LEFKOWITZ THANKED FOR CONFERENCE TALK

CSEA County Program Aimed At Improving Conditions In All Political Subdivisions

Legislation to improve salary and working conditions for the State's political subdivision employees will be pressed by the Civil Service Employees Association during the coming term of the Legislature.

The county division program of the 80,000-member Association is embodied in a series of resolutions which have been approved by the CSEA Resolutions Committee and which will be submitted to delegates for approval at the organization's 48th annual meeting October 12, 13 and 14 in Albany.

In some instances the Association is asking the Legislature to mandate these improvements and in others to make them permissive.

Salary Schedules Sought

A strong attempt will be made to mandate definite salary schedules, by legislation, in school districts and political subdivisions. One resolution calls on the State to withhold aid for salaries of county welfare departments where the salaries are not equal to State salaries.

The Association will also seek to have the Legislature establish a 40-hour work week maximum in school districts and political subdivisions.

Other resolutions call for full unemployment insurance for subdivision employees and workmen's compensation on playground workers.

To keep employees from losing further money because of rising prices, the Association will seek to remove the eight cents-per-mile auto allowance maximum in counties.

On the retirement front, the CSEA seeks another opportunity for all employees to secure Social Security coverage and asks that the eligible age for receiving such aid be reduced to age 55 for women and 60 for men.

Memorial and Armistice Days as holidays are among other legislation to be proposed.

The Association will seek also to obtain Saturday closing of public offices in towns and villages.

During the annual meeting, further resolutions may be presented to the Committee. However, members are urged to submit all resolutions as far in advance as possible in order to gain the utmost consideration for them.

The County Division of the Association will meet October 12 at 7:30 p.m. in the South Room of the Manger-DeWitt Clinton Hotel with Vernon A. Tapper, CSEA third vice president and Division chairman, presiding.

Division delegates are asked to assemble promptly as a group picture will be taken preceding the meeting.

McMann Continues As Acting Warden For Clinton Prison

ALBANY, Oct. 6 — Commissioner of Correction Thomas J. McHugh announced today that Daniel McMann, principal keeper at Clinton Prison, Dannemora, will continue to serve as acting warden of the prison until such time as the position is permanently filled.

The late J. Vernel Jackson had been warden of the prison since July 1, 1943, until his death on September 10 at the American Congress of Correction in Detroit.

Mr. McMann has been principal keeper at the prison since August 30, 1956. A career employee in the Department of Correction, he was first appointed a guard at Great Meadow Prison in 1928 and was promoted to sergeant in 1938. For five years, between 1943 and 1948, he served as a lieutenant at that institution. Between 1950 and 1955 he was captain at Green Haven Prison, Attica Prison and the N.Y.S. Vocational Institution at West Coxsackie. On October 1, 1955, he was again promoted and named assistant principal keeper at Clinton Prison.

A Navy veteran of World War I, Mr. McMann, 59, is married to the former Sidney Alice Jones of Granville.

State Workers Should Have Premium Pay For Overtime, Att. General Lefkowitz Tells Metro Conference Delegates

In an address to the members of the Metropolitan Conference of the CSEA at its September meeting, Attorney General Louis J. Lefkowitz stated that the wage level of civil service employees should be "at least as high as that paid in private industry."

He said he also was in favor of payment of time and one-half for overtime work which is an accepted condition in private employment and urged that there is no reason why this should not apply to public service. Mr. Lefkowitz emphasized this point with a description of the work done by civil service employees in his office who often work late into the evening to serve the public.

The Attorney General later installed the new officers of the Conference. He was introduced by Harold Herzstein, CSEA regional attorney, who paid tribute to Mr. Lefkowitz for his past and present efforts in behalf of civil service employees.

Assemblyman Giaccio Speaks

Assemblyman William G. Giaccio also spoke to the group. As a member of the Ways and Means Committee of the Assembly, he explained the functions of this committee. Following his speech, the Assemblyman answered questions from the floor and indicated by his answers that he is a good friend of the civil service employee.

The new officers of the Metropolitan Conference are Irwin Schlossberg, president; Sal Butero, first vice president; Sol Bendet, second vice president and Kenneth Valentine, treasurer.

The members of the Conference voted to support a resolution calling for a $500 increase across the board for all State employees.

Dr. Lawrence Kolb, Director of the Psychiatric Institute, where the meeting was held, welcomed the members of the Conference. He cited several benefits granted to employees in his institution as a result of management-employee conferences and cooperation. He expressed his confidence in this pattern of productive cooperation.

On behalf of the Conference, Mr. Schlossberg expressed appreciation to Dr. Lawrence Kolb, director, and to Sal Butero, president of Psychiatric Institute Chapter, for their hospitality to the Conference.

New Schools For Retarded Termed 'Most Advanced'

(Special to The Leader)

WEST SENECA, Oct. 6 — New York's two new schools for mentally retarded children "will provide the most advanced facilities," Governor Harriman declared here.

The Governor's statement was made at ground breaking ceremonies here recently for a $28-million project which will accommodate 1,765 children.

A second school will be constructed in Long Island to expand New York State facilities for the mentally retarded.

Mr. Harriman said some 22,000 children now are under the care of the state in six schools, which he described as "grievously overcrowded."

"Our objective is not simply to house these children," the Governor declared, "but also to help them. To do this it is essential that we expand research in the field of mental retardation."

Retirement Questions?

Retirement is everyone's business and everyone has retirement problems. The Leader wishes to assist its readers in this important and difficult field and will attempt to answer any questions on the subject through a column in this newspaper. Send your questions to "Retirement Editor, The Civil Service Leader, 97 Duane St., New York, 7, N. Y." Answers will appear in the column.

CSEA Group Life Plan To Continue Extra Benefits

The CSEA Pension-Insurance Committee and Board of Directors have approved the continuance during the policy year beginning November 1, 1958, of the extra benefits under its Group Life Insurance Plan which were added to the Plan without additional cost to over 40,000 insured CSEA members.

These additional benefits included 30% additional insurance, double indemnity for accidental death, waiver of premiums for total disability prior to age 60, and other improvements. The CSEA Group Life Insurance Plan contract will be amended to enable members who continue in service beyond age 60 to convert their insurance at lower ages before termination of employment and thus at lower attained age rates. During the first year of this change, any insured member over age 60 will be able to convert his Group Life Insurance at any time, even while in employment, which was not allowed heretofore.

After the change has been in effect for one year, insured members will be given the option of converting their insurance at age 60 or at age 65, even though still employed. Heretofore, conversion was possible only upon termination of employment, retirement, or attainment of age 70. The proposed change has been filed with the State Insurance Department and awaits the approval of that agency.

Rate Credit Changes

There was a slight increase in the loss experience under CSEA Group Life Insurance Plan during the year which ended on August 1, 1958. This increase in loss experience, which is the percentage of claims paid to premiums collected, resulted in a lower estimated rate credit or dividend.

The CSEA board of directors, at their meeting on August 28, decided to maintain a balance of $131,000.00 in the Group Life Plan rate credit account on deposit with the insurance company. This balance compares with a balance of $139,000.00 which the Board decided to maintain the previous year. Maintenance of such a balance is essential as a cushion against the possible increase in loss experience during the coming year, in which event the balance referred to could be used to help assure the continuance of the extra benefits which have been added to the plan, referred to herein, which are so important to the beneficiaries of the members insured under the plan.

In order to maintain about the same balance in the rate credit as was maintained during the previous year for the future protection of our insured members, the Board of Directors decided there would be no refund of premiums to insured members during the coming year. It is expected that if the loss experience during the coming year is more favorable than expected, the CSEA Pension-Insurance Committee and Board of Directors will next year consider additional benefits to provide more protection to the members insured under the plan, or a refund of premium in suitable additional benefits cannot be arranged.

CORRECTION CORNER

An Election Parable

Generally speaking, I don't hang around barrooms. I can get all the action I can handle right at home. The little lady needs some green for a new hat or dress and the answer is "no dough." That's all, fellow, enough fur can fly to make you think of Hudson Bay. But this was different; it was my buddy's birthday and we were holsting a few, just minding our own business, you see, when in walks these two big guys. They were feeling no pain. All of a sudden, we're talking politics. Usually I can do my share of yakking on politics but I'm playing it cool, saying nothing, and the beer is flowing.

My Vote Is My Affair

All of a sudden this guy turns to me and says, "Who you voting for, buddy?" What's his business who I'm voting for. This is America, ain't it? A guy goes in the booth and pulls the lever and that's all, fellow. (Gee, it's getting warm, why don't they air-condition these joints?) Voting for? Well, I work for the State, see, and the guy what's going to do something for the State workers, he is for me. This guy turns to me like I'm Krushchev and his forefather was Paul Revere and starts hollering about patriotism, best man for the job, you're selfish, etc.

Ballot To The Guy Who Earns It

It's very warm now and the shirt collar always was a little tight see, so I gives this guy a piece of my mind. After all, too much I can't afford to give away. Listen dope, when a senator or congressman votes against farm parity, what happens? The farmer buries him at the polls. Ever hear of the National Association of Manufacturers backing the Liberal Party. By now I'm really warmed up; sure thing nobody by the name of duPont ever voted for Norman Thomas. You gotta vote for the guy that thinks about you after election too.

Talkers and Doers

This other guy was big, see, real big. He must have played center for the Giants and about this time he bangs his fist on the bar and calls for another scotch. I took another look at his Primo Carnera hands, but by now nothing fazes me. Turning to these two big stiff, I said, "Who are you guys voting for?" The guy what gives me the Benedict Arnold routine starts copping out and with "ohs" and "ahs" it comes out he works in construction and keeps following the jobs, so he hasn't registered or voted for 15 years! The other giant is still got his first papers and has flunked his citizenship test twice already.

Me, that was born in Massachusetts, (remember, the Tea Party, you know, Bunker Hill and all that stuff), these two barroom politicians are telling me how to vote. Imagine the nerve of these guys making me feel like I spit on Old Glory, and they don't vote. By this time I'm ready to take 'em both on but my buddy is still nursing his first bottle and I listen to his advice and drop it. That's the way it always it—the guy that never votes tells you how to vote, the panhandler tells you how to make a fortune.

Get out on Election Day and vote; vote for the man of your choice, but vote, and remember the guy that remembers you.

Opportunities Stressed

"The Federal service entrance examination offers you a satisfying career with opportunity to work on program of national and international importance; to advance to positions of responsibility and leadership, to be trained for interesting, stimulating assignments, to earn attractive salaries and receive liberal fringe benefits. Successful candidates will be assigned for training to career positions in such fields as the following:

General administration, economics and other social sciences, business analysis and regulation, Social Security administration, management analysis, production planning, communications, personnel management, budget management, housing management, tax collection, electronic data processing, library science, statistics, investigation, information, food and drug inspection, recreation, customs inspection, procurement and supply, records management, and adjudication.

"Career positions in agriculture and natural sciences include agricultural economics, agricultural writing and editing, market reporting, marketing specialization, park ranger activities, plant pest control inspection, plant quarantine inspection, agricultural statistics, and fish and wildlife activities.

Internships Included

"Some agencies offer a number of management internships. Although the number of internships is limited, if you are selected, you will participate in intensive training programs designed to develop persons with outstanding promise as future administrators. Also, your opportunities for rapid promotion will be greater. To be considered for an internship, you will be required to pass additional written tests of greater difficulty and an oral interview. The additional written test for management internships will be given in November, January, February, and March. The oral interviews will be held in February and April.

"Management interns may be paid starting salaries of $4,980 or $5,985 a year, depending upon their qualifications. Other positions filled from this examination have starting salaries of $4,040 and $4,980 a year.

Requirements for the three grades:

For Grade GS-5 ($4,040), you must have completed or expect to complete within 21 months a four-year college course leading to a bachelor's degree; or you must have had three years of experience in administrative, professional, investigative, technical, or other responsible work which has prepared you to enter into the positions for which this examination is appropriate (experience in the trades and crafts or routine clerical work is not qualifying); or you may offer any equivalent combination of the above education and experience. In combining education and experience, an academic year of study will be considered equivalent to nine months of experience.

For Grade GS-7 ($4,980), candidates who meet the minimum education requirements for grade GS-5 may also be rated eligible for grade GS-7 if their college record clearly shows that they have superior ability or if they become eligible as management interns in this examination. In addition to completing the education or experience required for grade GS-5 above; you must have completed, or expect to complete within nine months, one year of graduate study; or you must have had one year of experience of the type required for grade GS-5; or you may offer any combination of graduate study and experience totalling one year. Completion of at least six full years of resident college work leading to an LL.B. or higher degree in a recognized law school will also meet the entire education requirement for grade GS-7. All requirements for the degree in law must be met to qualify for grade GS-7 under this provision.

For Grade GS-9 ($5,985 for Management Internships only), in addition to completing the education or experience required for grade GS-7; you must have completed, or expect to complete within nine months, one additional year of graduate study or all requirements for a master's degree; or you must have had one year of experience of the type described above, of a level of difficulty comparable to that of a position at grade GS-7 in the Federal service; or you may offer any combination of graduate study and experience totalling one year.

What You Must Do

For all grades all applicants, to be eligible, must pass a written test; may be required to demonstrate in an interview that they possess the personal qualities required for certain positions to be filled from this examination; must furnish references who are able to verify the education and experience claimed. (Confidential inquiries may be sent to these re-

Off To a Good Start

THE LAST Federal entrance test was so well promoted and conducted that it won a national prize. The current one is off to an excellent start and maybe there's another award in the offing.

It is no disparagement of last year's effort to say that the U.S. Civil Service borrowed the promotion tactics of private industry, maybe introducing a little more conservatism, but not too much. After all, the U.S. is in competition with private industry for the best brains in the land who seek to begin a career and had better be at least as modern in its techniques as are private industry and some, though few, other branches of government. College graduates are sought, of course, also college seniors and, this year for the first time, even juniors, with the idea that not only a diploma but also a job awaits the graduate. However, equivalent training and experience entitles one to compete, hence no college degree is necessary but certainly that intangible asset mysteriously called "the college type mind."

Questions Answered On Social Security

I AM 52 years of age. I worked for 10 years under Social Security, then went to work under Federal civil service. This job was not covered under Social Security. I lost both legs in an automobile accident a year ago, but I was told I did not qualify for disability benefits because I did not work one and one-half years under Social Security in the three years before I had the accident.

B. L.

Until September 1958, a disabled worker had to have worked in employment covered by Social Security for one and one-half years out of three years, as well as, in five out of 10 years before his disability began. Under the recent amendments to the Social Security law it is not necessary for a disabled worker to have worked in covered employment a year and a half out of the three years before becoming disabled. You should get in touch with your Social Security district office to discuss your particular case.

I WAS TOLD that if a disabled person receives workmen's compensation benefits, he cannot receive disability benefits under Social Security. Is this true? C.E.

For months before August 1958, the amount of any State workmen's compensation payments and Federal disability benefits other than compensation for a service connected disability were deducted from the amount of disability insurance benefits payable by the Social Security Administration. Under the amendments to the law, beginning with August, 1958, the receipt of such benefits will not affect Social Security payments.

I HAVE BEEN DISABLED for several years and am now receiving a Social Security disability benefit. I heard that payments can now be made to children of disabled workers. Is this true? I have a son age 15. C. E. B.

If you are now receiving a disability benefit your child will now be eligible for benefits. Your wife may also now be eligible for benefits. You should get in touch with your Social Security district office immediately about having your dependents apply for their benefits.

I AM RECEIVING Social Security benefits of $90 a month as a retired worker. I heard that I will be getting an increase. Can you tell me how much of an increase I may expect? Do I have to apply for this increase? V.E.

An increase of about 7 percent or $7 will be added to your check of January, 1959. This check will be mailed to you early in February, 1959. It is not necessary for you to apply for this increase as our beneficiaries on the rolls will receive the added amount in their check at that time.

I HAVE BEEN receiving a disability benefit due to my severe illness. I heard recently that children of disabled workers may also be eligible. Is this true? I have two children ages 13 and 15. J.E.B.

Yes. Under the new amendments to the Social Security Law, if you are receiving a disability benefit, your children may now be eligible. Your wife may also be eligible for benefits. You should contact your local social security district office as soon as possible with regard to having your dependents file an application.

LETTERS TO THE EDITOR

BYRNES LAUDS EXPOSURE OF FALSITY OF CLAIMS

Editor, The Leader:

Congratulations to The Leader on its editorial "Pirates on the Horizon." Everything you say in that editorial relative to the Civil Service Employees Association and the many gains it has accomplished for State employees is true. I have lived through those efforts for the past 25 years.

Time and again through the years I have refuted statements from other organizations who have tried to take credit for gains won for State employees by the CSEA. John T. DeGraff, CSEA counsel, and Joseph D. Lochner, executive director, can verify what I say because I called on them many times for aid in rebutting these false claims, and they have responded unflinchingly.

The CSEA can indeed be proud of the part it has played and is still playing to bring about a better way of living for State employees.

JOSEPH J. BYRNES

Manager, NYC chapter, CSEA

(The editorial, published in the September 30 issue, exposed the false claims to having won gains that the CSEA achieved—Editor).

NEED FOR LOCAL INTEREST IN NATIONAL ELECTIONS

Editor, The Leader:

The election of U.S. Senators and Representatives in Congress is not just a Federal concern. State and local government employees should be no less interested in the result as are Federal employees.

Social Security alone has brought the Federal government directly into the lives of State, City, and county employees as well. That is why I read with particular interest your story about Seymour Halpern running for Congress from a Queens district. His reputation as a fearless crusading State Senator in improving the lot of civil service employees is well known. As legislative representative of the Federation of Associations of Employees of the Board of Education of the City of New York, comprising the seven principle organizations, I came in contact with him frequently. I know first hand of his fine work as chairman of the Senate civil service committee.

EDWARD T. KRUGLAK

Judge Conway Honored

The 21st annual dinner of the Brooklyn Trial Counsel Association was held at the Waldorf-Astoria hotel in Manhattan. Honored at the dinner, among others, was Albert Conway, Chief Judge of the Court of Appeals.

Workmen's Compensation Institute Opens Oct. 2

Governor Averell Harriman will open a two-day Institute on Workmen's Compensation in New York City at 10:30, Wednesday morning, October 22, at the Statler-Hilton Hotel. There will be a series of discussions for those working in the field of workmen's compensation in the nine New York counties of the metropolitan area.

Angela R. Parisi, Chairman of the State Workmen's Compensation Board, said that the meeting will feature talks by legal and medical authorities and specialists practicing in Workmen's Compensation. Detailed expositions of the operation and administration of the law will be given by spokesmen for insurance carriers, organized labor, self-insurers and the State government.

The agenda is obtainable from the New York City office of the Board at 50 Park Place, telephone Digby 9-4000.

Where Sovereignty Ends And Civil Rights Begin

THE ATTEMPT by a union to organize the New York City police has attracted national attention. Newspapers throughout the land have printed stories about it. Magazines of large national circulation, like the United States News and World Report, published feature articles on the subject. Nationally syndicated columnists, like George E. Sokolsky, discussed the pros and cons. At an international police dinner in New York City, Police Commissioner Stephen P. Kennedy discarded a prepared speech to sound off extemporaneously and even emotionally in opposition to the police being unionized anywhere, or any organization of policemen, like the Patrolmen's Benevolent Association, attempting to operate like a union, or, as the Commissioner put it, a strike union.

The PBA asked Mayor Robert F. Wagner for sole collective bargaining rights. The Commissioner is opposed, he says, for it smacks of unionism. Moreover, Commissioner Kennedy used as a principal argument the assertion Mr. Sokolsky had made only two days before, that the police are charged with the responsibility of maintaining law and order, which, said the columnist, is a sovereign function, to be distinguished from proprietary operations, and the Commissioner echoed the phrase.

Conflict-of-Interest Argument

Argumentative opposition to police unionization is also based on the contention that conflict of interest might arise; the police must be impartial in the discharge of all their duties. Specific opposition to the Teamsters organizing the police, because of accusations against some of their officials, undoubtedly accounts for much of the attention given to the drive in New York City conducted by Local 237, of which Henry Feinstein is president. Newspaper editorials have been hostile to the Teamsters as much as to the idea of unionization of the police. Much of the national attention accorded by newspapers to a local drive stems from the same roots, though some of the magazines are impartial, particularly U. S. News and World Report.

There is much more to the question, as attested by the fact that argumentative opposition to police organization is without documentation or substantiation.

What Price Sovereignty?

Take, for instance, the argument offered by Mr. Sokolsky, and picked up by Commissioner Kennedy, that the police power of the State is a sovereign power. In policing a jurisdiction, say, the City of New York, certainly the police power is sovereign, but not even one employee organization wants or seeks any part of running a government or even a department, nor would seek to interfere with the Commissioner's power and authority to police the City. What the policemen seek, and have long been denied, not only in New York City but elsewhere, are the same rights that other public employees enjoy, including a modern labor relations program, with standard and effective procedures for processing grievances.

No Sovereignty in Labor Relations Work

It is untenable to say that the policemen's request must be refused because to grant it would be to abdicate sovereignty. Except in a police state or any other totalitarian form of government, there is no sovereign power in labor relations. Sovereignty means the right to decree and to seize and is exercised under powers that suspend or supersede precious guarantees and protections as found in the Bill of Rights and in State constitutions. It means the right to institute forced labor and even to confiscate.

The government in its sovereign capacity can compel military service. No government in the free world can compel any man to be a policeman. Government may take whatever real estate it finds necessary for a public purpose, another exercise of sovereignty, but not without paying a fair price for it, usually set by a court. Government may levy taxes, another sovereign power, one that even a police commissioner wouldn't even dare to attempt to exercise. In a democracy the areas in which government can exercise sovereignty are few.

In citing sovereignty as a reason for opposing police organization, or the exercise by an independent association of employees of powers common to unions, Mr. Sokolsky and Commissioner Kennedy only confuse the issue. Mr. Kennedy even says that sole collective bargaining rights for the police are unthinkable because such rights relate to negotiations on pay, hours, and working conditions, which, he adds, must be established by law alone. When he said that, he added parenthetically that he was speaking as a lawyer. He certainly was not speaking as a patrolman who stands aghast at his low take-home pay.

No Sound Reason for Exclusion

There is no more reason why sole collective bargaining rights should not be enjoyed by policemen than by firemen and sanitationmen, who have them now in New York City, and nobody has yet stated a good reason why not. The argumentative opposition is based on shallow theory, possible but improbable eventualities, on ignoring the fact that police are unionized in many jurisdictions in the United States, and in some cities and towns even negotiate on wages, hours, and working conditions, all without the untoward results that are "everywhere dense" in the theories on which opposition is based. For instance, policemen who are members of unions do not themselves strike, do not take sides in industrial strikes, are not ordered by their union leaders not to cross picket lines of locals of their international, lines formed in industrial strike operations, and do not in any other way, violate their oath of office. It is an affront to the policemen themselves even to broach the possibility of their profaning that oath, and it is surprising to find a police commissioner adding his voice.

A Big Question Yet To Be Finally Decided

Not only should the police have the same organizing rights and labor relations resources as all others, but it may even be true that the right to join any legitimate employee organization of one's choosing is implicit in American citizenship. This question may well be one for the United States Supreme Court to decide. It has yet to be brought before that court, but such a basic problem in civil rights can not be satisfactorily decided by any lesser court.

Commissioner Kennedy referred to unions as debating societies and added that he wasn't going to let any group of employees second-guess his command decisions. That again confuses the issue through an attempt to unite two separate and different things. Policing the City is the duty of the Police Department and for the efficient discharge of that duty the Commissioner is responsible. Labor relations in the Police Department are something else. To all the other New York City departments the Mayor's labor relations program applies, but not to the Police Department, as to the uniformed force, though to the Police Department's "civilians".

Never Mind Saying 'Thanks'

Why the Police Commissioner insists that labor relations should be under his control is easy to understand: if the uniformed police should come under the citywide labor relations program he would lose some of the power he now exercises, though the power that he would lose is not a police function at all, any more than it is a sovereign power.

Labor relations and sovereignty are a contradiction in terms. The sooner government stops acting like a sovereign in matters of pay, hours, and working conditions, and starts acting merely as an employer, the higher will be public employee morale, and the better will our government become. The viewpoints and tactics that we borrow from totalitarians we should return promptly, and without thanks.

ACTIVITIES OF EMPLOYEES THROUGHOUT NEW YORK STATE

New York City

The first regular monthly meeting of the New York City chapter, CSEA, for the 1958-59 season was held at Gassner's Restaurant in Manhattan. Newly elected officers of the chapter were installed at this meeting. Among the guests were Tax Commissioner George M. Bragalini and State Senator Jeremiah B. Bloom.

Commissioner Bragalini in his speech to the assembled guests extolled civil service employees and decried the low salaries being paid them. Senator Bloom also praised the employees on the fine job they are doing and also the chapter on its fine state of officers. Senator Bloom, who is a lifelong friend of our new president, Max Lieberman, was the installing officer. The new officers are: Max Lieberman, president; Samuel Emmett, 1st vice president; Albert Corum, 2nd vice president; Seymour Shapiro, 3rd vice president; Edward S. Public Service Plans United Charity Campaign

Once each year, the New York office of the Public Service Commission conducts a United Charity Campaign. This single combined appeal is designed to avoid repeated office drives for funds and has proved successful in the past. Philip Wexler, chairman of this year's drive, announced that the campaign for funds will begin on October 8 and extend through October 22. Contributions may be made to one or more charities including, among others, the Greater New York Fund (consisting of 425 local agencies), American Red Cross, Salvation Army, Heart Fund and Cancer Crusade. All contributions are voluntary and contributors will receive a receipt for tax purposes. The drive has been endorsed by Chairman Benjamin F. Feinberg and by the Metropolitan Public Service Chapter of the Civil Service Employees Association.

Mr. Wexler has urged all Commission employees to participate in this once-a-year effort to raise funds for needed purposes. Members of the committee for the United Charity Campaign for 1958 include: Marie H. McCaffrey, treasurer; Nathan L. Elgot (Accounting and Rates, General Engineering); Tillie S. Cohen, Frank DuCharme, Helen Podvesker, Anne Schad and Frank Hurst (Administration); Margaret Raichert (Counsel); Fanny Nelson, Sally Bloom and Edith Fruchthendler (Executive); Ida Blumenfeld (Public Relations); Florence T. Osinski (Hearing); Sadie Hirsch (Utilities); Henry Bellmuth (General Engineering); Mildred Egler (Motor Carrier); Ethel Galloway and Fannie Leibowitz (Power); John Sloan (Railroad); Joseph Foxell (Telephone); Ella Alexander, Lillian Montag and Tom Hyland (Utility Accounting); Irma Baron and Gerald P. Albany Chest Drive Headed by Allen

Designated by Governor Harriman to head the State Division of the Albany Community Chest Drive, Commissioner of Education James E. Allen, Jr. has asked the heads of State Departments and other State Agencies to appoint chairmen for the drive.

The first meeting of the current Community Chest Drive was held on Thursday, September 25, at 10 A.M. in the Regents Room of the State Education Building when the Chairmen of Advance Gifts met.

In his letter to State Departments notifying them that Commissioner Allen is Chairman of the State Division, Governor Harriman said: "The 1958 drive is about to start and it is important that the employees of New York State continue to show their interest in their community by generous contributions to this worthy cause."

Noting that the goal this year is higher than any set in the past, Commissioner Allen expressed confidence that "with the help and the assistance of well qualified department representatives, I know that the State employees will display their usual generosity and interest in their community."

Powers on AGE Board, Public Employee Assn.

John F. Powers, president of the Civil Service Employees Association, has been elected to the board of directors of the Assembly of Government Employees, formerly the National Conference of Independent Public Employee Organizations.
