UE Dance at USO Center Successful

"Please stand back; ladies and gentlemen, our next performer is even bigger than I am, and needs plenty of room," pleaded Frank Irick. master of ceremonies at the "Workers of Schenectady" dance at the USO last week. Obligingly, the crowd of 200 dancers moved out of the way, and up stepped 4-year-old Fred Jeske in a miniature "Huck Finn" outfit, complete with faded overalls plaid shirt, bare feet and fishing pole. To the delight of the crowd of service men and workers, little Fred sang of how he "wished he were a kid

And so the program of entertainment went, as planned by the activities committee of Local 301. The proceeds more than met the expenses of the dance, the committee states and the balance will be used to help finance a buffet dinner for service men July 16 at the USO.

"This dance proves," said Mrs. James A. Stewart, assistant director "that workers themselves are the one to plan their own activities, in conjunction with the regular staff of Others who contributed to the entertainment were Marilyn King, Pat Keating and the MacDonald Sisters: workers and that in his own company Davidson, Frank Hudson and Mary Pasquarali. Clifford Nelson called off two square dances.

LEGISLATIVE ACTIVITIES

The Legislative Committee of Local 301 has initiated a new idea for aiding the members of our union with some of the problems arising outside of the shops. At the last meeting of the committee a Community Service Council, with Robert Anderson as chairman, was organized. The purpose of the Council will be primarily to give advice and information on many questions such as rental problems, veterans relief, and others. Persons who are in need of advice and are not members of the organization are welcome to ask for assistance. Mr. Anderson can be contacted at the CIO Hall, 301 Liberty St. Arrangements are being made to have a volunteer staff which will be in a position to give services to both the first and second shifts.

Governor Thomas E. Dewey flatly refused to talk to a delegation of more than 800 citizens from 22 New York cities, including Local 301 representatives, and the town of Pawling, Dewey's hometown, who went to Albany on Thursday, July 13, with the hope of persuading the Governor to make it easier for servicemen and women to vote in the coming elections. The meeting was called in an eleventh-hour appeal to Governor Dewey to make the federal ballot available to New York servicemen and women before July 15, the last date on which state governors could take such action. The delegation was organized by the "Citizens' Non-Partisan Committee", and made up of prominent citizens from all walks of life and from all political parties which is under the chairmanship of of Moss Hart, well-known Broadway theatrical producer. The joint UE-CIO 17c wage adjustment is without question the leading topic of discussion by the members of Local 301 when Union problems are aired. It is vital because it seriously effects their standard of living, their ability to buy more bonds and to plan their future. When organized labor gave up its right to strike, it surrendered its most lethal weapon which can bring about recognition of its problems. It was not an idle gesture. It was unquestionable evidence of labor's patriotism of government which we cherish. Needs Public Support and devotion for the democratic form

In viêw of that action, labor depends upon public support of its problems as they are problems which effect every person in the community. Further, with governmental regulations made necessary by war economy, it is not only the management of the corporations which labor must deal with, but with the political appointees who are the personel of those governmental agencies. Is it a hopeless situation as some people think? The answer is definite-

General Electric and Westinghouse employee members of UE have joined hands with the rest of the CIO in a uniform demand for liberalization of the Little Steel Formula which would make possible wage adjustments. Dewey Denies N. Y. State Soldiers Committeemen Right to Vote

(Continued from Page 1) "the constitution of the State of New York does not prevent soldiers from voting by federal ballot, according to an exhaustive study by members of the Lawyers Guild. There is a bind-ing obligation, embodied in the State Constitution, to extend to the soldier on the battlefield the opportunity to exercise the vote for which he is _fighting_and_dying."

Mrs. Naomi Nash, representing the Wives of Servicemen, pointed out: "Last fall our organization, as yet very small, asked the State War Ballot Commission to send applications to 20 soldiers. Only four received them."

Canada Lee, well-known Negro actor, said that "The state ballot law, like the polltax, prevents the people from voting. . . . we appeal to Governor Dewey in the name of the dead and the living, we beg him not to desert, not to abandon those men who are fighting for the country's

Meeting of Rott.

The program of the Union was carried right onto the front porches of the members as 301 Committeemen living in Rotterdam met in the Rotterdam Town Hall, Friday evening, July 21, and prepared to make a wide distribution of application cards for the servicemen's ballot. A Non-Partisan Committee for the Servicemen's Vote was set up with members of all political parties participating. Canvassing committees in each election district will visit all families-and-leave-war-ballot applications with those having relatives in the armed services.

Members of these committees will point out the necessity of sending new applications to their servicemen, even if they have done so previously, explaining that because of the New York law it is necessary to send these new applications so that the latest military address will be filed with the War Ballot Commission. Most people don't know this and believe one application filed by a serviceman will assure his getting a ballot. Many servicemen have been transferred at least a half dozen times since filing their applications.
