar for a life boat that was trying to come and rescue him. It was really funny. Then there was another story about Charles Dickens. I don't remember that.

Marvin's a scream! He was so crowded that he said, "Don't crowd. Somebody get out on the edge, or get out of the room."

Then the orchestra played a few more dances, and then we all started to go home.
Oh well, it was a grand party, anyway.
