By ART YATES

Despite mostly gray skies and occasional light rain, Civil Service Day at the New York World's Fair maintained a constant air of excitement and enthusiasm that resulted in a resounding tribute to public employees. And it was public employees, themselves, that were the stars of the show.

Salary Increases For Welfare

CSEA Repeats Demand For Elimination of Inequities

ALBANY, June 8—The Civil Service Employees Assn., has repeated its demand for elimination of inequities in promotion salary increases to Welfare Department employees of Erie County.

It is the second such request in as many months by Association President Joseph F. Feily on behalf of more than 350 members in the Welfare Unit of the Erie County chapter.

In his latest request to County Personnel Officer Donald M. Neff, Feily noted that the county will be filling approximately fifteen positions of Senior Case Workers in the Welfare Department on a promotional basis in the near future. He pointed out that, "It is our understanding that such promotions have been refused in the past due to the procedure for granting increments upon promotion in Erie County."

Under the present procedure, the Association contends, that it is possible for an employee who is being promoted to actually receive less salary during the ensuing year (after promotion) than he would have received had he not accepted the promotion and remained in the lower grade position thereby receiving his annual increment in the lower grade.

As a solution, CSEA has recommended a plan whereby an employee appointed or promoted to a position in a higher salary grade shall receive an increase which is equivalent to the full increment payable in the position or the minimum salary of the position whichever is higher.

60th Health Conf.

ALBANY, June 8 — The 60th Annual Health Conference, opening in Buffalo this week, will feature addresses by Governor Rockefeller, Dr. Hollis S. Ingraham, state health commissioner, and Dr. Berwyn F. Mattison, executive director of the American Public Health Association.

Valentine to Speak

ALBANY, June 8 — Nicholas Valentine Jr., deputy industrial commissioner for labor affairs in the State Labor Department, will be the guest speaker at graduation exercises for the New York City School of Printing this week at the Advertising Club.

Mr. Valentine, a graduate of Syracuse University, is the first career employee ever appointed a deputy commissioner for the department. His topic will be the "Dropout."

CSEA Has Mixed Feelings Regarding G-14 Prom. Test

ALBANY, June 8—A proposed promotion examination for Grade 14 administrative position in the state service has been met with mixed reaction by the Civil Service Employees Assn.

CSEA's views on the examination were made when it was learned that the Civil Service Department is considering several modifications in the competition for the exam which is being planned for December of 1964. The examination was last given in June of 1960.

Feily Urges Quick Buffalo Pay Action; Erie CSEA Jubilant

ALBANY, June 8—Joseph F. Feily, President of the Civil Service Employees Assn., has urged the Buffalo Common Council to take "immediate action" to adopt a CSEA salary recommendation calling for an average increase of no less than 19% for city employees.

Feily's recommendation came following approval earlier this week by the Erie County Board of Supervisors of a sales tax distribution formula that would make available additional monies to the city.

Buffalo employees, a majority of them members of Erie Chapter, CSEA, were jubilant after the Erie County Board of Supervisors voted to raise the county sales tax.

Additional sales tax revenues will mean $7,500,000 in more money for the city, guaranteeing a pay raise for the city's 6000 employees. They have had no salary increases for six years.

"A great victory," said Alexander T. Burke, president of Erie Chapter, "at long last city workers will get a decent, living wage."

In letters to Chester C. Gorsky, Council President; Stanley Makowski, Majority Leader and Roland Benzow, Minority Leader, Feily called attention to the salary study compiled by CSEA and presented to the council formally at a hearing in April.

Feily View

Feily said:

"It is most urgent that the recommendations contained in our salary study be adopted by the City of Buffalo, in order to equate salaries paid to City employees with those paid to their counterparts in other public employment and private industry. The adoption of any lesser program . . . can only result in the continuance of inequitable salaries . . ."

"Absolute Necessity"

"The adoption of our salary recommendations, which would provide salary increases averaging 19% to City employees, is an absolute necessity if the City of Buffalo is to make a sincere attempt to keep pace with current wage and salary trends within New York State.

"On behalf of our members employed by the City of Buffalo and with the wholehearted support of

Three Real Winners—Wagner, Costikyan And Steingut

MOST primary election reports last week focused major attention on the considerable victories of Mayor Robert F. Wagner in New York City but a more detailed analysis indicates that there were three important victors, one of whom might be the most important of all in the long run.

Taking first things first, the political battle which received the most headlines was that between Bronx Congressman and venerable County Leader Charles A. Buckley and his reform opponent, Jonathan Bingham, whom Wagner backed. Between them, Buckley and Bingham conducted one of the saltiest local campaigns in recent history. Charges and counter-charges were made continually and Buckley and Bingham have field libel suits against each other as a result. But in the end, Buckley's 30 years in Congress, and his powerful position as chairman of the House Public Works Committee, coupled with his firm control of the regular district leaders of the Bronx and the endorsement of both President Johnson and Attorney General Robert F. Kennedy, did not prove strong enough to see him through the primary race.

Not that Buckley had an easy opponent in Bingham, as was earlier supposed. Bingham's antecedents are distinguished enough for any candidate. His father was a U. S. Senator from Connecticut. He is married to a niece of the

Succeeds Wright

ALBANY, June 8 — Dr. Donald C. Walker of Delanson will succeed Dr. Arthur W. Wright next month when he retires as secretary to the State Board of Medical Examiners in the State Education Department.

late Gov. Herbert Lehman. He was secretary to Governor Averill Harriman in Albany, and, recently, has served with the United States delegation to the United Nations, where he has had a very close relationship with Ambassador Adlai Stevenson.

Newspaper Victory Claimed

Wagner entered the hustings in the Bronx at almost the last minute but his support of Bingham is credited as a victory for both Bingham and the Mayor. Buckley, on the other hand, blamed the attacks of the New York press on him as the real source of defeat, not Wagner. It's true that these headlines were tough and that a good number of Bingham's charges against Buckley got vigorous and rough coverage as far as Buckley was concerned. It should not be overlooked too that Wagner also scored in the Bronx by supporting James Scheuer, industrialist and housing expert, over the popular but ailing, venerable Congressman James Healy, who before he became ill was marked as Buckley's eventual heir in the Bronx.

It should be noted here that Buckley at 73 is conceding nothing for the moment except his own defeat in the primary and is by no means in any mood for reconciliations. Rather, he is already planning action with his group to knock off Bingham the next time around.

Wagner and Pat Brown

In New York County, Wagner had his way, too. He backed Edward Koch over Carmine DeSapio down in Greenwich Village and, although this victory was sort of warmed-over soup, it was still a victory. Strangely enough, in the contest between incumbent Congressman Leonard Farbstein and William Haddad, the Reform candidate, the Mayor chose to back Farbstein and he won there, too.

The most significant aspect of these Wagner victories is seen not in a local light so much as the Mayor's position as a possible candidate for the Vice Presidency. Throughout the country, Wagner's victories have received heavy and favorable press comment, most of it complimenting Wagner's political strength. This is in sharp contrast to the political fortunes of California's Governor Pat Brown—like Wagner, a liberal Catholic who was being billed too as a possible running mate to President Johnson—whose candidate for the U. S. Senate race, State Comptroller Alan Cranston, was defeated by late-comer Pierre Salinger. In essence, the Wagner image has grown nationally and the Brown image has suffered.

Wagner's victories in Manhattan put New York County Democratic Committee Chairman Edward Costikyan in the winner's column because he put his name on the line for both Farbstein and Koch. In so doing, he continued to align himself with Mayor

Wagner and shares in the spotlight of his political triumphs.

The Third Winner

Strangely overlooked in terms of major headlines and political reporting, however, is Winner No. 3—Stanley Steingut of Brooklyn. Wagner made three forays into Brooklyn in support of Assembly Minority Leader Anthony Travia as Kings County chairman, against the Steingut forces. To put it mildly, the Mayor was not well received. Not only did the Steingut team of district leaders hold firm but picked up another point when their man, Howard Shakin, defeated Al Levitt, a district leader backed by Wagner.

What all this means is that Steingut is now the most powerful, single county leader in the State, surpassing even the party control that was enjoyed by Buckley. On Steingut's team now are Borough President Abe Stark, City Controller Abe Beame, U.S. Attorney James Hoey and the sure-to-be-elected Edward Silver as Surrogate. In addition, Steingut will designate the nominee for the post of Kings County District Attorney, considered a sure thing for the Democrats next fall. All this puts him in position to contest Travia's leadership position in the Assembly.

Furthermore, Steingut controls the Brooklyn Congressional delegation, something very, very important to a President. Also what would happen in the tense situation between President Lyndon B. Johnson and Attorney General Robert F. Kennedy should the Brooklyn delegation move quickly at the Democratic convention and nominate Kennedy for the Vice Presidency, even before the Massachusetts delegation swung into action?

The implications are obvious on the State level, too, because any candidate for the U.S. Senate post, whether it be Kennedy or anybody else, will now have to consider Steingut's feelings about the matter. What would the rest of the delegations — or persons in power — do, for instance, if Steingut's people should start a "Draft Kennedy" movement?

What all this adds up to is that Steingut is now in firm control of Brooklyn and is able to perform the one operation that helps insure continuation of control — he is in firm charge of dispensing patronage and really doesn't need the Mayor's friendship politically. This latter fact means that Washington simply cannot overlook Stanley Steingut from now on.

McKeon's Role

Thus, the end result of the recent primary contests is not one winner but three — Wagner, Costikyan and Steingut. This, in turn, means that State Democratic Committee Chairman William McKeon has his work cut out for him in the coming weeks and that is to consolidate all these winners into one for the sake of the Party as a whole. Despite the publicity given the Wagner-Steingut feud, McKeon has reason to hope he can bring the two together. Their differences are not personal but political and caused, to a large degree, by associates of both Wagner and Steingut. After all, Wagner and Steingut have actually been friends for 25 years since the days when the Mayor was in the Assembly and Steingut was an Albany law student watching the legislative action in the Assembly. McKeon believes there is sufficient common interest between the two men to reunite them — particularly for the benefit of Johnson's forthcoming campaign. You can be certain he will be working hard at the task of so doing in the weeks ahead.

State Aide's Tribute To President Kennedy Is Now Available To Our Readers

ROUND LAKE, June 8—A New York State government employee has penned a memorial tribute to the late President of the United States, John F. Kennedy.

The book, entitled "Lest We Forget," is edited and compiled by Milton J. Benoit of RD 2, Ballston Lake, N.Y.

Benoit is a public relations man with the New York State Conservation Department's Division of Motor Boats. He is the immediate past president of the Conservation Chapter, Civil Service Employees Assn., a post he held for the past two years, and is now the chapter's delegate to the Capital District Conference, C.S.E.A.

Prior to assuming his current position with the Division of Motor Boats, Benoit was editor of a weekly newspaper in Cohoes, N.Y. He resides in the town of Ballston with his wife and five children.

Contents

The book, though slim in size, carries a message for all Americans. The publication carries eulogies and appraisals of the late President by world and national leaders and the American public; official proclamations and pronouncements by President Lyndon B. Johnson, and quotes from the late President's own speeches including the speech meant for Dallas on Nov. 22, 1963.

Benoit said that he published the book as a dedication to John F. Kennedy and the values for which he stood—decency, rationality, civility and honor. Copies of the book may be obtained by readers of The Leader by mailing $1 to HOME CO. Publishers, Dept. CSL, Box 425, Round Lake, N.Y.

Proposed Promotion Examination For Grade 14 Gets CSEA Reaction

Stanley Kollin, Coordinator of Recruitment for the Department, informed the Association of the following proposals:

1. The examination would be open to employees in Grade 10 or higher, whose positions involve substantial supervisory or administrative type responsibilities. (In 1960 the exam was limited to employees in grade 11 and higher.)
2. Departmental promotion lists only would be established.
3. The same standards would be applied as those to be used in the open-competitive Professional Career Tests.
4. Candidates successful in the written test would be required to pass a qualifying oral test.
5. The lists would be used for filling administrative type positions only as defined in Section 62 (6) of the Civil Service Law.
6. All appointees would be subject to a probationary period as provided in the Civil Service rules.

Kollin also indicated that the proposed examination would be of a substantially more difficult level than the previous test.

In commenting on the proposals, Joseph F. Felly, president of CSEA, said the Association was "very interested" in making available to the Grade 10 and higher employees the opportunity to qualify for administrative positions.

Felly urged "further consideration" before it is finally decided to use a substantially more difficult examination than was used the last time. He noted that in the announcement for the examination in 1960 there was a warning to the candidates that they would find the subject matter of the test difficult.

He also recommended that an interdepartmental promotion list also be included.

Felly also expressed appreciation to the Erie County Board of Supervisors for "taking positive action" in adopting the distribution formula recommended by the liaison committee.

Claims Court Backs Federal Firing Power

Employees who refuse to obey an order, regardless of reason or cause, are subject to immediate dismissal, the U.S. Court of Claims ruled recently.

The test case (Erenreich vs. U.S.) decision gave Federal agencies the power to fire employees for any kind of refusal to obey orders.

This, in conjunction with the recent Civil Service Commission ruling that employees face dismissal for refusing to perform jobs even if unrelated to classification standards, evidences a new attitude of the government towards its employees that is anything but lenient.

13 Cited by IRS Incentive Program

The Incentive Awards Program, sponsored by the Internal Revenue Service, gave recognition to 13 employees, all of the Regional Commissioner's Office, Commissioner Howard D. Taylor announced recently.

June 9 is the date for which action on the Morrison pay raise bill is tentatively scheduled. However, a delay may be caused by Speaker of the House McCormack's hesitation to call the bill in the House until a like measure is reported out of the Senate Post Office and Civil Service Committee.

President Johnson, eager to get prompt action on the bill in the House, sent advisors to discuss McCormack's request with the Senate PO and the CSC.

Civil Service Day

WE most ardently wish that those citizens who are misinformed about the value of the Civil Service could have been in attendance last week when 'Civil Service Day' was held at the World's Fair. The stars of that one-day show were public employees themselves and they were a group of serious, dedicated and talented performers.

The concern for public safety, as demonstrated by fire and police groups; the concern for the individual, as shown by the Commission for the Blind—these and many other individuals and departments illustrated throughout the day the unending stream of services that public employees contribute to the well-being of this great country of ours.

Of course, there was the lighter side of life, too. We crowned four Miss Civil Service Winners that day (a demonstration of beauty in the ranks as well as talent) and saw some fine dancing performances by gifted and enthusiastic young people.

The importance of the day was underlined by official proclamation from Governor Rockefeller and Mayor Wagner that declared June 1 "Civil Service Day." And The Leader expresses deep thanks to the Federal, State and City officials that participated in the event, as well as the employee groups and individuals who did so much to make this tribute a success.

The Leader is proud, indeed, to have been the sponsor of this justly-earned tribute to public employees.

LEADER BOX 101

Letters To The Editor

Solid Editorial

Editor, The Leader:

Your editorial about coffee breaks for building and maintaining morale is on solid ground, but the need for rest periods actually has a deeper, more rock-bound basis, involving nothing less than health itself.

I quote from Dr. M. Rosenberg's highly authoritative "Encyclopedia of Medical Self-Help":

The human machine, including the mind, brain and eyes, needs rest and relaxation. It does not tolerate unrelenting, continuous use. Overexercise and overwork are ruinous to all vital organs. Workers should have a recess for ten minutes every two hours, especially if they are employed at close, continuous and monotonous work. This is necessary for eye health as well as for the general body and mind health. But the eyes need more frequent rest periods when one is doing such close work as hand sewing drawing, typing, writing . . .

It's true that some physicians differ about various matters concerning health and disease, but I doubt that we're likely to find any professional disagreement in this regard.

Anybody inclined to scoff, to think government employees comprise a coddled group, should consider the definite fact that overtired civil workers are anything but rare. Their need for medical attention is widespread.

Yes; laziness is pathological, too, but most civil servants consulting doctors suffer from ailments not at all associated with loafing.

Finally, I suggest that any person, in or out of government service, who thinks civil employees require less time for rest than they have now—or no rest at all—see a physician himself. I have a distinct type of specialist in mind.

Your Public Relations IQ

By LEO J. MARGOLIN

Mr. Margolin is Head of the Division of Business Administration and Professor of Business Administration at the Borough of Manhattan Community College and Adjunct Professor of Public Relations in New York University's Graduate School of Public Administration.

Readers Always Important

EVERY COLUMNIST we've ever met insists his readers "are the most important people in the world." We heartily agree with this sentiment—with one reservation. To us, the more important ones are the increasing numbers of our readers who continue to ask:

"HOW DO YOU find something to write about in the public relations field every week?"

HERE'S OUR answers—a column's worth—beginning with a few vital statistics:

OUR EDITORIAL efforts here are now 3½ years old, equal to 175 columns totalling more than 100,000 words (nearly the length of two average books). The columns have appeared in more than 210,000,000 copies of the "Civil Service Leader."

AFTER ALL THESE numbers—which even impress us—we wish to report:

IN 3½ YEARS, we have never been at a loss for a column idea. In fact, our weekly problem is which, not what. It has always seemed to be which of several PR subjects should be discussed, never what do we write about now.

PUBLIC RELATIONS is the most pervasive activity in both government and business. No matter what government does, no matter what business activity, public relations is involved, directly, indirectly, or even remotely.

FOR EXAMPLE, here are some items which could have been the subject of a column, and may yet be at a future date:

- IN ONE OF THE soundest, most intelligent strokes of public relations, the New York City Department of Purchase held an open house for business leaders to show how judiciously it spends $100 million annually. The event had several important public relations objectives, including an effort to increase the list of active bidders to fill the city's needs for goods and services.

- THE U.S. SUPREME Court decision that a public official cannot collect libel damages from his journalistic critics unless he is able to prove that the criticism was a malicious and deliberate lie.

- THE PUBLIC relations impact of "Civil Service Day" at the N.Y. World's Fair, including Governor Rockefeller's and Mayor Wagner's proclamations officially designating the day in honor of civil servants.

- WHY IT WOULD be brilliant public relations for City Hall to hold a mass ceremony honoring the 600 or more civil servants — Transit Authority technicians, police, firemen, building inspectors, doctors, nurses, and others — who restored the Grand Central subway shuttle service 48 hours after a disastrous fire.

- A COMPLETE REPORT on the public relations being reaped by the State of New York from its stunning exhibit building at the New York World's Fair.

- WHY ONE MANHATTAN politician was playing with the most devastating propaganda bomb in the public relations arsenal when he said that the label of "Arab" pinned on a political opponent "started as a joke." Rumor is the most dangerous weapon in the psychological warfare stockpile because once started, it almost never can be controlled or stopped.

- WHY THE NEW York State Theatre and everything else in Lincoln Center is a feather in the public relations caps for both the State of New York and the City of New York.

THESE ARE BUT seven ideas, which could have been discussed at length. Actually, the number I have waiting in my column queue total closer to 25.

BUT WE HAVE a real secret weapon: that alert group of many newspaper and government public relations friends, who come up with the most appropriate ideas for us to write about.

New State's Veteran's Laws

Chap. 233, L. 1964—

New York State

World War II Bonus

Section of chapter 547 of the laws of 1947, entitled "An act to provide for the payment of bonuses for World War II veterans" has been amended for the purpose of establishing a "cut-off" date for the payment of NYS bonuses for World War II veterans.

Effective after March 31, 1965 no payments for a World War II bonus shall be made nor will any application be received after that date unless the person making such an application can prove that they were incapable of making this application prior to March 31, 1965 because of physical or mental incapacity.

Chap. 427, L. 1964—

Public Health Law

Public Health Law has been amended by adding thereto a new section, 3440-a, which requires that the time funeral arrangements are made for the care and disposition of the body of a deceased person, a written statement showing the price of the funeral which shall include an itemized list of services and merchandise to be furnished for such price and a statement of money paid in advance shall be furnished to the person making the necessary funeral arrangements.

(This law was passed as a result of certain allegations regarding the "inflation of prices" of which some of the funeral directors in this state were guilty.)

It is suggested that if you are confronted with such a problem, that you contact the local district attorney's office.

Chap. 417, L. 1964—

Social Welfare Law

Subdivision 1 of section 445 of the Social Welfare Law has been amended to read as follows:

1. Every member of the armed forces of the United States, who was separated or discharged under honorable conditions after serving on active duty therein for a period of not less than thirty days during the period of actual hostilities of either

QUEENS NAMED ON CIVIL SERVICE DAY

NEW YORK CITY —

FEDERAL — Gloria Roehrich, 19 of Brooklyn, above, receives the Miss New York City trophy from Joseph Lochner, executive director of the Civil Service Employees Assn. Gloria, a stenographer in the office of General Manager Walter L. Schlager, Jr., of the New York City Transit Authority, is celebrating her second anniversary of City service this month. She started her career with the T.A. three years ago while between semesters at Catherine McAuley High School. Upon graduation, she qualified as a permanent stenographer through civil service examination. She has a new hobby — taking care of a home. She recently married Albert Wisniewski, a steamfitter, and her main thought now is "being a good wife."

FEDERAL —

Vilma Armione, 22, of The Bronx, below, an administrative aide to the Contract Administrator of the U.S. Atomic Energy Commission receives her loving cup from Paul Kyer, editor of The Leader. Vilma started with the AEC five years ago as a clerk-steno and moved up the ranks to her present position. Vilma is also a night student, having taken night courses at Fordham University while working during the day. She entered federal service following graduation from Aquinas High School in the Bronx. Five feet, eight, 136 pounds, the light brown haired queen lives with her parents in the Morris Park section of the Bronx where she is close to her favorite hobby — horseback riding along Pelham Parkway. Other than sculpturing, as a passive hobby, she loves the outdoors and spends much of her free time playing tennis, swimming and boating.

Four Most Beautiful Girls In Civil Service Selected At Fair

By JOE DEASY, Jr.

The four most beautiful girls in Civil Service in the State of New York were selected by a panel of experts at Civil Service Day ceremonies at the World's Fair last week.

Gloria Roehrich of Brooklyn, a Transit Authority employee was chosen Queen of New York City Civil Service.

Diane Jorgensen of Manhasset, an employee of the Department of Public Welfare in Nassau County will reign as Queen of Local Government Civil Service Employees.

Patricia Loik of Castleton-on-Hudson was selected as the Queen of State Civil Service Employees, while:

Vilma Armione of The Bronx received the crown as Queen of Federal Civil Service Employees.

The four beauties will be flown to Puerto Rico via Trans-Caribbean Airways for a one-week stay with a companion at the Condado Beach Hotel in San Juan. The prizes are being supplied by The Leader, sponsor of Civil Service Day at the World's Fair.

Runners Up

The runners-up for the pageant took the selection of judges with graciousness. They all took part in a luncheon party at the Brass Rail Garden given by Leader and New York Law Journal Publisher Jerry Finkelstein. There was a common feeling among the girls, winners and runners-up alike. They did not know until the judging was over who was the winners. The contestants were that close!

The most difficult task of selecting the queen in each group was given to eight experts in the field of female beauty. The experts were: Jerry Finkelstein, publisher of The Leader and the New York Law Journal; Lawrence Baer, regional director of the U.S. Civil Service Commission; Joseph P. Felly, president of the Civil Service Employees Assn.; Candy Jones, one of the world's most renowned teachers of modeling; Anthony Mauriello, member of the New York City Civil Service Commission; Maxwell Lehman, a former editor of The Leader and now acting City Administrator; William Murray, administrative director of the New York State Civil Service Commission and Abraham Eletz, Director of the Collector Bureau of the New York State Department of Taxation and Finance.

Serving as ladies-in-waiting for the queens were the other finalists in each category. They were:

Federal

Lilly Din, 21, of Brooklyn, an employee of the Veterans Administration Hospital in Brooklyn;

Elizabeth Anzalone, 19, of Kenmore, an employee of the Air Force Contract Management office, Niagara Falls;

Joanne Vulpis of Brooklyn, a

LOCAL —

Petite Diane Jorgensen, 24 of Manhasset below, another first jobber in civil service, receives her loving cup from Joe Deasy, Jr., city editor of The Leader. Diane is a case worker with the Nassau County Department of Public Welfare where she works with children in foster homes. Although she majored in elementary education while at the University of Bridgeport, she prefers her work in child welfare to teaching. "After all, I minored in psychology," she says. "I find the work very gratifying and I love working with children." She is quite proud of the 3/4 inch which is added to her height of 5 feet, 4 3/4 and 114 pounds. Blond with light blue eyes, she was chosen winter formal queen while at the University of Bridgeport. She was entered in the contest by Mrs. Judy Feldman, a sorority sister at school and a fellow caseworker for the County.

NEW YORK STATE —

Patricia Loik, 18 of Castleton-on-Hudson, above, receives her loving cup from Gary Perkinson, director of public relations for the Civil Service Employees Assn. Pat is employed in the steno pool of the Department of Commerce on State Street in Albany. This is her first job since graduating from Maple Hill High School and she is planning to attend night school towards a degree in commercial art — her "big dream in life." This is the first time she has won a beauty contest although she has taken first prize in a painting contest in high school and recently won $10 in the State Suggestion Award Program. Single, the five-five, 115 pound, blue eyed queen is looking forward to her first trip — the trip to Puerto Rico as a guest of The Leader — in the Fall.

Surrounding the columns of the United States Pavilion at the World's Fair were representative exhibits from 12 federal, state and city civil service departments during Civil Service Day last week.

Department exhibitors were: Housing and Redevelopment, City Register, Department of Personnel, Civil Service Dept., both State and City Departments of Correction, Federal and City Departments of Labor, Atomic Energy Commission, Veteran's Administration, Veteran's Affairs, Water Supply, Gas and Electricity; Departments of Real Estate and Rent Control, and the Transit Authority.

Highlights of the exhibits were a tier creation by the State Department of Correction showing the life on an inmate; a microfilm slide demonstration by the City Register; a 40 foot walk through series of housing projects; oil painting by city inmates of the Dept. of Correction, plus slide previews by various departments

Public Servants Make 'Civil Service Day' Big Success

From the starting bell, when the Firemen's Color Guard marched out onto the Singer Bowl, to the transfer of festivities to the Federal Pavilion, to the naming of the Miss Civil Service winners, there was never a lull in the program.

Jack McCarthy, WPIX commentator, acted as master of ceremonies for the day. McCarthy is well-known for his annual presentation of the St. Patrick's Day Parade and is also known for his various shows that appear on WPIX, Channel 11, New York City. Festivities were aired over WNYC Radio, N.Y.

The elements tried their hardest to interfere, but couldn't stop the opening ceremonies which included a demonstration of a fireman coming down a ladder on a rope, to the judo performances of the patrolmen and policewomen.

Firemen Demonstrate

Participating in the firemen's demonstration were Capt. John Davis and Fireman Smith Reed, who climbed to outstanding heights on the ladder and came down the short way, on a rope. Also participating in this act were Lt. James Nagle, division of training and 12 of his probationary firemen who held a net for the two rope men. As soon as the rope men started their descent, the net men pulled away, showing their is no fear in the hearts of the veteran fireman.

The Sanitation Dept. came next. Out of the corner of the Singer Bowl rolled a huge yellow truck, with an even larger wicker basket mounted on the back. The truck moved slowly around the bowl, with loud speakers telling the message: "Keep the City Clean." Also mounted on the truck was "Litter Critter", the City emblem of cleanliness.

Police Dept. Judo Experts

Consisting of six members of the police department, a judo team performed par excellence. The police officers were: Ptl. Walter Burnett, Sgt. Peter King, Sgt. Turchin and Ptl. Dinegan. The policewomen were: Policewoman Balardo and Policewoman Denevich.

Ptl. Burnett and Sgt. King took center stage and demonstrated the techniques and holds necessary for protection.

To the left and right of the policemen were two policewomen facing Sgt. Turchin and Ptl. Dinegan.

The girls proceeded to floor the two huge policemen with ease around the mats at the command of Sgt. King.

Those watching were impressed, as one lady in the crowd remarked, "That's what I should know, then I wouldn't be so scared in my neighborhood."

Impressive and concrete was this portion of Civil Service Day.

Military Affairs

The military, used to the elements, paid little heed to the on-rushing rains, and performed the art of controlling a riot for the audience. The event was introduced by Lt. Col. Raymond F. Joyce.

At this point in the proceedings it was decided by the powers to be to transfer the operations from the Singer Bowl to the Federal Pavilion, where adequate facilities were made available.

The first event under the roof of the Federal Pavilion was the State Commission for the Blind.

Oscar Friedensen, Director, State Commission for the Blind, stressed the importance of mobility to blind persons, in introducing the skit performed by that department.

The event was handled by Herbert R. Brown, director of vocational rehabilitation for the State Commission of the Blind.

Brown introduced Robert Whitstock and his seeing eye dog, Gem. Whitstock told how dogs were trained to aid the blind, what their reactions were and how they were useful. He also explained what was done with dogs who had lost their masters, stating, "The young dogs are kept, providing it is all right with the original owner, so they can be retrained for use by another blind person."

Brown then discussed the use of the cane for the blind person along with Instructor Farrell Richterman and Fred Vieni.

Prisoner and Guard

Next came the State Department of Correction. This event was introduced by Rabbi Kosloff of Sing Sing Prison in Ossining, New York.

Rabbi Kosloff described the improved conditions which have been rendered by the State to the Department of Correction, citing such items as: improved concern for the rehabilitation of the prisoner, improved living and eating conditions.

To point up the procedures used in processing a prisoner upon his arrival at prison, a demonstration was acted out. Acting as the prisoner was Ken Van Vlack, who is a guard at Sing Sing. Acting as the escorting guard was Virgil Jackson, also a guard at the prison. Jackson escorted Van Vlack from one person to another showing how orientation takes place.

The inmate was introduced to the chaplain of his faith, in this case being Monsignor George F. McKinney of Sing Sing, and the Deputy Warden, in this case Addison Byron, also of Sing Sing.

There was several other representatives from the Correction Department, among them correction officers Thomas F. Morston and Mrs. Corinne Dickson from Matteawan State Hospital.

What is Customs?

Surrounded by numerous customs inspectors, three customs men dressed in the garb of early America, told the story of the growth of the customs service in skit form.

The participating customs men were: F. M. Sertine, Joseph Banks, Morris Bukel, T. R. Clark, D. Sienl, Edith Louchrey, J. C. Hicken, H. Shatkin, I. Ratmofsky, H. Watson and S. Melona.

The three inspectors participating in the skit were: George Arsenault, Hughson Hawley, and Janus Patricione.

Program manager for the customs operations was F. Gallozi of the U.S. Customs Service.

Square Dance A Highlight

Some 85 patients of Creedmoor State Hospital participated in a Western Gala, featuring a square dance. Six circles of dancers, dressed to the ears, skirted around the stage of the Federal Pavilion to the directions of the caller. The act, rushed into preparation for Civil Service Day, was conceived, organized and rounded into form by Walter Foley, recreation supervisor at the hospital.

"The patients really broke their backs to put this thing together, and are mighty proud to be in this event," Foley stated.

Welcome All

Ray Diana, executive assistant to Mayor Robert F. Wagner for Civil Service opened the welcoming ceremonies.

Diana read Mayor Wagner's Proclamation declaring "June 1st has been set aside at the World's Fair on Civil Service Day. The Demonstration by members of the New York City Fire Department is explained to observers at the Singer Bowl at the World's Fair on Civil Service Day by Fire Commissioner Edward Thompson, himself a former fireman. Also commenting on the 20 minute, action-packed demonstration was Dr. Gamliel Saland, world renowned specialist in cardiac cases and medical problems of firefighters.

object is to spotlight the multitude of services performed by Government employees which most citizens take for granted."

Kyer Reads Proclamation

Paul Kyer, Editor, The Leader, read the State Proclamation, stating "In our state, in fact throughout our country, there is no more dedicated and conscientious group of workers than our public employees . . . Now, therefore, I, Nelson A. Rockefeller, Governor of the State of New York, do hereby proclaim June 1, 1964, as Civil Service Day."

Kyer also noted, as far as can be discovered, this was the first time a proclamation has been issued by the state honoring the civil service employee with a day."

Baer Speaks

Lawrence Baer, regional director of the U.S. Civil Service Commission praised The Leader for initiating Civil Service Day and for its continued programs to aid the civil service employee.

Baer also praised The Leader for its continuous efforts in raising "The Public Image" of the civil servant.

Awards Presented

Mary Goode Krone, State Civil Service Commissioner presented Certificates of Merit and cash awards to civil servants at this point in the proceedings.

Mary Goode Krone pointed out to the audience the fact that these Certificates of Merit and cash awards were presented for ideas to improve civil service operations.

*Awards amounting to $123,000 were given out last year," she said. This amount is very small considering how much money was saved the tax payer by the suggestions made by the employees."

"Several million dollars was saved through the suggestions," the state executive pointed out.

Day of Tribute

Jerry Finkelstein, publisher of The Leader and the New York Law Journal, addressed the crowd briefly and declared "this is a day of tribute well earned by all public employees. Let me say here that The Leader is proud of being spokesman for so dedicated a segment of the American public. We intend to bend even stronger efforts to gain greater recognition by the general public of the great role you people play in the American way of life."

CSEA President Talks

Joseph F. Felly, president, Civil Service Employees Assn., called for June 1 to be set aside every year as Civil Service Day, "not only as a means of honoring civil servants throughout our nation, but as a reminder to all civil servants of the responsibility their public trust entails."

Queens Borough President

Mario J. Cariello, president of the Borough of Queens, thanked all the people for coming and welcomed them to the Borough.

The Big Moment

Four charming young ladies representing all facets of civil service, the Federal, State, County and City were crowned as Miss Civil Service during this part of the ceremonies.

Six contenders from the four divisions were selected and paraded before a panel of judges, who selected the four winners.

The winners were: FEDERAL,

Vilma Armione; STATE, Patricia Loik; CITY, Gloria Roehrich; COUNTY, Diane Jorgensen.

Presenting the trophies to the winners were Joseph D. Lochner, executive director, Civil Service Employees Assn., Gary Perkinson, public relations director, CSEA; Paul Kyer, Editor, The Leader, and Joe Deasy, Jr., City Editor, The Leader.

The Judges

Candy Jones, who acted as chairman of the judging group is the author of "Finishing Touches", "Time to Grow Up", "Make Your Name in Modeling and Television", "Designing Women" and "Look Your Best."

The mother of three sons, and a civic and social worker, she's still active with the Girl Scouts and has appeared on 21 telethons for various charitable causes. Miss Jones was one of television's earliest celebrities with her NBC-TV show "Startime". She is also widely known for such commercials as those for Cashmere Bouquet, White Rain, Profile Bread and others. Other judges were: Jerry Finkelstein, publisher, The Leader; Maxwell Lehman, city administrator; William J. Murray, Administrative Director, State Civil Service Commission; Anthony M. Mauriello, City Civil Service Commissioner, Joseph F. Felly, president, CSEA; and Lawrence Baer, regional director, U.S. Civil Service Commission.

Concluding the ceremonies for the day was "The Folk Dance Festival" headed by Al Wilkes of the New York City Youth Board.

Nathan H. Mager, business manager, The Leader, conceived and directed Civil Service Day for The Leader.

Because of operational economies effected by Knickerbocker Travel Service, the price of the 15-day island hopping tour of the Caribbean for members of the Civil Service Employees Assn. and their friends has been reduced from $549 to $499.

The $50 reduction in no way reduces the quality of the program. The hotels, plane service and itinerary are exactly the same, a spokesman for Knickerbocker said. The $499 price includes air fare, hotels, most meals, cocktail parties, and golfing fees.

Tour participants will depart from New York on July 19 and head first for Puerto Rico and will stay in the famous Condado Beach Hotel. From there, the group heads for Antigua, one of the most beautiful islands in the Caribbean.

Last major port will be Port-of-Spain, Trinidad, the home of calypso, carnival and culture in the Caribbean. Optional one-day trips to St. Thomas in the Virgin Islands and the popular island of Tabago are available.
