STATE COLLEGE FOR TEACHERS, ALBANY, N. Y., FRIDAY, FEBRUARY 27, 1931

$2.25 Per Year, 32 Weekly Issues.

SENIORS' PLEDGES AMOUNT TO $5000

Members Give From $50 to $100; Collections Are Received by Team Captains

Nearly five thousand dollars has been pledged by this year's senior class, it was revealed at the weekly meeting of the captains of the new residence hall fund. Each captain reported that at least four of his team had already pledged or intended to pledge amounts varying from $50 to $100.

Mrs. Bertha E. Brimmer, secretary of the alumni association, was in charge of the meeting. Lawrence Newcomb, '31, president of the class, received and read the reports of the captains.

Dean Anna F. Pierce congratulated the committee members on the work which has been done to date. "This class is far ahead of all other classes so far in the amount pledged to date, because the campaign was begun earlier this year," she said. "We hope that the captains will turn in at least two pledges at each of the meetings so that all members of the class will have signed up before April when senior activities begin in earnest."

Members of the class may send their pledges to any of the following captains: Alfred Basch, Alice Bennett, Catherine Broderick, Margaret Cusler, Walter Driscoll, Esther Eckstein, Jean Gillespie, Mildred Hall, Margaret Hickey, Carol Kelley, Hamilton Nelson, Eva Dowers, Zoe Hinrichs, Edith Hunt, Dorothy Kling, Betty Kautter, Jean Minkin, Frances Peck, Florence Lindblad, Russell Ludlum, Catherine R. He will leave the United States on June 21 and will sail from Liverpool on the return voyage about September 3. He expects to be at the college on September 19 for the world report to the opening of the year.

Society Will Announce New Members In News

The members of the senior class who are eligible for membership in Sigma Lambda will be announced in the next issue of the News.

Sigma Lambda is the only purely scholastic honor society at state. It was formed last year through the combined effort of the upper classes and the faculty. Its aim, as stated in its constitution, is to encourage and reward scholarship.

KAPPA PHI KAPPA TO PICK DELEGATE AT MEETING SOON

The national assembly of the Kappa Phi Kappa education fraternity will be conducted at the Hotel Onondaga in Syracuse, March 26, 27, 28, to formulate an educational policy. The Chi chapter of State college will elect its delegate at its March meeting, according to Arnold Copping, '31, president.

It is expected that C. Edward Jones, superintendent of schools in Albany, will address the Kappa Phi Kappa early in March on "What a superintendent looks for in a prospective teacher," Copping said.

At the January open meeting, Dr. Peter C. Owen, of the Educational Research Bureau of the State Education department, discussed the new idea of the Associated Academic Principals.

Kappa Phi Kappa is a professional education fraternity. It is a member of the professional interfraternity which gives it a national recognition.

The Troubadours began work on their annual show when members of the circle met for their initial rehearsal Monday, at 7:30 o'clock. The rehearsal was under the supervision of Duane Baker, '32. He was assisted by Daniel Corr, '31.

Those who attended the rehearsal were: Lawrence Newcomb, Robert Zaklaski, Daniel Corr, Walter Driscoll, and James Kalkreuth, seniors; Duane Baker, Alfred Strong, John Lyons, Curtis Rintelen, and Fred Erick Appelton, juniors; Edward Kerck, Ralph Harris, Charles Jackson, and Frank MacFarland, sophomores; Philip Richardson, Bertram McNary, Robert Robinson, Leo Plante, and William Rogers, freshmen. Four men have thus far signified their intention to participate in an all-Troubadour orchestra. They are: Ormond Guyer, '33, Edward Dovesy, Charles Dunham, and Bertram McNary, freshmen.

Ray Collins, '31, who is in charge of the specialty acts and solo skits, is arranging special numbers. There will be tap dancing, vocal solos, modern dances, vocal and saxophone quartet, a string quartet, and a scene in a sorority house.

The entire show is under the direction of J. Bruce Filly, '33.

Harty, instructor in government and Mr. Harty will be the conductor of the symphony orchestra. Mr. Harty is a graduate of Katharine Avenue, chairman of the music committee.

Reservations are being made to all members of the student body, and will be in the charge of F. H. M. Moore, '31, and the member of the orchestra will be invited to attend.

140 Women Earn Some College Expense; Dean Pierce Lists Nine Types Of Work

Over two hundred girls of the state college women are working for their tuition and board for private families in Albany, according to Dean Anna F. Pierce. Besides their own maintenance part time work, such as taking care of children, sewing, dressmaking, and being in home shops, a great many of the girls are doing extra work in the home, such as cleaning, cooking, and other household work, and working for the New York Telephone company.

There are 140 girls at work, and a great many are working for the night and there is an extra of quite a high pay. The percentage to young women of the college to obtain maintenance to accidents caused by auto. This is very good practice in developing assurance, presence, and the ability to talk convincingly," Miss Pierce said. "It might be well for some of the seniors who may not get a teaching position to do this said."

Awards Contract

The contract for the manufacture of rings for the class of '32 has been awarded by Leah Egan, chairman of the ring committee, to the Warren Kalkreuth company.

1932 VOTES PLAIN RING FOR CLASS, BALLOT REVEALS

The junior class has selected the ring submitted by the Warren Kalkreuth company, the result of the voting conducted by the ring committee last Monday, Tuesday and Wednesday shows, Leah Egan, '32, chairman of the committee, announced.

"The winning ring is the plainer of the two submitted to the class," said Miss Egan. The numerals of the class and the degree that the student is working for are engraved on the shank.

The Warren Kalkreuth company had the contract for making the ring of the last three classes.

Three more qualified teaching positions have been assigned to Miss M. Saylor, secretary of the placement bureau. Two of the positions will be in Amsterdam, Wilhelmina Robinson, '34, and Florence Robinson, '34, and the third will be in a private school in Albany.

TEAM HAS RETURN CONTEST TONIGHT

Varsity Meets Jersey Teachers; Ingraham Stars as State Beats Cooper Union

The Purple and Gold quintet, fresh from its victory over Cooper Union Tech, will try to avenge its defeat at the hands of New Jersey Teachers when it meets the latter on the court of Page hall at 8:15 o'clock tonight. The New Jersey Teachers decisively defeated State at Trenton by the score of 55 to 24 on Lincoln's birthday.

Last week Cooper Union proved to be easy prey for the State quintet. When the final whistle blew, the score stood 31 to 17 in State's favor. The score at the halt was 19 to 5 with State on the long end.

Ben Ingraham was high scorer of the evening, making six field goals for a total tally of 12 points. Captain Lyons and Gilbert DeLaura managed to make 7 points each. The two State guards played an exceptional game and held the two Cooper Union Tech forwards to only one basket.

The following players will probably start the game tonight: Gilbert DeLaura, Osmer Brooks, Ingraham, Lyons, and Frank Ott. Roger Bancroft's injured hand will probably keep him out of the game.

State will close the basketball season on March 7 when it meets New Jersey Law school. So far this year State won three games and lost five. To the preliminary game, the juniors will play the sophomores in an intramural game at 6:30 o'clock.

MISS VAN BUREN TO BE CHAIRMAN FOR CONFERENCE

Asenath Van Buren, '32, has been appointed chairman for the Young Women's Christian association for the conference to be conducted this spring in conjunction with the Young Men's Christian association, Carol Kelley, '31, president of the Y. W. C. A., said today.

Georgette Will, '32, is the Y. M. C. A. chairman for the conference. The date has not been selected yet, but will probably be sometime in April, Miss Kelley said.

Last year the conference was Friday and Saturday, April 4 and 5, in Cameron Hall of Christ Church in New York city, who was prominent in social and extension work, was the general leader of the conference. The featured speaker was Dr. Richard Hall, a young negro graduate of Lincoln university, Pennsylvania, who spoke and conducted several discussion groups on the race problem.

'33 DEFEATS '34 TO GAIN 3 POINTS IN CLASS RIVALRY

The sophomore class is now leading in the inter class rivalry points because of the victory of the sophomore women in the inter class basketball game a double Wednesday afternoon in the gymnasium of Page hall.

The sophomore team defeated the freshmen by the score of 28 to 22. Miss Donatella Deitz, former instructor in physical education, and Miss Isabelle Johnson, head of the physical education department, were the referees for the game. Frances Virginia Cook, '31, a member of Mykama, and the Girl's Athletic association, the basketball sports captain, was in charge of the arrangements for the game. All the inter class rivalry events are under the supervision of Mykama.

This victory counted three points in rivalry. These are the only points that have been scored up to this time. The next event will be the debate which will be conducted between the two classes. The tentative date has been set for March 27, Russell Ludlum, '31, president of the student association, announced today.

SCHOLARSHIP RISES

Advance reports from the office of the registrar indicate that the general scholarship average will be higher this year than last. It is an encouraging piece of information. President A. R. Brubacher has often spoken of the fact that visitors to the College are impressed with the professional attitude of its students. Perhaps the best way to show professional zeal as well as interest in subject matter is to accumulate good grades.

This does not necessarily mean that students must be "grinds," but it does call for a reasonable amount of study. The best paying positions go to those who have good scholastic records, other things being equal.

WHOSE DEBATE WILL IT BE?

When is a debate coach not a debate coach? This question will have to be answered by the members of the debate teams which will represent the freshman and sophomore classes in the annual interclass rivalry debate this semester.

For the past two years debates have been conducted between the underclasses as part of their interclass rivalry program. On neither occasion was the aid or assistance of upperclassmen or outside debaters solicited by the contending teams. They were content to use their own abilities, feeling that as representatives of their classes, they had assumed an honorable responsibility that could be maintained only by fair preparation.

This year the freshman team, organized early in the last semester, engaged in a debate and had the assistance of upperclassmen who acted in an advisory capacity. As the time for the interclass debate approaches, discussion in the locker rooms and corridors seems to indicate that both teams are going to have the benefit of assistance from upperclassmen who are members of either the men's or women's varsity debate teams.

There should be a definite understanding based upon an honorable promise as to just how far this assistance will go. For the teams to prepare briefs and submit them to upperclassmen for suggestions and criticism seems all right. But it will certainly be a mark on the honor of the classes concerned to allow upperclass participation to extend beyond this point. The debate is expected to be one prepared and spoken by the underclassmen. They must not become the mouthpieces of upperclassmen who satisfy ancient rivalry grudges by illegitimate participation after they have become seniors and juniors. The freshman and sophomore classes have confidence in the ability of their representatives and these debaters will betray a trust if they do anything to solicit the aid of others beyond the reasonable point suggested in this editorial.

PROFESSORS FLUNK, TOO

The perfect method of relieving the feelings of students who have failed in difficult examinations was at last tried out at Columbia University. The students prepared an examination paper of their own and submitted it to the members of the faculty. Only 10 of the 53 instructors who accepted the dare answered the full list of questions. Only four would permit their names to be used when the papers were marked. Not one attained a passing mark, and only one measured up to the high mark of 55.1 per cent.

Nothing remains now except to publish the answers of the professors in the hope that one of them wrote that ivory was made from soap or that a blue point is a kind of oyster. This would make revenge complete for all that the professors have done in publishing the true answers on students' papers. As it is, there will no doubt grow up a tradition at Columbia that in the year 1931 not one professor knew who the President was and not one knew who invented the phrase "categorical imperative," for none were able to answer these and equally simple questions propounded to them.

Students flopping their brains over examinations from now on will no doubt find comfort in the results of this examination of professors. They will comfort themselves in this renewed evidence that tools can ask questions that wise men cannot answer. One even more important result might be to discourage the present rather foolish habit of trying to fix every intelligence by the questionnaire method. As a pastime, the "as me another" tad is interesting fun; as a means of measuring the brain capacity of any individual it has repeatedly been found wanting.

From the UTA OBSERVER-DESPATCH

AN INTERCOLLEGIATE OBLIGATION

A faculty committee, chosen by the student association, has named four men to represent State college at the annual Model League of Nations Assembly to be conducted soon at Princeton.

It is a mark of far-sightedness and broadmindedness for the association to appropriate money to finance this delegation. They will be the ambassadors of the student association, disseminating opinions and ideas representative of this College and bringing back ideas and customs of other institutions.

Several hundred colleges and universities will be present at the meeting by means of delegations and it is a mark of intercollegiate interest for State college to be among them.

BOOKS: Dale Warren Assembles Volume of Short Stories

(For Sale in the Co-op)

A Modern Galaxy. Assembled by Dale Warren. Houghton Mifflin. 415 pages. $3.00.

These sixteen short stories are arranged in alphabetical order, according to their authors, beginning with Cary Austin's "Papago Wedding" and ending with Elsie Singmaster's "The World Turned Upside Down." All in this galaxy are written by authors of recognized merit (one wonders if this was a deciding factor in their choice). There are John Buchan, Willa Cather, Denis Machail, Roland Pertwee and Rafael Sabatini.

Anne Douglas Sedgwick, who caused such a stir a few years ago with her Little French Girl contributes a character sketch entitled "The Rat." Aggie has a temperament which any one might envy: Whatever you did to Aggie she would still go on loving you. That was what she had to give.

Laconic simplicity is the keynote of the opening story. The child-likeness of these simple Indians, as portrayed in "Papago Wedding," is shown in their primitive outlook on life. And who are we to say they are wrong in many instances? "And, not having visited Susie when she was happy with her man, they went now in numbers, and by this Susie understood that it was in their hearts that she might have need of them." The wearing of a hat versus the wearing of a handkerchief upon the head is the pivotal point—the symbol of civilization.

In contrast to this story is the one named "Herself" by Katherine Newlin Burt. This psychological picture of the fight of a gently reared girl against her ugly self is well worked out. The passing on of this hereditary struggle through at least three generations "makes one to think."

A surprising finish, an interchange of personalities, when the reader suspects first one character then the other; then some innocent by-stander, or being the notorious "Miss Hinch" who has killed her lover, a puzzle which holds even the most blasé of audiences—such is "Miss Hinch" by Henry Sydney Harrison.

It is always entertaining in reading a collection of short stories to try to determine the tastes of the editor. When beginning A Modern Galaxy the reader thinks: "Ah! Sophistication!" Little by little his opinion changes until finally he is frankly at a loss as to the personality of Dale Warren. One even wonders if one knows what sophistication is upon concluding "North Is Black" by Oliver La Farge.

At the end of this volume are listed the other writings of the different authors, specimens of which are included in A Modern Galaxy.

THE STATESMAN

BY RAY COLLINS

With the Troubadour show only three weeks away, the boys are busy formulating ideas which will meet with the approval of our hard-hearted penny-throwing audience. These characters usually inhabit the gallery during all the social functions, and exercise the critical eye. The Troubadours are considering several pleasing renditions and are endeavoring to be as practical as possible so that they may draw those persons who, last year, had other major interests on the same evening. In any event, an attempt will be made to present that type of entertainment which we feel will be pleasing and of an understandable plane for the average crowd.

The girls have finally decided to give a few of the men a break, according to an announcement in last week's News. They have agreed to work with the boys from an entirely different angle, this time being in the role of a co-singer, or dancer. Of course, this arrangement is incompatible with tradition, but after all, we are unusual, and I am sure that the boys will enjoy working with the coeds. Some of the scenes in the comedy will undoubtedly necessitate the portraying of practical scenes in life, and if the actors are able to reproduce their experiences, the audiences will surely feel at home. I believe that this will improve the quality of the production as it is always difficult to substitute a man for a woman and vice versa with any degree of success.

The following has been submitted to me by a prominent group of potential R. P. I. engineers, seemingly interested in the welfare of our State's slave girl, as a scientific explanation of the ideal girl. Incidentally this discourse has been received to the Inter-assembly council and as yet their plan are tentative as to the proper application of the fundamental principles stated.

In applying the "kame test" to men, her selective absorption should be of such nature that the vibration of various particles does not cause electrons to pump orbits which might result in partial disintegration. Recognizing the principle that activity leads to further activity, our girl must be so constituted that increase in pressure produces a proportionate increase in the boiling point. In recognition of the law of action and reaction, the application of pressure must be modulated by a step-down transformer that any induced charges, whether positive or negative do not produce an acceleration to the nether regions with a force varying directly as the product of the masses and inversely as the square of the distance between them. Moreover, we demand that our girl possess a complexion which will not necessitate her adherence to Stefan's law, namely that radiation be proportional to the 4th power of the absolute temperature.

Spring Season Initiates New Sports:

Respective Managers Arrange Games

Now that spring is almost here, great events are planned in the line of outdoor intramural sport and varsity athletics. Baseball, tennis, and outdoor track are among the leading athletic activities to be conducted by the managers of the respective sports.

Four games have thus far been planned for this year's baseball schedule. There is also one game for which arrangements are still tentative.

The following is the schedule in baseball, according to Ralph Harris, '33, manager:
May 2—Hartwick college, home
May 9—Maxwell Training, home
May 16—Cooper Union, home
May 23—Hartwick college, away

The last of these games is the only one that is to be played away. May 30 is still open, and the manager hopes to negotiate with Alfred Upsala, or Hobart colleges for this date.

The following letter men will probably compose part of this year's diamond aggregation: Robert Goodrich, Lloyd Moreland, Fay Blum, juniors; Gilbert DeLaura and John Detleifson, sophomores. Lloyd Moreland, '32, will be this year's coach of the Milne high school baseball team.

Coach Baker may find it hard to fill the shoes of Leo Allan, who was State's star twirler for the past four years, but it is expected that Osmer Brooks, a freshman, who has been at practice in a pitching

Miss Rowley To Wed During Easter Recess

Miss Hazel Rowley, assistant professor of physics, and William Ernst Spencer will be married at the First Baptist church at Saratoga Springs, on March 28. After the ceremony, there will be a reception for the immediate families of the bride and groom.

Miss Ellen E. Stokes, instructor in mathematics, will be maid of honor. Miss Rowley will continue with her classes after the Easter recess.

COMMUNICATIONS

$1 IS TOO MUCH!

Dear Editor:
Why are we being forced to pay one dollar for a lock which ordinarily costs at twenty-five cents? This is the condition at the present in the women's locker rooms in Page Hall. The lockers have been locked and everyone must pay one dollar to have them opened and obtain use of the lock and locker.

Why, then, if we must pay the dollar, is not the full sum to be refunded to us when we return the lock?
It is very annoying and embarrassing to come to school expecting to get books and other necessary material from your locker and find that you have been locked out. Why are you going to get the dollar refunded to you when you return the lock?

We wish to ask you, Lockers, who don't you place them in the school? The what part of a dollar is it to the man who buys them?

It is very annoying to have our clothes and books in locked lockers which should be free to lock them. Why do they insist on locking the lockers, and then to have a person come to school and lock them before they place the lock on the lock?

I would appreciate an answer to these questions.

I am a student of the News.
I am thinking that as the college year progresses, the quality of the papers is becoming poorer. Reports of the "Statesman" are being received at the college, and it is being reported that the News has become a "snob" paper.

capacity, and who has had high school experience in that position may turn out to be a capable man. Alexander Schuur, Myron Kolodny, seniors, and Ellis Kolodny, '32, are among the chief among last year's men, who were unable to earn varsity letters, who may show signs of development in practices. It has yet to be discovered what students who entered this year have to show in the line of baseball ability.

Practices will begin at Richfield park on Partridge street sometime very shortly after the students return from their spring recess. The home games will also be played at this park.

STATES STAGE

At last we have seen State's stage when it was no longer a stage, but a rather sordid room from real life. The first play Tuesday night, directed by Miss Peard, was a fine illustration of the effect of realistic setting and properties. The dramatic class seems to have departed, at last, from their pet device of no-place arrangement. "Trifles" was made important by those trifles of setting on sinks and stoves may be termed such.

The acting fell short of the setting. Miss Dunningan's was the lone performance. Her acting was up to her usual excellent characterization which put the other players in an unfavorable light. No one of the men was definitely in character. Miss Judd lacked sincerity. The action, on the whole, was jerky. But we will think of the play as one of the "different" plays of the year because of its setting.

The second play suffered at the beginning from some complication in regard to lines. The suspense was rather agonizing; where was the prompter? However, once the players were on the right track, all went along quite smoothly. There was no single performance of sustained excellence. We do honor to the sincerity in Nile Clement's emotional scenes. Bob McAnnell had some masterly moments, for instance, when he strode purposefully across the stage to demand the letter. We remember with favor also his exit to the operating room. Ray Collins' love-making was, to say the least, ungracious. His role was marred throughout by too much movement. More restraint would have suggested more definitely the English gentleman. The minor parts of nurse and maid added materially to the excellence of the atmosphere because of the comeliness of Kay Traver and Veronica Crowley.

Commerce Club Votes For New Constitution

The revised constitution of the commerce club was discussed and adopted by a majority vote of those present at the regular monthly business meeting of the club conducted Thursday, February 19, according to Gertrude G. G. '31, president.

Edna Bohinsky '31, was elected secretary to replace Dorothy Diney '33, secretary, who is temporarily unable to fill this position.

Ruth Putnam '33, was elected reporter.

PRESIDENT MAKES NATION-WIDE SURVEY OF TEACHER'S STATUS

"Teacher is not successful in everything," says Dr. Brubacher; Very few instructors show social participation; Records of health are decisive

A nation wide survey of the causes for failure among teachers has just been completed by President A. R. Brubacher and the results have been published in the current issue of New York State Education. "The failing teacher usually works under emotional conditions that make analysis of the causes of that failure somewhat difficult," Dr. Brubacher said in explaining the purpose of the survey. "The final judgment of failure is often subjective and may grow out of the strained personal relations between the teacher and the superior official who is responsible for the decision. A teacher may be rated successful under one set of circumstances, a failure under changed conditions," he declared.

For this reason the questionnaires were issued to superintendents in the cities and larger villages of every state in the Union. One hundred and seventy-nine usable replies were received. The failing teachers were checked on the personality sheet of the questionnaire almost without exception as impulsive, morbid, dull easily satisfied, talkative, dependent erratic, over-serious, and nervous. It was found in coordination with this report that the same teachers received low ratings in teaching process, especially in discipline, sympathy with children, method, and professional judgment.

"The health record is particularly decisive," Dr. Brubacher said, "and it cannot be said that health was a controlling factor in these cases. Likewise, the form of training whether through normal school or college, had little to do with the results. Failure came in spite of the form of training."

An interesting factor in the report is the high rating of all the teachers in the art of questioning, the use of teaching devices, daily instruction plan, command of subject matter, and command of English. "That these factors are fair and even excellent shows what the school and college may do for a weak personality endowment," the president pointed out.

Three additional factors entered into the report—culture, community relationships, and social qualities. "Of the 179 cases reported," Dr. Brubacher says, "seventy-nine show satisfactory evidence of culture by their conduct, speech, manners, tastes, and interests. The remaining 100 were found to be notably deficient along these lines."

Community leadership is the saddest part of the whole story, he found. Of the cases found, 156 gave no evidence of community activities. One superintendent said: "No teacher today is a leader in community affairs." Certainly the record of this group is almost wholly negative in this regard. Not one of the men is active in any of the forms specified; three women were leaders in civic affairs and seven in community social life.

The social conduct of the group was found to be only slightly better. Of the 179 cases, fifty-eight were reported favorably, that is they are not scored for aloofness, indifference toward community activities, frivolous conduct, or keeping gay company.

The results of the survey will be used in an effort to develop a process of discovering persons who possess sufficient desirable qualifications for teaching so that success can be predicted in the teaching field for them, Dr. Brubacher concluded.

The Juniors let the intermural basketball championship slip through their fingers when the seniors defeated them by the score of 21 to 17 in an extra period game last Monday on the old gym court. Myron Kolodny's basket in the last five seconds of the game made the score 17 to 17 and saved the game for the seniors.

State broke its losing streak last Saturday by defeating the Coopers Union Tech in a slow but good basketball game. Ingraham showed his usual eye for the basket scoring six field goals, the high scorer of the evening.

Brooks, substituting for Bancroft who has an injured hand, played an exceptional good game. Captain Lyons managed to score several points and hold his man scoreless, even though he had a lame leg.

Cooper Union Tech was held scoreless during the second period of the game, making the score at the half 19 to 5 in favor of State. However, Cooper Union Tech came back strong the second half and managed to roll up thirteen points to State's twelve.

Tonight State will try to get revenge for its defeat at the hands of New Jersey Teachers. This team defeated State on their court by the score of 54 to 25.

State has one more game to play after tonight's game. It is a surmise that spring is around the corner and baseball bats and gloves are being dusted off for the coming season. Coach will have a hard time finding someone to take Leo Allen's place on the mound.

CHAPLAIN MAKES ASSEMBLY SPEECH

In commemoration of the anniversary of the birth of George Washington, Father John Collins, chaplain of the Newman club, spoke to the student assembly Friday on the greatness of Washington. Father Collins brought out the idea that, while we may not all have the opportunities that Washington had, we can all develop those traits of character which made him the great man he was, and honored as he is today. "And it was Washington's character essentially which made him great," Father Collins said.

The characteristics which stand out in Washington, which future teachers ought to have, Father Collins believes, are outstanding courage, patience, and faith in the dignity of one's calling. "Washington always was sympathetic with those under him, but he never once forgot that he was the general of the army, or the president of his country, as the case may have been; and he always believed in the worth of his goal," Father Collins said. These qualities are particularly necessary to one's success as a teacher, he believes.

The other speaker in the assembly Friday was Mr. Edward Murrow, national president of the National Student Federation of America. Mr. Murrow explained the purpose of the federation, which is both national and international. "N. S. F. A. is essentially a spontaneous organization growing out of the real desire of the students for it, with the idea of furthering intercollegiate relationships and international peace," he said.

Mr. Murrow stressed the importance of the student-conducted tours of foreign countries, which are conducted by the organization each summer.

In carrying out the plan of the N. S. F. A. for international good feeling, a more than nation wide program is being planned for the celebration of the coming Armistice day in the form of a radio program over the Columbia broadcasting hook-up, which will include speeches on world peace by Premier MacDonald, prime minister of England, President Von Hindenburg of Germany, Mussolini of Italy, and President Hoover of the United States, Mr. Murrow said.

The organization conducts an office at 218 Madison Avenue, New York City, where material and information concerning the work of the N. S. F. A. and the student tours may be obtained.

If You Ask Me—

Question: "Do you think it better to indulge freely in extracurricular activities or do you hold in greater esteem one who abstains in order to attain high scholastic standing?"

Carol Kelley, '31: The ideal situation would be to strike a happy medium, but the difficulty of doing so is immediately apparent. Suffice it to say that any student who scorns utterly extra-curricular activities is not getting all that it is possible to get out of college life.

George Hisert, '33: I approve of participation in extra-curricular activities to a moderate extent, but not to a degree that will interfere with satisfactory scholastic standing. It is my opinion that it is our primary obligation to maintain scholarship worthy of the State's interest in educating us.

Lilly Nelson, '31: I think college students should participate in extra-curricular activities to as great an extent as they are able and still maintain a fairly high scholastic standing. One requirement of a good teacher is to be able to participate in social activities.

Betty Gordon, '33: I think a person who abstains from extra-curricular activities for the sake of purpose of making marks is foolish but if he is sincerely more interested in his studies than in activities, he is much wiser to devote his time to the former. In after years memories of extra-curricular activities will be much clearer than memories of the A's I didn't get.

TO CONDUCT VESPERS

The Young Women's Christian association will conduct a vesper service in the Lounge Sunday afternoon at 4 o'clock, according to Carolyn Kelley, '31, president.

Laura Styu, '33, is in charge of the service. Rev. Henry Vruwink, pastor of the Dutch Reformed church, will speak. Tea will be served after the meeting. Jean Gillespy, '31, and Miss Kelley will pour.

HERE AND THERE

Many college professors dislike the idea of giving exams. However, here's one who actually did something about it. At Dartmouth college, Robert Frost, the poet, was giving a course in poetry. The authorities insisted that he give a final examination. Frost didn't care to, but as he was under orders, he went to the blackboard, and wrote, "Do the thing that you think will please me most." Some students composed original poems; others wrote critical essays; some praised the professor. One student taking the professor at his word, simply got up and walked out.

A college degree has been estimated to be worth $72,000 by Dean Everett Lord of Boston university. He claims that increased earning power resulting from high education is responsible for the high figure.

Oxford students are protesting vigorously against the invasion of their campus by women, saying that the august founders of the university never intended Oxford to be a place of "lost hairpins and impossible hats."

At Delaware City, Ohio, the city police were called out recently to disperse a class fight between 400 freshmen and sophomore women on the campus of Ohio Wesleyan university.

The Work Psychology Institute of Dortmund, Germany, is paying a lad to drink 14 bottles of beer a day. The psychologists want to find out how long it will take a person fortified with 14 bottles of beer to become tired. There was more than one applicant for the position.

The third "meanless" dance, conducted by Waynesburg college coeds as punishment to men students for escorting non-college girls to school functions, lived up to its promise to be bigger and better this year.

Measurement of noted brains at Cornell university has demonstrated that women are equal mentally to men.

A few months ago the girls at Hood college were allowed only one bath a week due to the shortage of water in the neighborhood.

Last year there were more college students in the United States than in all the rest of the world combined. There were some 1,237,000 students enrolled in the colleges and universities of this country.

MISS HUNT TO BE CHAIRMAN OF 1931 SPANISH CARNIVAL

Edith Hunt, '31, will be general chairman of the annual Spanish carnival to be conducted in the auditorium of Page hall, Friday night, April 11, according to Elaine Hitchcock, '31, president of Spanish club. Dr. Risley Lectures On How Well-Bred Grandfather Acts

Dr. A. W. Risley, head of the history department, recently gave a special lecture on "How the well-bred, young grandfather should behave."

Since Sunday, February 15, he has been "Grandpa" to Catherine Marsh Wood, daughter of Charles E. and Mary Belle Risley Wood. Mrs. Wood, Dr. Risley's daughter, is a graduate of Smith college and did graduate work at State college several summers ago. Mr. Wood is a graduate of Dartmouth university.

Y.M.C.A. BEGINS ANNUAL CAMPAIGN TO COLLECT FEES

The Young Men's Christian association of the College is giving the opportunity for those members who pledged to give a certain sum of money as their membership fee to pay, according to George Graff, '31. Early last semester the campaign for members was started, but owing to certain delays the money was not collected.

Sixty-five men students have pledged themselves in the first part of the campaign, but only twenty-five have paid their fees. The sum of $25.50 was collected while $48.75 still remains unpaid. The budget this year amounted to $230, and in order to complete the program planned this year the whole of this amount is necessary. The Y. M. C. A. sponsors the banquet for freshmen which was conducted last semester, expenses for representatives to conferences, state and national council dues, and assembly speakers.

Bernard Kerbel, '33, and Grenfell Rand, '34, were assigned to the task of collecting the deficient pledges, according to Graff.

Graduates Are Visitors At College This Week

Several members of the class of 1930 and previous classes visited the College this week. The public schools were not in session on Monday, which was celebrated as Washington's birthday, and consequently the graduates who are now teaching were able to visit school.

The members of the class of 1930 who were here include six members of last year's Myskama. These were: Betty Diamond, editor-in-chief of the Psi-Pedagogue; Ann Moore, former president of the debate council; Marston Botto, former president of the student association; Katherine Graham, former president of the dramatic and art council; Jane Formanek, former finance manager of the News; and Grace Brady, a former officer of the student association. Other members of the class who visited were: Theresa Bedell, Margaret Wadsworth, Katherine Hainsworth, Dorothy Quackenbush, Alyce Barber, Jeannette Harrison, Sarah Yaffee, and Mildred Cook.

The members of former classes who visited the College include: Gertrude Hall, '29, former president of the dramatic and art council; Caroline Schleich, '28, former president of the Girls' Athletic association; and Thomas Fallon, '29, former finance manager of the News.
