(To be continued next week)

THIS IS Brigadier General H. N. Gilbert, U.S.A., director of the War Department's Office of Dependency Benefits in Newark. His office sends out more than 4,000,000 checks each month in allotment-of-pay and family allowance payments, to the families of Army men. General Gilbert wears the Distinguished Service Cross, Distinguished Service Medal, Order of the Purple Heart, and is struggling with the problem of getting out an ever-increasing quantity of work with a drastically reduced staff.

ODB Ideas Wanted!

NEWARK—The Office of Dependency Benefits is in the market for ideas—and is willing to pay its employees up to $250 for suggestions which will improve the operations of the office.

And an idea which will save large sums of money may pay the employee up to 5 percent of the savings to the Government.

On each floor of the building is a "suggestion" box. And to make sure that all ideas are judged anonymously, the official blank on which the suggestion is submitted carries a number—no name. The employee who drops his plan into the box retains a numbered stub which will identify him if his idea is put into effect.

Committee Meets Weekly

The ODB "Ideas for Victory" committee will meet weekly and consider all employee suggestions. Major Edward H. Hamet, executive officer of the fiscal division; Captain Joseph C. Wotowa, of the control branch; and Carl C. Redinger, chief clerk of the service division, are serving on this group.

If they think an idea has merit, they submit it to the chief of the ODB division which it may effect. If it gets the nod there, it goes to Brigadier General H. N. Gilbert, head of the ODB. When the suggestion goes into operation, the employee gets paid. But, if it's an idea that can be applied to other branches of the War Department, it will be forwarded to the War Department Board of Civilian Awards, and there's no stated limit to the reward which the employee may get.

Types of Ideas

These are the type of ideas the ODB is looking for:

1. To conserve manpower, time or space.
 2. Eliminate unnecessary processes, or improve existing methods.
 3. Improve conditions affecting safety and health.
 4. Increase production.
 5. Also, the invention of any mechanical device which proves of value.
 6. Improve morale of employees, or relations with the public.
- Rewards paid at the ODB will range from a low of $5 to the $250 top, but there is no limit on the number of cash awards any single employee may receive.

"This campaign provides every ODB employee with an opportunity to show what his or her imagination and initiative can contribute to the war effort," said General Gilbert, discussing the new campaign for ideas from the staff.

Gallon Club

An ODB employee has joined one of America's most exclusive clubs. It's the "Gallon Club" of the American Red Cross, and Mrs. Mamie Heider Hull is the new member. She's joining Miss Frances V. Menefee of ODB. Both have given four quarts of blood to the ARC, and wear the "red ribbon" decoration of the organization.

These are the two leaders of the 322 ODB workers who make regular blood donations to the Red Cross.

ABSENTEEISM Clean Bill

WASHINGTON—Federal employees got a pretty clean bill of health here this week on the subject of absenteeism.

A special committee of the Council of Personnel Administration brought in a report on the matter. It had made a six-month's study. Its general conclusion: Most absenteeism in Government is not the fault of the employee—but definitely the fault of management.

At the same time, the committee offered a number of recommendations for the correction of absenteeism.

Here are the 6 most important:

- More and better medical programs to safeguard the health of employees.
- Safety programs to prevent accidents.
- Better training programs for supervisors. If the supervisors are on their toes, the committee said, employees will be on their toes, too.
- Better orientation programs for newcomers. The committee said too many employees never have their job really explained to them.
- Elimination of unnecessary work.
- Better scheduling of work. Again, that's a job for the supervisors.

What Does It Cost in N. Y.?

By CHARLES SULLIVAN

Recently, the employee services unit at Office of Price Administration in Washington worked out two sample budgets for Government girls—one for a $1,620 girl, the other for a $1,440 girl. That's fine for Washington.

But what does it cost in New York? The Civil Service LEADER would like to know how Government girls here (and men, too) allot their living expense.

POSTAL Order of Postal Merit

The work of the Post Office has been a "remarkable achievement" during 1943. That's the gist of a message from Postmaster Frank C. Walker to the postal employees.

Looking back, the Postmaster General cited the difficulties under which the department had to operate. Depleted forces, inexperienced personnel, gasoline and rubber restrictions, restricted air and rail service, and economy measures, all coincided with an unsurpassed volume of mail, but the work was carried on efficiently, he reported.

Giving credit to the old-timers on the force, who he said make possible the high standards of the work, he proposed the formation of The Order of Postal Merit. Veterans of twenty years or more in the postal establishment would be eligible for membership, and would receive insignia and certificates of membership.

Postmaster General Walker said that he was appointing a committee to discuss this suggestion with representatives of postal organizations, and if found practicable, to start work on the project.

Salary Front

On the salary front, Mr. Walker said that the Post Office had the lowest percentage of employees receiving over $3,800 a year among all Government agencies. "It may be that we are too low in this in this respect," he added.

The salary schedule of the Post Office indicates that the average postal worker is in the $2,000-$2,500 class, and that a large group fall under the $1,200 salary class.

EXAMS

No Swarm Of Applicants

Approaching the half-way mark of the application period for the present series of examinations for City jobs, the Civil Service Commission wasn't swamped with applicants, but they expect the lists to be swelled by a last-minute rush as usually happens.

There has been considerable interest in the stenographer and bookkeeper tests among Federal civil service employees, who are looking towards the future, and feel that a place on City list of eligibles will represent insurance against post-war unemployment. Many applications, the Commission reports, have been taken out by Federal employees, and when they are turned in, they will add substantially to the number of candidates.

Here is the number of filings during the first week of the application period, which closes September 28:

- Stenographer, grade 2, 125.
- Bookkeeper, 166.
- Radio Dramatic Ass't. 2 additional, total 46.
- Clerk Grade 3, Prom. 15 additional, total 3,357.
- Clerk Grade 4, Prom. 4 additional, total 1,464.
- Junior Administrative Ass't. IBM, 2.
- Claim Examiner (Torts), Grade 3, 3.
- Claim Examiner (Torts), Grade 4, 5.
- Cashier Board of Trans. Prom., 30.

You Apply for Test, Uncle Sam Grabs You—So What's Next?

Many candidates for civil service jobs with the City find themselves wearing Uncle Sam's uniform when the test for which they had applied is given.

What to do about them came up at the Commission's meeting last week.

It is required by State Law that special examinations be given candidates for promotion tests who are unable to appear because of absence in the armed forces.

But the rules of the Commission include this: "No candidate shall be given a second or special competitive test in connection with any examinations held, unless it be shown to the satisfaction of the Commission that his failure to take such test was due to . . . Compulsory attendance before a court or public body or official having the power to compel attendance. . . ."

"The United States Government has the power to compel the attendance of candidates for military service when they are reached in the draft," said Miss M. B. Upshaw, director of examinations, who thought that this ruling would assure special examinations for all open-competitive candidates who miss a test because they are in the armed forces.

She asked the Commission to clarify the matter, but they decided to let it rest for a while, and will decide the standing of these candidates at some later date.

At present a person who has entered the service before the date of an examination for which he has filed is advised by the Commission that he has two alternatives.

1—He is provided with a form to fill out which withdraws his application for the test, and gets him a refund of his fee. He is also advised "Please do not inquire about the return of the fee, as some time may pass before its refund."

2—He is advised to sit tight and wait till after the war, in the hope that some legislation will be passed setting a procedure for the treatment of candidates for civil service jobs who are on military duty.

VETERANS Ask Security

A resolution that World War II veterans who left war-service civil service jobs be granted job-security as promised by President Roosevelt and prominent members of Congress was introduced at the National Convention of Disabled American Veterans by Bronx Chapter delegates. The meeting was held last week at the Hotel New Yorker.

Another motion of the Bronxites asked that disabled civil service veterans be granted jobs of like seniority, promotion opportunities, etc., with consideration of their service-connected disabilities.

Attending as representatives of the uptown borough were: Paul Modest, Robert Queen and Harold Foster, all of the Veterans Administration.

Preference Asked

"Preference in Civil Service to all honorably discharged veterans of the armed forces; this to apply to entrance examinations for civil service, promotion in grade, and retention in grade."

Thus reads one of the planks adopted last week in a 10-point program for veterans by the Legislative Committee of the Brooklyn Council, Veterans of Foreign Wars.

LISTS NYC Rosters

Chief Medical Officer

Dr. Edward C. Costelloe was promoted to the position of chief medical officer in the Fire Department with the rank of deputy chief. He was No. 2 on the list of three eligibles sent to Fire Commissioner Patrick Walsh by the Civil Service Commission. Top man, Dr. Arthur Wilson declined. Number 3 was Dr. John J. Hill.

Cleaner-Men

Department of Marine and Aviation got 19 names to fill one "probable permanent" vacancy at $1,320. Brooklyn College and College of the City of New York are also about to make appointments from this list. The last number reached for certification was 202.

Clerk, Grade 1

Department of Hospitals got this list to make military replacements (temporary positions) at $1,200. But other departments haven't had any luck trying to get persons on the list to take jobs on a temporary basis. Last number sent in was 4525. To fill 5 permanent positions at $1,200, Hospitals got 57 names, last number 3406. Finance Department is also trying to fill military vacancies from this list.

Patrolman, P.D.

This list was exhausted, but two names were restored to the list and certified to the Police Department. They are Peter Stangarelli and Fred A. Schauder.

Trackman

Six names were sent to the Board of Transportation for permanent appointment at 75 cents an hour. Number 1835 was the last reached.

The Job That Wasn't There

The City Civil Service Commission last week gave its blessing to the positions of temporary patrolman and temporary fireman.

This meets the technical requirements and clears up the former queer situation under which civil service examinations were given, and appointments made, to a position which didn't legally exist.

Now, temporary cops and firemen are declared to be City employees for the duration, plus six months.

THE STAFF VICTORY COMMITTEE of Welfare Center 73, at 163 Bradford Street, Brooklyn, is so proud of its record of home front activities that the boys and gals have gone and gotten themselves photographed. Since Pearl Harbor, this small group of City workers has contributed 85 pints of blood, raised $3,200 in war fund drives, purchased $56,242.15 in stamps and bonds, and has sent 44 men and three girls to the armed forces. Their volunteer knitters have made 57 helmets, 32 sweaters, 22 pairs of socks and 14 pairs of gloves. The following are members of the active group who head war activities at the Center: First row, left to right—Muriel Katz, Sarah Felker, Virginia O'Neill, Mildred Licht. Second row—Fanny Edelman, Winifred Sharkey, Esther Sustrin, Gertrude Zavin, Anna Levine, Beryl Beringer (Chairman). Third row—Dorothy Curran, Betty Sheinbaum, Helen Mazur, Esther Finkel, Martha Harlick, Irma Bellick. Last row—Jack Berkowitz, Anne Sacks, Mary Strongin, William Jacobs.

UNIONS AFL Council Appoints Ranen

The Civil Service Committee of the Central Trades and Labor Council, AFL, has announced the appointment of Ellis Ranen as a member of the body's Brooklyn Non-Partisan Committee.

Mr. Ranen is regional director of the American Federation of State, County and Municipal Employees.

More for the War

"The problems facing public management today in manpower and production are caused by public management's failure to make their personnel feel a part of the war effort." That, and how to win cooperation from public management to this end, will be the basic discussions at the Third Biennial Convention of the State, County and Municipal Workers of America (CIO) meeting in Cleveland at the Hotel Carter, September 22-25. Delegates from 228 locals of the SCMWA will assemble in

Navy Yard Seeks Clerks, Messengers, Storekeepers

Clerical help is needed at the Brooklyn Navy Yard. They have openings now for 100 clerk-typists, and are paying $1,752 a year, about $34 a week, to persons with very limited experience.

Candidates must be over 16, American citizens, not now employed in an essential job. Upon applying, they will be given a simple test; they have to be able to type neatly about 30 words a minute.

The work-week at the Brooklyn Navy Yard is 48 hours a week for these employees.

Cleveland to participate in discussion of an agenda which includes such subjects as how to help solve war problems through Labor-Management Committees; how to stabilize production; how to win collective bargaining for the local government worker; how to raise standards of wages, hours, working conditions from the national low of $100 monthly. These delegates represent 38,500 organized workers, says the SCMWA.

They'll work regular hours one month, and a 5 p.m. to 1 a.m. late shift the next.

Hiring is being done at the Federal Civil Service Commission, 641 Washington Street, 1026, 9 a.m. to 5 p.m. daily, except Saturday, when you apply from 9 to 12.

Messengers, Too

There is also a need for 25 messengers at the Navy Yard. These jobs pay $1,500 a year, and work is on the day shift only.

Junior storekeeper jobs are also open. The pay is $34 a week, and some experience in stock work in a store or plant is required. For the last two jobs apply at Room 540, at 641 Washington Street.

All of these jobs are war-service, civil service appointments, which must end six months after the duration.

Over-Quota On Administrators

There is excitement and rumor and counter-rumor floating around the offices and branches of the Department of Welfare these days.

"We're over-quota on administrators," department officials say, "and we're considering what to do about the situation." The officials won't admit that there have been any lay-offs, or that layoffs are pending, but at least one administrator, Maud M. Hamilton, has been notified that she is about to be demoted to case supervisor, and her attorney is taking the matter up with the Civil Service Commission.

How It Happened

She charges that she is not next in line for dismissal or reduction on grounds of seniority. Here's what happened:

She took an examination for the administrator's job. The Civil Service Commission notified her that she had failed.

Then she appealed on the grounds that the Commission had made an error in marking the paper, and she won the appeal, was placed on the list, and appointed.

But this process took about three months, and during that time there were other appointments made to the upper-bracket jobs.

Now she says that her seniority should rate from the date when she would have been appointed if the Commission hadn't gummed up the works, which would put her higher up on the list, and put someone else under the axe.

The department bigwigs are still maintaining a discreet silence about the matter of laying off any $3,000-a-year-plus employees.

LAW DEPT.

Quick Fill-Ins

Law Department needed a couple of clerks, grade 1, to fill in as military replacements.

They offered the jobs to people on the eligible list, but those persons couldn't see taking a $1,200 job on a temporary basis.

Then they posted notices around the office asking the staff to recommend the jobs to anybody they knew who might be interested.

The spots were filled in a few days.

HEALTH

Baumgartner

Gets It

Direction of the program of assistance to wives of service men who need maternity aid has been placed in the hands of Dr. Leona Baumgartner.

This is a new addition to the many department jobs already held by Dr. Baumgartner. Her present positions include: Director, Bureau of Child Hygiene; Day Care Agencies and Institutions; Foster Homes; Maternity Service; Midwives; and now the new job.

The Health Department will handle the task of providing hospital facilities and other assistance to wives of men in the service. The Federal Government pays the bills.

Unfilled Job

The Chief Clerk post in the Health Department, vacant since Matthew A. Byrne was promoted to Secretary of the Department, is still vacant, and will probably remain unfilled.

The department hasn't asked permission of the Budget Office to fill the spot. If it asked, there's a question whether it would be allowed to make a promotion.

The Budget Office seems to feel that Mr. Byrne, with his new title, can still perform all the essential functions of his old position, too.

SUBWAYS

Aliens Accepted

Aliens are now being accepted for laboring jobs in the City Subway System. The City Civil Service Commission has given its approval, and the hiring office at Room 1, 250 Hudson Street is awaiting men who are qualified for the jobs, and who are friendly aliens.

The board pays 75 cents an hour, and the work-week is between 45 and 48 hours, depending on the division to which the man is assigned. About 100 men are currently needed.

Two positions are open: Trackman: The work is with gangs on the tracks. Men must be strong physically, pass a simple mental test, know how to handle heavy tools.

Maintainer's Helper, Group B: (Coal Passer), to work in the BMT and IRT powerhouses. Same qualifications as for trackman.

These positions are called "temporary," but will probably last as long as the war.

Men must be deferred from the draft, or over thirty-eight. Those up to fifty-five or sixty, who can do the hard work, will be accepted.

Accountant Post Goes Competitive

The City Civil Service Commission last week placed the position of chief accountant on the Board of Transportation in the competitive class. The position had formerly been an exempt job which could be filled by political appointment.

HOW TO PREPARE TODAY TO COMPETE FOR TOMORROW'S JOBS

Competition is an old story to government workers; there will be even more of it after the war—keen competition for new jobs, for promotion, perhaps for the very job you hold now.

How well you meet the challenge of tomorrow's competition depends on what you do today. The future offers not fear, but rich opportunities, to men and women university-trained in a specialized business skill.

Whether you ultimately decide to use such skill to win promotion in Government service or to make a career in business, you can prepare now to fill a significant place in tomorrow's world. Choose from among the specialized fields listed below.

General Bradley's Column

By

Brigadier General John J. Bradley (Ret.)

Assignments to Army Training and Job

This is a continuation of General Bradley's series of articles dealing with education in the armed forces. They will appear in several succeeding issues, and cover the various opportunities available to servicemen and women to continue their peacetime training, learn new skills, go to college. Many questions have been received from readers concerning this data. General Bradley cannot undertake to answer them individually. However, those questions of general interest will form the basis of additional articles in this column.

The armed services are interested in two things about new men: How will they behave in battle? and What military job will they do best? The first question can be answered only in combat. The answer to the second depends on classification and assignment officers.

The Army and Navy classification systems have absorbed the lessons of twenty years of industrial personnel work and the procedure of forty years of psychological testing. Yet classification is still a hard job. By civilian standards, Army and Navy life is abnormal. Civilian jobs are represented in the armed forces by service jobs, but an efficient Army or Navy requires a maximum of combat troops and the barest minimum of service troops to keep the combat units in operation. Furthermore, war demands that the serviceman be classified and assigned to the position where he will do the Army or Navy most good, not necessarily to the one which will do him most good.

The problem is to fit the skills and talents of a man to the needs of the armed services at a particular moment. If the focus of warfare changes from deserts to jungles, the assignment officers will get requisitions for different kinds of troops. When a new division is being formed it will ordinarily draw its troops from near at hand. One soldier may have the same needed skill as another, but if the latter can be more quickly put into the combat team, the former must be utilized in another way.

Suppose the inductee is a highly trained teacher. The Army needs only a very few teachers. Between February, 1942, and March, 1943, it was getting about six teachers per thousand inductees. If the inductee was one of those, he had about one chance in a hundred of using his teacher's training in the Army.

During the same period, the Army was getting 27 sales clerks per thousand inductees. It needs practically no sales clerks. It was getting a number of lawyers and needing practically none. But it was getting five cooks and needing 25, 14 automobile mechanics and needing 18, less than one airplane mechanic and needing 30 or more. In general, any mechanical skill can be used in the Army and Navy; there is no excess of mechanical skills. But the professional men (outside of medicine and dentistry) and the so-called white collar workers may have to turn their abilities into different channels.

SOME INTERESTING FACTS

The Army has found out some interesting things about the relation of civilian occupations to military ones. For example, certified public accountants have become excellent mess sergeants—better, in many cases, than men who have been club stewards in civilian life. Musicians have repeatedly been found to do better at radio work in the Army than some experienced radio "hams." When an unusual number of failures was reported by one Army school for cooks, at which most of the students had been cooks in civilian life, it was found that these men had been working as cooks only because they could not get other jobs they preferred.

Personnel is never static. A man who promises to be an excellent mechanic or machine gunner when he enters the service may within a few months develop aptitudes that make him a potential anti-aircraft gunner, tank commander, or officer candidate. Therefore, classification must be a continuous process during the entire period of an enlisted man's active service.

Proper classification will help to use the inductee's technical skills where they are most needed, send him to the right special schools, minimize the number of his transfers from regiment to regiment, job to job, and keep his and his fellow soldiers' skills and talents so catalogued that any unique combination of special skills and talents—for example, an airplane mechanic who speaks Chinese—can be promptly located when needed.

PUBLIC WORKS Soldiers Write

Letters from employees of the Department of Public Works who are in service are circulating around the office, and every man and woman who writes in is sure of getting a flock of letters in reply.

Here are some extracts from the latest batch of mail traveling around the 18th floor of the Municipal Building:

WAC Dorothy Besswanger, ex-clerk, hopes that she'll get into the Army radio school, and then to a post in communications.

Lieut. David Halpern, U.S.A., ex-clerk, doesn't say where he is, but he tells about the Arabs in the neighborhood, and that he's thinking about malted milks, ice cream sodas, and the Astor Bar.

William Cesario, U.S.N., ex-messenger, at a training station, thanks the gang for the package they sent him, but sounds surprised to find that sailors have to hike too.

Ben Kurzrok, ex-clerk, reports that he's turning into a crackerjack mechanic with the Army Air Forces.

Paul Corbett, ex-clerk, calls his spot in the Mojave Desert a "foreign legion outpost." He originally went into service with the National Guard, and he's been transferred to an "ack-ack" outfit.

PARKS

Aid to Kids

They want to be able to give camp vacations next year to a bunch of kids who otherwise won't have much of a summer, so the St. George Association of Parks is pushing its Third Annual Dance. The event will be held at the Hunts Point Palace in the Bronx, on October 16. Two orchestras will provide continuous dancing till 1 a.m., and a 7-act vaudeville program will be put on.

Harry Lewis is chairman of the organization committee for the affair.

Tickets, priced at $1.10, are available at Park Department offices, and from supervisors in the field.

COMPTROLLER Talk of the Torts

Every month, the Law Division of the Comptroller's Office comes out with their little mimeographed paper "Talk of the Torts," which is distributed around the office and mailed off to the men in service.

The paper even has a policy, and here's part of its platform: Some replacements at the office—

Return of a good 10c hamburger—

Wartime increases for City employees—

An extra shoe ration coupon for the field men—

A post-war promotion plan for service men—

U. S. War bonds as a safe and patriotic investment.

The Staff

The following make up the editorial staff:

Vincent J. Bradley, Editor (on military leave); Francis J. Bombara, assistant editor; Harrison M. Luzzi, treasurer; Gustave G. Mitlehner, art director (it has pictures too); Joseph F. Waldorf, Harold J. Morrissey, Cormac O'Callaghan, Jack McLoughlin, foreign correspondents; Robert Jordan, feature writer; and Paul Aquilana, ace reporter.

Entitled to Promotions

The Comptroller's office is another bureau waiting for the Budget office to act. They have a lot of people working hard who are entitled to promotions. They've sent a request to the Budget director asking the boosts, and they're sitting and waiting to hear, but nothing happens.

Right now, the Comptroller's office have 225 employees in the service. Twenty-eight left last month, and about the only replacements they have been able to make is in Central Payroll Division.

School Days

It looks like the old school room in the Comptroller's office lately. When the bell rings, they all pick up their books and pencils and head for the door.

But instead of being through for the day, they're just starting to do their studying.

With promotion tests to clerk, grade 3 and 4, in the office, and another for claims examiner, a

THE BOROUGHS Popular Men

Two popular men have just retired from the Borough President of Manhattan's Office with honors tendered by their co-workers. Last Thursday, a luncheon was held for Larry McNally, ex-chief clerk of the Permit Division.

Henry Muir, retiring dispatcher at the Borough asphalt plant, will be feted by his co-workers at a dinner at Caruso's on Foley Square, on Thursday evening, September 23. City officials, including Borough President Nathan, have been invited.

DWSGE What Goes Here?

Inspectors in the Department of Water Supply, Gas and Electricity, like so many other City employees, think they should be earning more money.

So, they took up the matter with the department officials and reported that they expect some good news soon.

But the Budget Bureau says the department hasn't made any request to get more money for them, and the "please" to the Budget Office is the first step before paychecks can get any bigger.

FIRE Decision Due For the 3-A's

The case of the 3-A fireman candidates who were passed over for appointment will finally be decided once and for all within the next few weeks.

David Savage, attorney for the men, who brought action against the City and won their right to the jobs, only to have the City appeal, reports that the hearing will come up in the Court of Appeals during the week of October 4th.

This is the highest court of the State, and the decision will settle the question of whether or not these men get their appointments with seniority from the time when they were skipped over. And it will set a precedent for other men who have been refused City jobs because they were in 3-A, 2-B, or draft classifications other than 1-A.

Case of Chiefs Comes Up Again

The Civil Service Reform Association is meeting the LaGuardia Administration in court again this week.

The fight is over the recent appointment of 15 deputy chiefs in the Fire Department.

The Reform Association contends that there were only five vacancies at the time the 15 promotions were made, and the Budget Director and the Fire Commissioner had no power to appoint an extra ten officers.

H. Eliot Kaplan, of the Association, is presenting its side of the situation before Judge Ferdinand Pecora of the Supreme Court.

But it's more than just a dispute between these two parties.

One group of Battalion Chiefs in the department figured that these promotions ruined their chances of having a crack at a promotional examination for the next higher job and hired Albert De Roode to protect their interests. They feel that it's questionable whether the appointments were made before the expiration of the eligible list for the promotion, and are challenging the whole 15 promotions, as well as the validity of the extra ten.

Seymour B. Qual, assistant corporation counsel, is representing the City, and the men who got the appointments have retained George C. Lake to look out for them.

SANITATION Learned Men

The Sanitation Department wants educated employees.

This week, Assistant to Commissioner William J. Powell issued this statement:

"Lectures designed especially for civil service credit."

"Commissioner Carey has directed that the attention of the rank and file be called to the programs of study for Government service which are available to City employees at New York University and at the New School for Social Research. New York University School of Commerce, Accounts and Finance is under the directorship of Professor Sprigg, who can be reached at SPring 7-2000, Extension 591, Room 428, Washington Square. Pamphlets which give complete details of courses, time, etc., may be reviewed at the Borough Superintendents' Offices throughout the five boroughs.

"The New School for Social Research is located at 66 West 12th Street, New York City, telephone ALgonquin 4-2567, and the Dean of the School of Politics is Hans Simons. Information regarding courses available can be procured through that office however. Any further assistance that may be required can be obtained by communicating with Harry R. Langdon, Administrator, 125 Worth Street, New York City, Extension 319 or 260."

HOSPITALS Sr. Helpers OK

The position of Senior Hospital Helper was created by the Civil Service Commission last week.

The new position in the Hospitals Department pays from $1,200 to $1,440 a year without maintenance, or from $900 to $1,260 with board and meals.

All hospital helpers who are now receiving $1,200, or $900 with maintenance, move into the new group and are eligible for regular increments till they reach the top salary.

Better Pay

For several months, the Hospitals Department of New York City has been trying to obtain pay raises for various groups of its employees in order to slow down the shift to better-paid outside positions.

After public hearings held last week, the City Civil Service Commission approved new salary schedules in various categories. Here is the new list of maximum salaries:

Without Maintenance
 Anaesthetist, $2,400 a year.

Assistant superintendent of nurses, $3,150.
 Chief nurse, $2,310.
 Nurse, $2,190.
 Registered nurse, $2,220.
 Practical nurse, $1,680.
 Hospital helper, $1,440.

With Maintenance
 Anesthetist, $2,040.
 Assistant superintendent of nurses, $2,790.
 Chief nurse, $1,950.
 Nurse, $1,890.
 Registered nurse, $1,920.
 Practical nurse, $1,440.
 Hospital helper, $1,140.
 This new salary schedule will be effective on December 1, the Commission ruled.

CITY SHERIFF A Good Year

City employees and other citizens interested in good government should read the first annual report of the City Sheriff for the year 1942. The present sheriff, John J. McCloskey, Jr., won his place through competitive civil service. He relates, in the report, the details of reorganization in the office, wherein the duties, functions and powers of five formerly elected county sheriffs were consolidated into an efficient administrative unit. Certain duties with respect to the custody and transportation of criminal prisoners had been transferred to the Department of Correction. The establishment of five divisions, one in each county, is directed from a central office, with a chief deputy sheriff, a clerical force and a law assistant in each of the divisions. The sheriff as described in this report is concerned primarily in executing the mandates, orders and decrees of the civil courts. There were 9,791 items of civil process in 1942, including summonses, subpoenas, affidavits, executions, attachments, replevins and writs of seizure, all of which are made plain to the layman. The fees involved amounted to $101,305.

Economies have been achieved in the City Sheriff's Office by reducing the total personnel from 220 employees before consolidation to 155 on July 1, 1942—a total saving of $263,575 or 48 percent—and a 53 percent reduction was made in non-personal service. The staff maintains a high standard of public service and strives toward more improvements in practice and organization.

CIVIL LIST Where to See It

The New York City Civil List from April 1, 1942, to March 31, 1943, is available for consultation in the Municipal Reference Library as usual. This year the "List of Names of All City Employees," arranged by department, gives address, title of position, salary, increase in current year, and date of entry into service of each individual as in former years, but the information is not printed. The Civil List is in typewritten form, filling twenty-three bound folio volumes. There is a master index to the contents of the twenty-three volumes, and there is an index to the departments included in each volume.

The Civil List was ordered not to be printed by the Mayor as an economy measure; it saved $25,000. The Civil List is available for use of all City departments and all citizens, in the Municipal Reference Library. This is the only copy available for public use.

Its issuance in twenty-three volumes may be advantageous to the users because probably no one will need to wait for a copy. Twenty-three persons may consult it at the same time. For instance, the Department of Welfare fills one volume, the Department of Sanitation another, while the Department of Education fills five volumes.

We Wonder

WONDER what happened to all the good work the Ramspeck Committee was going to accomplish by probing Federal personnel policies?

Wonder what happened to the fine ambition of the Federal Civil Service Commission to utilize the services of handicapped?

Wonder why the excellent War Department plan to pay employees for ideas isn't extended?

COMMITTEE FOLDING?

Well, we can tell you a little about the Ramspeck Committee. Dillard Lassiter, its chief examiner, says he's resigning to take the job of War Manpower Director for Atlanta, Ga. In view of its picayune accomplishments, some members of the committee feel it should be discontinued altogether. Yet, the committee started with brave resolves, asked employees to contribute instances of malfeasance or inefficiency in their offices—and everybody thought it would really contribute heavily to better Government work. But it has fizzled badly. Its future is up in the air.

A PLAN THAT ISN'T WORKING

The plan of the Federal Commission to use the services of the handicapped was widely—and properly—hailed. Fine surveys were made and committees set up. That was a year ago. Not a pipsqueak has come out since on the subject. Meanwhile the manpower situation tightens, and the services of the handicapped, which the Commission admitted could be used in wide areas of employees, are left to lie fallow. Get going on this again, Commissioners Mitchell, McMillin, and Fleming!

PAYMENT FOR IDEAS

On page 2 of this issue, you'll find the story of the way Office of Dependency Benefits (a War Department unit) pays its employees handsomely for ideas. The values reaped from the plan have proven themselves time and again. There aren't too many incentives for Government employees—and this is one of the best we've heard about.

Fiorello LaGuardia, please copy!

Civil Service NEWS BRIEFS

Thirty prisoners are already working for the City. They're doing the hardest, "dirtiest," most grueling work the city has—taking care of the tubercular patients at the NYC Seaview Hospital. They're supervised by 3 City Correction Officers. The City just couldn't get anybody to take these jobs . . . The government gals at the U. S. Naval Receiving Station, Navy Yard, have adopted a destroyer. They write to the boys, knit for them. Monday night the ship was in, and the gals held a dance for the sailorboys at the Plaza, 350 Flatbush Avenue extension, Brooklyn . . . The Navy Yard gals suggest that other government workers adopt ships, camps, military establishments . . . New State promotion exams: Steno, NY office, Insurance Dept. ($1,200-$1,700); Sr. Steno, NY Office, State Liquor Authority ($1,600-$2,100); Princ. Statistics Clerk, State Education Dept. ($2,100-$2,600); Sr. Statistics Clerk, State Education Dept., Albany Office ($1,600-$2,100) . . . On Thursday, Sept. 23, the Public Works local of the AFSCME will elect new officers . . . Lieut.-Col. Francis Y. Keesling, Jr., last week effectively answered draft-dodger charges against U. S. employees. Said he: 112,399 men were deferred for occupational reasons out of a total of 1,840,000; and of these 96,658 were in shipyards and arsenals. Of 15,741 white collar workers deferred, none had been examined physically, and about 7,500 would be available if called . . . Colonel Keesling should know. He's legislative officer for Selective Service.

The Registered Professional Nurses Council, functioning in the Hospitals Dept., meets every second Monday of the month at Washington Irving High School. They're seeking competitive civil service status . . . Temporary fireman jobs are being offered by Fire Commissioner Walsh to auxiliary firemen. They'll have to take a physical test before being accepted. Pay is $2,000 a year . . . At press-time, Mayor LaGuardia still hadn't announced his plan for solving the city's manpower shortage due to

Don't Repeat This!

What Goes On

District 50, the catch-all unit of the John L. Lewis' United Mine Workers, has quietly installed an organizer in New York City for the purpose of organizing civil service employees into the UMW. . . . City departmental secretaries should get a move on in sending their stuff over to William Viertel, who edits the City Record. Some of the stuff that appears is more than a month late, when it's of no value to anybody. . . . And "Selective Service," a bulletin which goes from national headquarters to all the local boards, is never less than a month late. The August issue reached the boards on September 16. . . . The Manhattan Borough President is walking around with a beaming look. Reason: his son, Edgar Nathan 3d, has been promoted out of the shavetail class at Langley Field, Va. . . . Captain Mike White, formerly Deputy Hospitals Commissioner in NYC, is in North Africa. He was so brilliant in his AMG classes that he finished in two months instead of the usual four . . .

Politics, Inc.

Internal Revenue Collector Joseph T. Higgins, instead of resigning to run for the City Court post, will try to get a 4-month leave of absence. He probably won't get it, because of the Hatch Act . . . Assistant President Jimmy Byrnes made a personal plea to the American Labor Party to endorse Higgins, but was turned down . . . Patronage note: Governor Dewey had 80 unfilled jobs in an upstate county, so he called in the GOP leader and turned the windfall over to him. But the Republican politico, who ordinarily could fill any number of jobs, could only fill 3 of the posts this year, in view of the manpower shortage. So, he called in the Democratic leader and said, in effect: "Look, I can't fill these jobs. You may as well have them." The Democrat leader couldn't fill 'em either, so finally they had to advertise in the help wanted columns of the newspapers . . . Look for lots more political scandal headlines in the papers. Reason: Upstate, the Democrats have been endorsing Republican candidates for local office. Knowing they can't win anyway, they figure they can reduce Republican activity and the vote by endorsing GOP men. To combat this strategy, Gov. Dewey will excite interest and make a cops-and-robbers campaign throughout State . . . Slickest job yet in Government brochures is the one put out by Governor Dewey under the title "A Man Can't Live on Glory. Give Him a Useful Job When He Comes Home." No private advertising agency ever did better.

the draft. The Mayor is seriously concerned, he says, by the numbers who would have to leave the City's employ if fathers are drafted . . . The men on the new City Correction Officer list can expect to see action shortly in the form of appointments . . . The SCMWA has leveled serious charges against Bellevue on grounds that things aren't as clean as they should be . . . The Civil Service Technical Guild has brought a case against New York City to stop the practice of "farming out" contracts to private architects and engineers. The case was argued before Justice Pe-cora . . .

Merit Men

THE FASCINATING THING about Kenneth Mytinger's job is that he's supposed to know everything. Not just in pleasant Information Please fashion, but in a way that has to be used every day in making decisions that have life-and-death meanings to business. He must know about cosmetic cases and air-conditioning units and the lamp industry and machinery and newspapers. If it's a manufactured product, it's in Kenneth Mytinger's sphere. Moreover, he has to keep constantly on tap about the available quantities and the uses of hundreds of different materials—metals, plastics, woods, resins, paper, cloth, synthetics. It's more than just knowing what the "critical" materials are. The critical material of today may become relatively easy to obtain tomorrow. And the product that's keeping an industry going today may have to be switched over to war production tomorrow.

Mytinger's whole job is making decisions about these things. Manufacturers come to him with really tough problems. As District Appeals Chief of the War Production Board, he must be able to iron out the problems as painlessly as possible, yet in such a way as to aid the war effort.

In his office in the Empire State Building, overlooking the expanse of the East River, Mytinger sits with a tiny staff—3 men and 3 girls—and handles the whole huge mass of appeals that come from the New York area.

Went Through It

He's particularly qualified for the work, since he went through the loss of his own business before taking on Government employment. Listen to him tell it:

"I was in the air-conditioning industry, and because of priorities I was forced out of business. Well, I went to Washington for relief. And I went so often that they finally threw up their hands and said: 'You've been crying on our shoulder long enough. How'd you like to have somebody cry on your shoulder for a change?' So I took a job as appeals specialist."

That was 18 months ago. Since then, Mytinger has risen through the post of senior appeals specialist to his present position.

It has gotten so that he can usually size up a business man's situation in a first interview. For example, a manufacturer is forbidden to produce about 1,000 items in iron alone. And moreover, he can't even use substitutes! An instance is the case of bedsprings. You're not permitted to manufacture bed-springs of iron. So the ingenious manufacturers began to manufacture them of wood. But, said the WPB, "wood is getting too scarce to use for such purposes. You can't use wood, either."

But it isn't always in that direction. Very often, a business man speaking to Mytinger will learn to his surprise that the situation is easier than he thought. Thus, only very recently, your bedspring manufacturer has again received permission to work with wood.

In many cases, a quota system has been set up, whereby a manufacturer gets a percentage of the material quantities he used in a previous year, usually 1941. That's true of gold, silver, paper.

Lots of companies try to "get away" with evading the "spot orders" of the WPB. But the WPB knows what's going on.

He's Efficient

Mytinger's New York office is considered a model of its kind by Washington headquarters. And Mytinger himself got an E for efficiency. "Like a report card," he beams.

His pet hates are procedures and red tape. "Do what has to be done, and think about the procedures afterward," that's Mytinger's approach.

Mytinger is a business man who came up with such jobs as having charge of labor construction for the International Nickel Company, with whom he stayed for 15 years. He's been in the banking investment business. And he was a prime mover in the development of the freight trailer.

Kenneth Mytinger was born in Red Bank, N. J., but he's a Brooklyn boy. That's where he got his education. And that's what he calls home.

Letters

Social Security

Sirs: I saw in your last week's edition an article on Social Security and in regard to same, I for one, can say that if they pass this, it would be one of the best rulings that could happen to Federal Employees, especially those that were hired for the duration.

In the first place, I believe it is ridiculous when they deduct 5% off your salary every week, and when you are separated about 15% is deducted for holding your money. If you deposit this same amount in a Bank you draw interest.

I would also like to see passed, a ruling on unemployment insurance the same as private industry, where an employee has some protection if he or she loses their job.

I hope you agree with me.

H. ROSS.

Doctor Makes It Clear

Sirs: You announce that the per session doctors in the Health Department will get an increase of 50c a day in the new budget.

Let us examine what that means. Those men, whose work is daily and who put in 350 sessions per year, will reach the maximum of $1,799 sooner than they did formerly when paid a flat $5.00. The result is they will be compelled to stay at home more often than they have been doing.

Of course, to be paid more for less work is in effect an increase in remuneration, but it strikes me that these are not the times to take it out on the public which will get a further curtailment in services.

S. B. ROSS, M.D.

The article "Rights and Privileges of U. S. Employees in the Armed Forces," which began last week and was scheduled to be continued in this issue, is being held over for one additional week. See The LEADER next Tuesday for further information on this important subject.

POLICE CALLS

Tours in the 17th

This week we continue with our letters which are still coming in large numbers. The one that follows is a simple complaint from a cop in the 17th Precinct, and it's about a minor difficulty that needn't happen:

Sirs: Men of the 17th Precinct wait patiently for each new "Police Calls" in your Civil Service LEADER. This is our grievance. Since the Harlem trouble, our men instead of doing a later tour, find themselves assigned to a 4 a.m. to 12 noon, then go out the following tour and do a regular late tour. In heaven's name, one finds himself doing two tours in one-half a night and half a day. Men doing a 4 p.m. to 12 midnight shift or tour instead report an 8 p.m. to 4 a.m.

Why can't we do a regular tour instead like our regular shift? Some of our men live as far distant as Staten Island, so you can have an idea how much time they must travel. Our physical system is bad enough without this additional amount being inflicted.

Please publish this in your paper. We have called it to the attention of our delegate but no good. Keep up your good work.

MEMBER 17TH PCT.

Sure we'll publish this letter, and glad to do it. This is a legitimate grievance, and there doesn't seem to be any reason why the 17th Precinct should operate differently. A proper system of tours should be put into effect immediately.—Editor.

More About Harlem

And here's another letter in the same vein, from the point of the Harlem fracas:

"To the Editor: Attorney General Biddle's Report on Race Riots of August 11th stated, in part:

"The Detroit Police Department is, in spite of the increase in population, actually 280 men short of the budget allotment. How true is this of New York City. What did the shortage have to do with our Harlem Riot?"

"Many of the present policemen are not well-trained because of the number of men who have been drafted and whose places are filled with over-age, dissatisfied, and inadequate personnel. What reason, if any at all, does the inadequate personnel furnish for the confusion prevailing amongst the ranking superiors during the Harlem Riot?"

"Crime is greatly on the increase among juvenile delinquents; the racial problem is tense; overcrowding and shifts in population make the police problems far more difficult than heretofore. Would the 37 Police Lieutenant vacancies, if they were restored to the budget and the list promulgated, plus the placing of a full-fledged Captain in charge of each Juvenile Aid Unit and in charge of each Detective District reduce the above problems? Do you think the placing of full-fledged Captains in every Division would help to reduce the above conditions? And don't you think that if all the superior officers wishing to retire now in the New York City P.D. were permitted to do so, and the necessary replacements made quickly, the entire crime situation quoted by Mr. Biddle would change in this city?"

"Of course the above would create only about 100 more vacancies in the patrolman rank. And what is 100 more when we have always had, for the past 8 years, close to 1,000 patrolman vacancies."

PROMOTION ELIGIBLE.

Wrong Men In Charge?

Here's a letter with a different kind of beef. It doesn't come from within the department, however.

Brooklyn, N. Y.,
September 12, 1943.

I noticed in the September 7th issue of The LEADER under the heading "Police Calls" an article entitled "Favoring the Failures." This article, unusual as it was, gives the average person something to think about. I have known many men in the Police Department who in the absence of the Captain were in charge of the precinct and it was my opinion that they had passed a qualifying examination or else they would not be selected to fill in for the Captain. After reading this article and pondering over it for a while I am convinced that there must be some truth to it because the men that I referred to are still Lieutenants, and from what information I could get they never passed any examination for Captain although I have been informed that one in particular competed in at least three of them but failed to pass. Today this man boasts of thirty-eight years of service in the Police Department and is placed in charge of a precinct in the absence of the Captain. Why is it that a Captain recommends to an Inspector who shall be designated to assume charge of his precinct in his absence? This seems to be a bad practice and I don't believe the Mayor of this city knows that failures are chosen to fill vacancies while those who have proven their ability are ignored. It seems to me as an outsider that some sort of a rule could be issued to prevent such practices, and the best man selected to fill the vacancies wherever they may exist. Surely the inhabitants of the City of New York would prefer a man who has proven his ability to take charge to one who has failed to do so. Although the heads of the present City Administration claim that the City is being run more efficiently than under any of the past administrations a condition of this kind makes one a little bit skeptical of such claims.

I think your paper is rendering a great service to the employees of this City and to the citizens as a whole by exposing such practices.

SUBSCRIBER.

Well, what do you men think of the interesting question raised in this letter? If a man fails an examination, should that bar him from holding a higher spot in an "acting" capacity? Let's have some opinions.—Editor.

Smallest Class At the Academy

The graduation of a class of 305 probationary patrolmen from the Police Academy last week, leaves the department still about 1,200 men short of its quota for the uniformed force.

And the next class at the Police Academy is expected to be one of the smallest ever turned out because of the difficulty of finding draft-free men within the age limits and physically acceptable to the Department.

Service revolvers were the prizes awarded to the graduating "rookies."

Top award, the Bloomingdale Trophy, for the highest general average in all subjects went to James A. Guishard, who also won the Masback award for the highest score in slow time and repeat revolver shooting during training.

The Mayor's Trophy, for the second highest general average in all subjects, was taken by Earl J. Campazzi, and the Police Commissioner's Trophy for third highest average was awarded to Irving J. Klein.

Memo to Pat Harnedy

Still no answer to that letter on why no vote for the men in the PBA?

Don't you like the members, Pat? Don't you think they deserve an explanation? Or do you think that just snubbing them is the easiest way out—that the whole thing will die in time?

Chance for Police Clerks

Those men who filed application at Police Department headquarters for jobs as civilian clerks, will be hired in the next week or two.

The budget office has just given its approval to taking on the men at $1,500 a year for the duration, but the B.O. had its own idea about how many were needed.

Police Department wanted to hire 200 right now, and probably more in the future.

The men who have to OK the deal said, "Only 150 now." Future chances for men who want these jobs and aren't hired in the first batch are vague.

NAVY YARD GAZETTE

The New Annual Leave Regulations

At long last Navy Yard workers have been apprised of that long talked-of "liberalized leave policy". However, so far as we can see, this policy is liberal only insofar as annual vacations are concerned and does not really allow the employee more time off. As a matter of fact, in many instances, employees are finding that it provides less time for fewer contingencies. For example: formerly, marriage was considered an emergency and accredited with two weeks leave in addition to all leave previously granted, provided the employee could be spared. Under present regulations, leave for marriage is granted only as a part of the regular twelve-day annual leave allowance.

The new leave policy, however, is more systematic and, when carried out properly, should be beneficial to everybody. It provides:

1. Vacation. Civilian employees are permitted to take an annual vacation not exceeding twelve working days (such vacation can't commence on Saturdays). This may be broken up, as heretofore, for purposes of rest and recuperation, as well as vacation.

2. Personal Business. In addition to the twelve days, time is allowed, at the rate of one half day per month, for personal business such as shopping, banking, legal business, doctor or dentist, on days other than Saturday. Leave for personal business is not cumulative. For example, if the half-day is not taken one month, it will not make a whole day available the next month.

3. Emergencies. In addition to the foregoing leave, the employee is entitled to leave for such emergencies as death or sickness in the family, and unscheduled layoffs.

The Employee's View-point
In the good old days of leave at the rate of one half day per week, small groups of employees whose work was closely interdependent, had informal agreements among themselves as to what days or half-days they would take for leave purposes. The idea worked out well and there was no noticeable reduction of efficiency in the group as a whole. A policy based upon this idea might very well elimi-

Trouble?

Reports that a supervisor had been suspended on serious charges made by employees under his supervision, were softly denied by Charles J. Reichert, manager of Veterans Administration's New York office at 346 Broadway.

Here's what happened as Mr. Reichert told me the other day: "Grace Sollaway, a typist, CAF2, resigned. She came into this office with a story. She named names and stated facts, and the employees involved were invited to come into the office and tell their stories.

"There seemed to be enough strength in the allegations made to warrant further investigation," Mr. Reichert added, "and the matter is being looked into by officials of this agency.

"Meanwhile we felt it better that Mr. Inhat (George Inhat is the supervisor involved) should not stay at his post until the matter is cleared up. He is off now on annual leave."

Mr. Reichert was unwilling to discuss allegations made against the supervisor, lest he be accused of pre-judging the case, but said that the statements of the employees were being typed up and that as soon as he had a chance to examine all sides of the situation he would decide the matter.

Superstitious?

This week, the leading subject of talk around 346 Broadway is the Thirteenth Floor. It's a nice airy floor, with good ventilation and plenty of light. From the 13th Floor you can get a beautiful view of the downtown New York. But he 13th Floor is very, very empty, and is used for nothing at all.

On the twelve lower floors, these days, people are sitting in each other's laps and getting in one another's hair. There are about 500 extra workers who have been taken on for three or four months and the place is certainly crowded.

Down in the stockrooms is enough furniture to fit out the top floor and relieve some of the congestion, and the poor crowded Vets wonder why it isn't being done. . . . Maybe somebody on the 4th Floor is superstitious!

nate a great deal of red tape and would certainly go a long way toward improvement of morale.

Problems under the new leave policy are arising thick and fast. For example, one employee who had already taken his six days vacation, desired to claim six additional days for vacation. However, the official decision is that this employee is entitled to only two more days and not six because he had already taken four additional days, under the old policy, for personal business.

Those Cumbersome Government Checks

The Federal Reserve Bank in New York complains that Navy Yard employees who fold or mutilate their paychecks are giving them many a headache because these mutilated checks jam their machines. The only safe place for such a check is the employee's wallet. This, of necessity, causes the check to become folded. The check, usually being at least one-quarter of an inch wider than the wallet, is naturally subject to further mutilation. In order to prevent these mutilations, it would seem only logical that checks be made either half the size or somewhat narrower and of a paper which is more pliable. Possibly another solution would be to hand out checks at such time as the employees may be immediately able to cash them.

THE JOB MARKET

The Job Market is designed to help readers and jobs get together. The positions listed are gathered from advertisements of all the newspapers, periodicals and communication with personnel managers. These jobs are analyzed and arranged in categories which will be most helpful as a basis for selection. However, it is wise to read the entire column rather than limit yourself to any one item.

Retirements Are Different In Police, Fire, Sanitation

In some City departments, retiring after you reach the retirement age, and have enough service in, isn't just as simple as that. Employees who are members of the New York City Employees Retirement System, which cover most City departments, have little trouble. They file their application for retirement, either directly with the Retirement System Office, or through their department. Then the list is printed and presented to the Board of Estimate, and the whole thing is usually accomplished within a few weeks.

But the Police and Fire Departments have their own pension systems, and the Department of Sanitation has the old Street Cleaning Retirement Fund, to which the older employees of that department belong.

And here's what happens in these departments:

Sanitation

Sanitation averages about 30 retirements monthly, and within a few weeks after applications are made, the investigations are completed and the pension payments begin. A number of the employees who were planning to retire last summer, waited until the July 1 pay raises came through to boost their average a bit, then filed their papers. Since January 1, 1943, there have been 247 retirements from Sanitation.

Police Department

The Police Department only allows the retirement of 40 members of the force each month. That applies to regular retirements. However, there is no limit on the number of disability and accident disability retirements. BUT, there are now 1,332 applications for retirement on file at the offices of the Police Pension Fund.

This means that a man reaching retirement age in the Police Department today, can expect a wait of at least three years before he can leave the job and get his pension.

Fire Department

The Fire Department also has a quota for monthly retirements. Their figure has been set at 25, but the backlog of retirements waiting to be acted on is smaller than among the police. The fireman who files now, can expect action on his papers in about ten months.

AFL Groups Set Meeting Dates

WATERSUPPLY Layoffs

Suffering from priority trouble, the Board of Water Supply has had to cut down its activities to such an extent that seventy members of its engineering staff are being laid off.

Most of these men were working on upstate projects of the Board, and the completion of some sections of the water supply system, and rulings of the War Production Board which made it impossible to carry on planned expansion left the engineering employees with no work.

Layoffs will be in order of last-come; first go, the Board says, following civil service procedure for such cases.

A Garden Spot Gets Developed

A sales campaign to distribute a 37-acre garden spot to a number of small unit purchasers, who he feels will make desirable neighbors for the 150 residents adjoining the property now being offered, has been launched by Lawrence P. Caivers of Ronkonkoma, L. I.

Divided into quarter-acre plots, and studded with large pines, the property makes a very charming and healthy site for a home and garden. It is also an ideal spot for that retirement home which so many of us have planned.

Situated on the famous old former Vanderbilt Long Island Motor Parkway, which for years was a toll highway, every plot fronts on this 100-foot-wide hard surfaced road. This Motor Parkway Road is kept open by the County all winter long.

Just a few blocks away is beautiful Lake Ronkonkoma, with its 4 miles of tree-studded white sandy beach. Indians named this lake very aptly when they called it "The Chrystal Waters of the White Sands."

'Day Off If You Sell $100 In War Bonds': La Guardia

Any City employee will get a day off for selling one-hundred dollars in war bonds during the Third War Loan Drive.

That's the latest ruling from the Mayor's office, and he sent a memo around to all department heads late last week asking them to grant the time off.

Even essential employees like police and firemen will be able to get a day of relaxation in return for convincing someone else to lend Uncle Sam $100 or more, and the important thing is to get bonds sold. If the City employee sells himself that amount of bonds he's entitled to the time too.

And says Lester Stone of the Mayor's staff, if an employee wants to spend a day selling bonds, he should get that day off.

The day off is promised free of any catches. It won't be deducted from vacation time or sick leave; it's one of the City's war contributions.

Just go to your department personnel officer, and he has the authority to give you the day off when it's most convenient all around.

Now let's see you really sell bonds!

300 Men, Women Sought Fast by Social Security

Here's a chance for 300 men or women between the ages of 16 and 55 to learn modern business machine operations, receive full pay while training, then step into a war-service civil service job with a chance for post-war employment.

The work is with the Social Security Board in Baltimore. No education or experience is required. Applicants take a short, simple written test to determine their intelligence, receive a medical form to be filled out by their own doctor, and can be hired immediately. American citizenship is necessary.

U. S. Finds Housing

The Government will find housing for them near the office at between $5 and $6 per week. For a 48 hour week, the pay is $1,560 a year. Two shifts are worked, 7:30 a.m. to 4 p.m., and 3:50 p.m. to 12:35 a.m.

Tabulating, listing, card punch, sorting and other machine operations will be taught applicants.

Men must be fairly certain of draft deferment to qualify for these jobs, and no persons now in essential occupations can be taken on.

Applications are being accepted by Mrs. D. L. Strock, at the United States Employment Service, 10 East 40th Street, 12th Floor. She has the authority to hire on the spot, and the Government wants these jobs filled in a hurry.

THE DRAFT More Deferments?

WASHINGTON—Officials here think they see a good chance that the number of Government draft deferments will be expanded once Selective Service begins to call pre-Pearl Harbor fathers.

So far, that's completely unofficial. And because of the many uncertainties in the whole draft situation, Federal employees should not bank on it too strongly.

Definitely, however, something is in the wind:

1—Federal agencies, especially Justice Department, have complained vigorously to the President in recent weeks that they are being "wrecked" by the drafting of vital workers.

2—One widely-quoted story here this week had it that Mr. Roosevelt had assigned Justice Samuel I. Rosenman, his new White House "counsel," to study the whole deferment problem as it affects Federal offices.

3—If this is true (and there is no confirmation), it could mean only that the White is thinking about a more liberal policy.

4—Finally—and most important—it is known definitely that Selective Service has assigned a special committee of its top officials to try to work out a formula for the granting of more liberal deferments in essential industries.

Government essential

Now Government, all of it, is an essential industry.

At the moment, however, it doesn't do you much good to be in an essential industry unless you happen to have an "essential job" or a "critical job."

In Government, it's even tougher than that: In addition to being on the "essential" list or the "critical" list, you also have to be on Government's "key job" list.

This has meant, in practice, that many really vital employees have found it impossible to get deferments. For example, personnel officers ordinarily are not considerable deferrable. Neither are budget officers, classification experts, auditors, and many, many others whose work in Government (while little publicized) is often extremely important.

"Key List" Expansion

If Selective Service decides to expand deferments in essential industry generally by expanding its "essential" list, Government is expected to follow suit by expanding its "key" job list.

How far such an expansion might go is anybody's guess.

JOBS

Cradle Robbing Is Out!

"We're not robbing the cradle," said Postmaster Goldman's office. He was referring to a report that the Post Office is hiring boys under sixteen for extra work during rush season produced by the early flood of Christmas packages for service men and women overseas.

The P. O. prefers men over 18 for temporary jobs as clerks, chauffeurs and labors in the Post Office. They'll take boys over 16 who have their working papers. They aren't looking for part-time workers, and can't take anyone now in an essential job.

Applicants are invited to call at Room 4500, N. Y. Post Office, 33d Street and Eighth Avenue, for interviews and details of the job.

RATING You Have 50-50 Chance to Win

WASHINGTON—Why not appeal your efficiency rating?

That is, of course, if you don't like it.

Figures released this week show that the average Government employee who does appeal has slightly better than a 50-50 chance of winning his case.

Specifically, out of 378 cases heard by appeal boards here since April 1, 187 have resulted in higher ratings, six in lower ratings, and 175 in no change.

In other words, if you're honestly dissatisfied with your rating, it would appear that you've got an awfully good chance of winning an appeal—and very little chance that you'll take a real setback.

They're Impotent

Now the importance of efficiency ratings is this: They determine your chances of promotion under the Mead-Ramspeck law, which grants a one-step raise every 18 months to highly-rated lower-bracket employees; and a one-step raise every 30 months to highly-rated upper-bracket employees.

Up until this year, efficiency rating appeals generally were common only in Washington. Now, however, they have been extended to the field, although most cases are handled here—by correspondence.

If you want to appeal, see your personnel office. It should have complete information.

Steel Man Needed

Permission was granted to the Department of Public Works by the City Civil Service Commission, last week, to fill the position of Inspector of Steel, Grade 3, on a temporary basis for the duration. There was no available list of eligibles for the position, and the Commission felt it impracticable to hold an examination.
