PROFESSOR TELLS OF STUDENT DAYS

Dr. J. L. Meriam Recalls Time When State College Was Normal School

Dr. Junius L. Meriam, professor of education at the University of California at Los Angeles, former State Normal student and instructor returns to the campus, this summer. Dr. Meriam attended this college in 1897 and 1898 when it was known as State Normal College located on Willett Street and offering a two year course.

In an interview today Dr. Meriam described the Normal College as comprising a student body of about 350, consisting mostly of women. He was one of forty-one graduate students, the greater number of whom were men. During the next two years he remained as instructor and critic teacher.

While principal of a school in Akron, Ohio, Mr. Meriam began to fight for real supervision as a means of improving instruction. He believed that young teachers should know the subject matter to be taught as well as the methods involved. In spite of a superintendent of schools who advised him to remain in his office during school hours and "super-vise after school", Mr. Meriam became a help to his teachers through supervision.

In criticizing over-emphasis upon method, he relates, "At one time I had the responsibility of supervising nature study in the elementary grades. As I entered a classroom one day, I heard the young teacher explain that the waving of the trees causes the wind to blow, and the harder the trees wave, the stronger the wind blows."

The University of Missouri called Dr. Meriam to be professor of school supervision. For the last seven years he has been teaching at the University of California at Los Angeles.

This summer as visiting instructor Dr. Meriam conducts classes in Educational Research Problems and Educational Values comprised mostly of graduate students actively engaged in teaching or supervision.

Dr. M. G. Nelson Welcomes Students To Summer College

Dear Friends of the 1931 Summer Session.

Welcome to State College! May profit and pleasure alike mark your summer here above all other worthwhile. Our resources are freely offered to help you in your preparation. May you drink deeply of the wealth of knowledge and wisdom that our libraries and our faculty have to offer. Teachers, we are glad to have you here, and we hope you will find it a most profitable and enjoyable experience.

M. G. NELSON
Director

FRENCH RECEIVES SUPERINTENDENCY IN NORTH ALBANY

Harold P. French, principal of the Menands School and former member of the summer school faculty of State College, was chosen District Superintendent of schools of the third supervisory district of north Albany County.

He has had a wide and varied school experience, furnishing a rich background of knowledge in his chosen field of work. This he gained as teacher and as principal of rural, elementary, junior and senior high schools, well fitting him for leadership in school circles.

This work has brought him in close contact with all parts of New York State: Genesee, Jefferson, Suffolk, Nassau, Clinton and Albany counties besides parts of New Jersey.

In addition he served as director of research in the Plattsburg public schools and instructor in the summer session at State College. He received his training in State College and his master's degree in Cornell.

Arthur E. Logan, a member of the faculty at Cortland Normal school, well served him as principal at the Menands school. Mr. Logan is now a principal for his master's degree here.

Dr. Smith To Conduct Three Historical Trips

Three tours to places of historical fame and interest will be conducted throughout the summer session by Dr. Donald V. Smith, assistant professor of history. The tours are being arranged for the students of the summer session and offer unlimited opportunities for teachers and undergraduate students, for acquiring themselves with the Hudson Valley and spots of historical importance throughout this vicinity.

A space has been reserved on the main bulletin board in the rounda of Draper hall where students may sign tickets may be bought in Room 203 or Room 103 on Tuesday, Wednesday, and Thursday of each week.

The first tour will be conducted next Saturday, July 18. A bus will leave the front entrance of Draper hall at nine o'clock in the morning. The bus will visit the Saratoga battle field, to Fort Edward, and will pass through Whitehall and from there to Fort Ticonderoga. The trip will last an entire day, so that young ladies may either be taken along or be purchased at Fort Ticonderoga. Thus far seven tickets have been sold for this trip.

TEACHES LIBRARY SCIENCE

Dr. J. L. Meriam, professor of education at the University of California at Los Angeles, former State Normal student and instructor returns to the campus, this summer. Dr. Meriam attended this college in 1897 and 1898 when it was known as State Normal College located on Willett Street and offering a two year course.

To Give Recitals

Dr. H. W. THOMPSON

Dr. Thompson To Give Recitals This Summer

Dr. H. W. Thompson, a member of English who gave recitals last summer session in addition to give recitals this summer. A petition signed by over 200 students of the college signed to have Dr. Thompson.

Where the recitals will be given has not yet been determined. Dr. Milton G. Nelson, director of the summer session, is endeavoring to obtain the use of the organ of the First Presbyterian church, located at the corner of State and Willett streets. If this plan succeeds the recitals will probably be given every Wednesday afternoon at five o'clock.

Alumni Of Plattsburg Plan Reunion Tuesday

A reunion of Plattsburg State Normal School alumni will be held at a picnic outing in Thatcher Park next Tuesday. A list has been posted on the main bulletin board in the rounda for the "coming up" of those who will attend.

The committee in charge is composed of Miss Margaret Pittinell, Miss Estera Brown and Miss Wilhelmina Semp. Approximately sixty Plattsburg alums are at the summer session and it is probable that many will be present. Mr. and Mrs. H. W. Thompson will be members of the group. Dr. J. L. Meriam, who is a part of the membership of our summer session, will be formerly a Plattsburg alumn.

For further information contact Draper hall, room 203, at 5:00 P.M.

1350 ATTEND 1931 SUMMER SESSION

This Year's Registration Breaks All Records of Preceding Summer Terms

Approximately thirteen hundred and fifty students have registered in the 1931 summer courses of State College summer session at the opening days of the session, according to a statement issued today by Dr. Milton G. Nelson, director of the session.

This sum represents an increase of four hundred over the registration of last year's students and five hundred over the enrollment of the summer session of 1929. It even exceeds the regular registration of the College by approximately two hundred. This total breaks all records for enrollment ever maintained in the summer courses at State. The total registration is more than fifty per cent in excess of the average enrollment for recent sessions, and exceeds by three hundred student the largest figure ever reached by any previous summer.

Despite the large number to register, the process was carried out with remarkable efficiency. Nearly all of the registration was completed in one day, 1931 for the session itself and for the individual courses of study pursued by each student.

"Education Becomes Professional"

The influx this summer is typical of the trend in educational circles today, said Dr. Nelson, when asked to comment on the increase. "Year by year, education is becoming more and more professional," he said. "State certification standards are increasing, boards of education are urging teachers to brush up professionally, and the teachers themselves are feeling the need for modern training in the methods and content of the subjects they are teaching. An over-supply of teachers in the various branches of the profession, has made competition keen, and jobs are going to those best prepared to hold them. Financial inducements are being offered by many schools systems to those teachers who are willing to give up their summers to professional improvement. In increasing numbers, teachers of experience are being urged to attend summer school at least every fourth or fifth summer."

It appears that teachers are registering more often than every fourth summer. Classes are very large, and in some departments the need for a readjustment of the curricula has been felt. New instructors have been added to facilitate the work. In the library school, where limited facilities held enrollment to twenty-five teachers, more were turned away than could be admitted.

Not only are the teachers returning to advance education, but the under-graduate basis of the college and other schools and departments, and out of New York State, are being represented. A large number of students are attending the summer session. The great increase in enrollment is being met by the addition of new rooms and by the use of the old building.

PROFESSIONAL GROWTH

In the first few days at summer session it has been impressed on us more than ever before that teaching is really a profession. Those who realized it before now appreciate it more fully, and those who did not consider it before are beginning to awaken to that fact.

When we see large numbers of teachers or prospective teachers combining their efforts to find better methods to help high school pupils, to solve problems of importance, and to increase their knowledge for the benefit of the younger generation, can we help but realize that we are professionals?

Just as physicians study new devices for medical and surgical care, just as lawyers seek new methods of approach on legal and criminal law, so teachers seek new ideas to administer teaching.

In all professions we find many capable and well-fitted people, and this is no less true of the teaching profession. If there is strength in numbers as the registration at this year's summer session indicates, the profession which State College represents should indeed be strong.

Faculty Volley Ball Men Issue Challenge

A faculty team of six men this week faces a challenge through the News to a team of students to play a game of volleyball on the college campus during the week of July 27 to August 1. The definite date will be determined when the challenge is accepted.

If a student team organizes to accept the challenge, arrangements may be made through the office of Dr. M. G. Nelson, director of the summer session.

If You Ask Me—

(Each week the inquiring reporter will ask students questions, the answers to be given by the students.)

Question: To what do you attribute the increased enrollment in this session of summer school?

Grace Brady: "Many schools offer increments of salary to teachers who attend summer sessions. State College standards are rapidly being recognized as exceptionally high and there is no better reason."

Melanie Esmer: "A great many high school principals are requiring their teachers to attend summer school in order to hold their present positions."

Katherine Kennedy: "Teachers who have better positions during the year feel that attendance at summer school may enable them to obtain positions for the coming year."

Virginia Kooni Shuman: "The field of education is a progressive one, and with so many teachers in the field competition is keen and therefore summer school."

Madge Green: "I think that the increase in enrollment is due primarily to the business depression. People who otherwise take summer positions are trying to find worthy use of their leisure time."

Clara B. Springstead, assistant superintendent of schools in Amsterdam: "I consider the increased enrollment due to the economic conditions of the times. Married women must make a living. The tendency of the state department to increase the requirements of teachers, principals, and supervisors, and nearly all teachers, are realizing that they need continued study to meet the requirements of progressive education."

Division Made Necessary In English Six Course

Due to the large enrollment in the English course S-1-C, the class was forced to divide. Mr. Louis J. Wolner, a graduate of this college in 1907 and now a teacher of English in the Honger Free Academy at Honeoye, New York, is instructor of the new section. Mr. Donald Anderson, instructor in English, teaches the first section.

GREGG MAN TO SPEAK

Mr. Gregg, a representative of the State Education Department, will speak at the evening session of the summer session on the subject of "The State Department and the Teacher." He will also discuss the new requirements for the State Education Department and the requirements necessary for a school librarian. The lecture was followed by a tea given in the Library School rooms.

FACULTY ATTEND PICNIC

Members of the faculty were scheduled to attend a picnic dinner at the Teacher State Park last evening. This was the first group social activity of the summer session for the instructors.

Dr. Smith To Conduct Three Historical Trips

The second tour will be conducted Saturday, July 25. From the front entrance of Draper hall, a bus will leave for Lebanon to visit Our Lady of Lourdes shrine. From there the trip will extend to Deerfield through Pittsfield. At Deerfield the party will visit the Indian Museum. From there the bus will continue to Northampton passing the Calvin Coolidge residence and the Smith College campus. Continuing the tour will pass over Mount Tom, one of the higher of the Berkshire peaks in Holyoke state park. The return will be made over the back road through North Adams and Williamstown passing through the Williams College campus to Deerfield and Albany.

The third and last of the first round trips will be made to the United States Military Academy at West Point on Saturday, August 4. The bus will leave at nine o'clock and will return at ten o'clock. The tourists will remain at the academy to see the evening dress parade. The return will be made over the Bear Mountain bridge.

The cost of the trips is $2.50 each. Students who are interested in taking any one or all of these tours are requested to sign on the bulletin board immediately as a minimum of thirty students is required before anyone of the tours will be attempted.

College House Has 16 Roomers This Summer

Following the attempts of Wallace Strevell, '29, Carl Waterman, '29, and Robert Barium, '30, the first non-fraternal group house for men was founded three years ago. Since its founding College House, as it is called, has been situated on different sites. The first house was located at the corner of Robin and West Streets. Two years ago, in September, the house moved to its present location, 134 Central Avenue.

This is the second summer that the house has been opened for the summer session students. This summer there are sixteen students living at College House. The house manager for the summer is Alfred W. A. deG. '30.

Supervisor Speaks At Librarians' Tea

The State Education Department, State Library and Archives, State Department of Weights and Measures, State Department of Health, and the State Library, Education Department and State Education Department, will attend the requirements necessary for a school librarian. The lecture was followed by a tea given in the Library School rooms.

The committees for the tea were: catering, Edwin Browne and Wilma Ryan; plan, Bertha Wornham and Ina Nichols; serving, Mary Munsey, Margaret Callow, Katherine Deak, and Miriam Wade; flowers, Elizabeth Metcalf; invitations, Ethel Nichols; Carol Kelley.

TERRILL SPONSORS TELEPHONE FILM

Students Invited to Witness
Demonstration July 27
at 2:30 o'Clock

The opportunity is to be presented to students of the summer session to attend a motion picture demonstration to be given by the New York Telephone company in the auditorium of Page hall, probably on the afternoon of July 27 at 2:30 o'clock. This demonstration is being arranged by Chester J. Terrill, assistant professor of education with the cooperation of Dr. M. G. Nelson, director of the summer session. It will be open to all students of the college and prominent in both educational and interesting.

Although the exact nature of the demonstration has not been fully decided on at the time of publication of the News it will undoubtedly incorporate a pictorial interpretation of some present day problem along with an oral explanation. This demonstration should be of particular interest to all who are now teaching or who expect to be teaching soon. According to all reports, the Telephone company has made these demonstrations so interesting and instructive that they are proving quite as popular as anything of the type yet devised. There will be a notice posted on the bulletin board in the rotunda if any change is made in the time.

Administrators Plan To Discuss Problems

A plan is under way for a round table discussion of administration problems by the administrators who are in the secondary school administration course. The plan was suggested by Dr. M. G. Nelson, director. It is planned to meet some afternoon and have an informal discussion of school administration problems. Outstanding in the state department may be invited as speakers. The administrators will meet probably every afternoon or alternate days.

EDUCATION DEPARTMENT DISCUSSION

In the "Problems of Secondary Administration" class, Dr. R. H. Van Hook, instructor, selected a group of students composed mostly of administrators, if they could agree on a "round table" discussion of administrative problems. Practically all the members of the class raised their hands. Then Mr. Van Hook asked if the men would favor going out on a picnic (start some afternoon). "Yes, and behold!" out of the same group of students only five or six favored the picnic.
