UNIVERSITY AT ALBANY TO HOST SENIOR CITIZENS ON JUNE 9

Wednesday, June 9, will be the third annual Senior Citizen Day at The University at Albany. The program will feature "Senior Spirit '76 - A Bicentennial Theme." More than 500 persons from 19 senior citizen centers throughout Albany County are expected on campus for the day, which is sponsored by the Office of University Affairs in cooperation with the Albany County Department for Aging.

The program will begin with a coffee hour in the Performing Arts Center at 9 a.m., followed by welcoming remarks by University at Albany President Emmett Fields at 10. Guests will include Albany Mayor Erastus Corning; Richard Healy, commissioner, Albany County Department for Aging; Irving Kirsch, Albert and Kirsch, Albany attorneys; and Evelyn Newman, research associate, Institute of Gerontology, School of Social Welfare, University at Albany.

At 10:30, Ronald Stewart, of the university's Atmospheric Sciences Research Center, will discuss "Solar Energy Today." At 11:15, Julie Wyatt, vice chairman, Education Department, Albany Institute of History and Art, will look at "Early American Manners and Morals" as seen through paintings. William Golub, chairman of the board, Price Chopper Food Stores, will conduct an "Exercise and Movement" session at 11:45. Mr. Golub is active in programs of exercise for senior citizens.

Neil Brown, dean, and Charles Fisher, associate dean, of the university's Student Affairs Office, will provide musical entertainment during lunch in the Campus Center Ballroom.

Following lunch, Clifford Allanson will direct the Senior Citizen Orchestra in a musical performance in the Performing Arts Center Main Theatre at 1:30 p.m. The program will conclude with a reception and "Lemonade Farewell" at the PAC entrance. Door prizes - donated by Danker Florist, Emil J. Nagengast Florist, and Price Chopper - will be awarded at the closing reception.

Coordinators of Senior Citizen Day are Gary Jones, assistant to the vice president for university affairs, and Carol Anstett, a doctoral student in educational administration.

AMERICAN COUNCIL OF LEARNED SOCIETIES HONORS FIVE UNIVERSITY AT ALBANY FACULTY

Five members of The University at Albany faculty have received honors recently in the form of fellowships and grants-in-aid from the American Council of Learned Societies. Recipients are Robert Howell, assistant professor of philosophy; William Reedy, associate professor of history; Roger Herzal, assistant professor of theater; John Monfasani, assistant professor of history; and John Overbeck, associate professor of classics.

The American Council of Learned Societies, with offices in New York, is a private, non-profit federation of 42 national scholarly associations devoted to the advancement of humanistic studies in all fields of learning.

Dr. Howell and Dr. Reedy are among 97 recipients of fellowships for periods of six months to a year, made possible by grants from the Carnegie Corporation of New York, the Ford Foundation, and the National Endowment for the Humanities. Dr. Howell's project for which the fellowship has been awarded is "Kant's Transcendental Deduction of the Categories," while Dr. Reedy will study "Select Medieval Basset Charters."

Dr. Herzal and Dr. Monfasani have received fellowships in a new program for post-doctoral research in the humanities, restricted to recent recipients of the Ph.D. degree and funded by the Ford Foundation. Thirty-two recipients were chosen from nearly 400

PIANO WORKSHOP AT UNIVERSITY AT ALBANY

A piano performance workshop for advanced pianists will be given by the University at Albany's Music Department during the university's Pre-Summer Session, June 7-19. Faculty for the course will be Findlay Cockrell and Paula Ennis, resident pianists at the university.

The course is open to advanced pianists of any age and will be conducted as a "master class." Each student may perform a composition of his choice and receive criticism and suggestions in front of the class. Persons also may choose to attend the course, but not perform.

Students will register for one or two undergraduate college credits, depending on their degree of performance participation. Admission is by permission of the instructors. Classes will meet every other evening, a total of seven meetings, between June 7-19.

Interested persons may call Mr. Cockrell (457-6888) or Ms. Ennis (457-4479) for permission to register through the College of General Studies or Undergraduate Admissions Office.

MILNE SCHOOL PREPARES FOR ITS FINAL YEAR

The Milne School, campus school of The University at Albany, is being phased out following the 1976-77 school year, as part of a restructuring of teacher-education programs on several State University of New York campuses.

The 130-year old Milne School is accepting a few new students in grades 11 and 12, however, with a number of 11th graders being able to complete their required schooling in one year. Interested students and their parents may contact Annie Barrow, guidance counselor, Milne School, 440 Washington Avenue, Albany, New York, 12203 (472-6516).

According to Milne Principal Thomas Boehm, the Milne faculty is "one of the most experienced in the state. Eight of the full-time faculty members have taught an average of 20 years and four possess doctorates. All have been teacher educators."

Milne provides learning experiences in all major required and elective subject areas, as well as a wide range of interscholastic and intramural activities. Parents and students are actively involved in planning curricular and co-curricular events.

"The relatively low student-faculty ratio should provide opportunities for maximum student-faculty interaction," Dr. Boehm asserts.

Milne was founded in 1845 as The Experimental School and has continued under various names as a laboratory school in conjunction with what is now The University at Albany. Dr. Boehm notes that Milne "has maintained a reputation for providing an exemplary learning environment for high school students and teachers-in-training."

JAZZ WORKSHOP HIGHLIGHTS SUMMER PROGRAMS IN MUSIC AND OPERA AT

ALBANY

A six-week jazz workshop, with noted area musician Nick Brignola, will highlight The University at Albany's 1976 summer programs in music and opera, offered in collaboration with the Lake George Opera Festival and the Saratoga Performing Arts Center.

The jazz workshop, which carries three credits, is scheduled June 28-Aug. 6 and will include the application of American jazz to actual performance. Techniques of ensemble playing, styles, improvisation, and teaching will be explored and visiting artists will participate. Mr. Brignola also will lead another, concurrent, six-week session, which ^{will} trace jazz from its origin to its current expression.

Also scheduled for the June 28-Aug. 6 period are three-credit courses on the fundamentals of writing and performing music, with Laurence Farrell, and on masterpieces of music, with Karl Peterson. Mr. Farrell and Mr. Peterson both are members of the Music Department faculty at the university.

Two three-week courses are scheduled, each worth three credits and scheduled June 28-July 16: music and science: an interactive study, with Burt Levy, and electronic music, with Joel Chadabe, both of the Music Department.

A 1-2 credit piano workshop is slated June 9-18 (two weeks) and will be conducted by university pianists Findlay Cockrell and Paula Ennis.

MUSIC AND OPERA PROGRAMS

A special program in opera will be held June 28-Aug. 6 in the Lake George Opera Theatre in Glens Falls, concurrently with the Lake George Opera Festival. The six-week, three-credit practicum for the professional opera stage will include intensive training in stage techniques for the singing actor, coaching, and analysis of roles and diction. The comprehensive training will culminate in performances at Glens Falls and the university's Performing Arts Center. In addition, a limited number of qualified students will be considered for professional participation in the Lake George Opera Company.

Faculty for the opera workshop are Thomas Lloyd, director of the workshop; Marshall Williamson, music director and repertory coach; and Dorothy Danner, dance instructor. Seminars in acting, stage direction, makeup, costume, and other related areas will be offered by staff members of the Lake George Opera Company.

Information about the summer programs in music and opera may be obtained from Karl Peterson, Department of Music, University at Albany, Albany, NY 12222.

PHYSICAL FITNESS WORKSHOP SCHEDULED TWICE AT UNIVERSITY AT ALBANY

A workshop in physical fitness will be offered twice this summer by the Office of Student Activities, The University at Albany. "Free to Be Fit", featuring Lenna Payton, director of the Academy of Fitness and the Exercise Consultation Bureau, is scheduled July 14-15 and 28-29.

The program will be offered on two tracks, or levels. Track I, "How to Stay Fit at Home", is a workshop of jogging, diet, and exercise designed for those who wish to improve their physical condition through movements and exercises that can become part of one's daily routine.

Track II, "Fitness for School, 'Y', or Home," is a more intensive workshop for teachers or "Y" directors who have experience in fitness, or for those who want to learn in a hurry. Track II includes Track I, plus aqua exercises, pre-school instruction, and advanced nutrition.

Track I will be given 1:30-3:30 p.m. on July 14-15 and 28-29. The cost per session is $25. Track II is scheduled from 9:30-11:30 a.m. and 1:30-3:30 p.m. on the same dates at a cost of $40 per session.

June 30 is the registration deadline for the first session, and July 14, for the second session. Per person deposits of $15 may be sent to Summer '76, Campus Center 361, University at Albany, Albany, New York, 12222. Checks should be made payable to "The Summer '76 Student Activities Program." Room and board on campus is available for $17, which also must be sent with the registration fee.

Ms. Payton conducted an exercise session sponsored by the university's Feminist Alliance in April and was well-received. She holds academic degrees in physical education, and psychology and administration and has served as consultant to clubs, schools, and Y's. She also has been sponsored by Reader's Digest at various clinics. Ms. Payton's program stresses the use of music and its basic concept is to have a good time while keeping fit.

CASDA SCHEDULES THREE CONFERENCES AT UNIVERSITY AT ALBANY

Capital Area School Development Association (CASDA), The University at Albany, will sponsor three conferences this summer. The Albany Area Educational Secretaries Conference will be held June 28; the 26th annual Custodial Conference is scheduled June 29-30; and the seventh annual School Business Management Summer Workshop is set for July 11-14. All three will take place on the Albany campus.

Reservations for the secretaries' conference, which is co-sponsored by the Albany Area Educational Secretaries Association, must be received by CASDA by June 21. The cost is $5 per person for CASDA schools and $7 per person for non-CASDA schools. The keynote speaker will be Sandra Culp, Bicentennial associate and editor, who will discuss "The Role of Women at the Time of the American Revolution."

Four workshops will follow, featuring Martha Brown, Albany County Extension Service, "Consumerism: Change for Your Dollar"; Mary Ann Ellsworth, marketing representative for International Business Machines (IBM), "Work Processing Using Latest IBM Equipment"; David Silver, director, Municipal Division, New York State Department of Audit and Control, "The Audit and the Secretary"; and Rita Bogdan, Albany Business College, "Upgrading Basic Skills."

In the afternoon, Esther Schneider and Beverly Pasley, Capital Area Community Health Plan, will examine pre-paid health care. Then, William O'Neill, New York State School Boards Association, and Bernard Ryan, Civil Service Employees Association, will present two views of the proposed changes in the retirement systems for public employees.

June 21 also is the deadline for reservations for the custodial conference, which will include exhibits of supplies and materials, general sessions, workshops, and problem clinics. Reservation fees, not including luncheons ($3 each day) are $10 for each of the first two registrants for a CASDA school district and $5 for each additional registrant; $15 per person for persons from non-CASDA districts.

Al Danzig, former deputy director, New York State Bureau of Motor Vehicles and presently a public relations consultant, will be the keynote speaker the first day of the conference. His topic will be "If at First You Don't Succeed." On the second day, five workshops will cover such areas as work scheduling, asphalt surface maintenance, carpet maintenance, security of buildings and property, concrete and masonry maintenance, and the use and misuse of pesticides and other chemicals.

There also will be presentations on emerging plans for pre-paid health care programs and on the proposed new plan for public employee retirement systems.

The theme for the business management workshop will be "Resource Management in Times of Fiscal Crises." On the first full day, topics for discussion will include "Effective School District Practices - State Education Department Management Studies," "The District Clerk." "BOCES Update - Accounting and Reporting," and "State Aid."

Second day subjects will include "Long Range Financial Planning as a Component of School District Planning," "Title IX - Impact

TAX SEMINAR TO BE HELD JUNE 23 AT UNIVERSITY AT ALBANY

Some 500 tax practitioners are expected to attend a one-day seminar on annual return/report of employee benefit plan at The University at Albany on Wednesday, June 23. The seminar is sponsored jointly by the Albany District Office of the United States Internal Revenue Service, the U.S. Department of Labor, and the university. Co-sponsors are the New York State Bar Association, the New York State Society of Certified Public Accountants, the Empire State Association of Public Accountants, the New York State Association of Life Underwriters, and the New York Bankers Association.

Reno Knouse, professor of business education at the university and coordinator of the seminar, said that the seminar is designed to give insight on how to prepare annual reports of employee pension plans (Form 5500 Series) for submission to the Internal Revenue Service and the Department of Labor. IRS and DOL speakers will cover Forms 5500, 5500-C, 5500-K, and supporting schedules in detail. In addition, a portion of the program will deal with defects noted in plan submissions intended to comply with the Employee Retirement Income Security Act, an explanation of the special Reliance Procedures, and a discussion of procedures to be followed relative to Pattern Plan submissions. Materials will be supplied, and a question-and-answer period will follow the presentations.

The seminar will begin at 8:30 a.m. with coffee and doughnuts. The program will start at 9:00 in Lecture Center 18, and conclude at 4 p.m. Participating will be Stanley Goldstein, chief, Employee

ASRC SUMMER SCIENCE LECTURES SCHEDULED AT WHITEFACE MOUNTAIN

The Atmospheric Sciences Research Center of The University at Albany will present a summer series of free public science lectures at its Whiteface Mountain Field Station on Memorial Highway, Wilmington. The Tuesday evening series will begin July 6 and continue weekly through Aug. 24. Each program will begin at 8:30 with a report on the latest weather using colored projections.

The first program, July 6, will feature Joseph Harley, of Saranac Lake, a retired engineer with Bell Telephone Laboratory and an award winning amateur movie film maker. He will discuss the "Adirondack Scene."

Other programs in July will involve Albert Kleinfeld, regional administrator, Region II, Federal Energy Administration, "Status of the National Energy Policy," July 13; Clyde Smith, free lance photographer from Westboro, "New England," July 20; and David Ludlum, editor, Weatherwise Magazine, and American weather historian, "Weather During the Revolution from Saratoga to the Champlain Valley," July 27.

In August, the speakers will be Walter Haas and Edwin Niedhammer, amateur photographers, COUCH-SA-CHRA-GA Associates, Inc., "Adventures in Making an Adirondack Movie," Aug. 3; Heinz Meng, professor of botony, State University College at New Paltz, "The Falcons Return," Aug. 10; Werner Baum, professor of botony, University at Albany, "Adirondack Flora," Aug. 17; and Paul Fox, assistant professor, geological science, University at Albany, "Voyage to the Bottom of the Sea," Aug. 24.

The lecture series is made possible, in part, by a gift to the University at Albany Foundation from Mr. and Mrs. Howard LaRose.

PRE-RETIREMENT PROGRAM JUNE 21-24 AT UNIVERSITY AT ALBANY

The College of General Studies of The University at Albany and the New York State Office for Aging will co-sponsor a Pre-Retirement Education Program (PREP) June 21-24 in the university's Campus Center. The purpose of the program is to train 30 individuals from state agencies to assume the role of pre-retirement planning program leaders for their respective agencies. They then will work with and counsel persons nearing retirement.

The program at the university will be conducted by Stanley Hayes, program director for PREP, and his staff. In addition, a number of resource persons will participate in the four-day program, addressing various problems and opportunities faced by a person planning his or her retirement.

Mr. Hayes will speak about "Opportunities in Retirement" at the Tuesday morning session, June 22. Other Tuesday speakers and their topics include Joseph Laden, director, Albany Housing Authority, and Margaret Wyman, also of the Housing Authority, "Where to Live"; Noreen McMahon, community mental health nurse, and Leslie Madsen, psychiatric-geriatric nurse, "Health and Well-Being."

On Wednesday, speakers and their topics will be Thomas Whalen III, attorney, and Robert Bosman, special counsel to the New York State Office for Aging, "Legal Affairs"; Warren Scott, assistant to the dean, College of General Studies, and consultant for the training program, and Clifford Allanson, president of the Senior

MOHAWK-HUDSON ARTISTS CHOSEN FOR EXHIBITION AT UNIVERSITY AT ALBANY

Critic and author Dore Ashton has selected 96 works from among 675 entries for the 1976 Exhibition by Artists of the Mohawk-Hudson Region, which will be shown June 27-Aug. 8 at The University at Albany Art Gallery.

Artists from within a 100-mile radius of Albany were eligible to submit entries for the regional show, which is jointly sponsored by the Albany Institute of History and Art, the Schenectady Museum, and The University at Albany Art Gallery. The three institutions take turns in hosting the annual exhibition.

Ms. Ashton, professor of art history at The Cooper Union in New York City and author of 14 books on contemporary art, spent June 10 on the Albany campus making her selections. Entries came from as far as Lake George, Great Barrington, Poughkeepsie, and Utica.

A preview of the exhibition and reception for the artists will be held from 2-5 p.m., Sunday, June 27. The public is invited. Thereafter, the works will be on display through Aug. 8 during the gallery's regular summer hours, 9-4 Monday-Friday, and 1-4 Sunday afternoons.

UNIVERSITY AT ALBANY FACULTY AUTHOR SEVERAL BOOKS

Several books written by members of The University at Albany faculty have been published in recent months.

"The Horrors of the Half-Known Life: Male Attitudes Toward Women and Sexuality in Nineteenth-Century America" (Harper & Row) by Graham Barker-Benfield, assistant professor, American Studies Program, was selected for the Book-of-the-Month Club for April. The book examines 19th Century attitudes of sexual repression of females in America, how those attitudes have been politically institutionalized, and how they have become medically and psychologically reinforced. The author traces the social-psychological causes of the attitudes to their political-economic course in American laissez-faire democracy.

James Tedeschi, psychology, is a co-author of "Social Interdependence, Interaction and Influence Psychology" (John Wiley & Sons, Inc.). In the work, written with Sven Lindskold, he shows that contemporary social psychology can be integrated through the use of social influence theory.

The book is described as presenting an integrated approach to social psychology that focuses on the definition and examination of social influence. In their cumulative organization of material, the authors explore numerous middle-range theories, emphasizing experimental perspective.

James McClellan, foundations of education, is the author of "Philosophy of Education" (Prentice-Hall, Inc.). The book treats philosophy of education as a branch of general philosophy closely related to epistemology. It develops a distinctively educational concept of "teaching-and-learning" and shows some practical implications of that concept, particularly in regard to moral development.

A special feature of the book by Professor McClellan is that it is believed to be the only text in its field to be both analytic (in style and content) and radical (in political perspective).

Winthrop Means, geology, together with Bruce Hobbs and Paul Williams, has written "An Outline of Structural Geology" (John Wiley & Sons, Inc.). The book is a text for a one-semester course in structural geology offered to senior and graduate-level students in departments of geology. Courses served by the 571-page volume are instructional geology and field geology. Dr. Williams is senior lecturer, Institute of Geology and Mineralogy, Leiden, Netherlands, and Professor Hobbs is chairman of the Department of Earth Science, Monash University, Melbourne, Australia.

Hans Toch, criminal justice, has written a new work, "Men in Crisis--Human Breakdowns in Prison" (Aldine Publishing Co.). Presenting the results of one of the largest prison studies ever undertaken, the book is based on well over 600 interviews dealing with the self-destructive acts of men and women in prison.

"Men in Crisis" is described as the first attempt comprehensively to map the variety of forms that despair can take, to reconstruct the ineffable shapes of human extremity as fully and faithfully as possible.

Fred Cohen, School of Criminal Justice, has written a chapter in the new book, "The Mentally Retarded Citizen and the Law" (Free Press). The book is a collection of papers on the subject of mentally retarded persons and the law. The papers were written and collected under the President's Committee on Mentally Retarded. President Ford has written the dedication for the book, which will be used as a reference for persons in the legal and mental retardation professions.

300 TO TAKE PART IN EMPIRE GIRLS STATE AT ALBANY UNIVERSITY

More than 300 high school students will take part in the American Legion Auxiliary's 35th Annual Empire Girls State which begins Sunday evening (June 27) on the campus of The University at Albany. Participating in the opening session at 8:30 will be Albany Mayor Erastus Corning; Lewis P. Welch, vice president for university affairs, The University at Albany; Jan Stoffer, governor of 1975 Girls State; and Alice Kiernan, department president of the American Legion Auxiliary.

The girls, ages 14 to 17, will study and put to use parliamentary procedure. Divided into two political parties, the girls select candidates for state and local offices, carry on conventions, campaigns, and elections. They will visit their counterparts in their respective state and local offices and have a mock session in the Senate and Assembly chambers.

Throughout the week the girls will have the opportunity to meet and question state and federal officials who will give talks on various branches of government.

Scheduled to speak before the group next week include Congressman Ned Pattison, Lieutenant Governor Mary Anne Krupsak, Senator Douglas Hudson, Assemblymen Fred Field, Neil Keleher, and Leonard Stavisky. Other speakers include Assistant District Attorney Kenneth Connolly, Richard Connors, president of the Albany Common Council, and Legislator Joseph Harrigan.

LEGISLATORS TO SPEAK AT UNIVERSITY'S TAFT SEMINAR

Stimulating greater and realistic understanding and appreciation of the basic principles of the United States Constitution will be one of several objectives of a graduate seminar scheduled for July 6-July 16 at The University at Albany under the sponsorship of the School of Education and the Graduate School of Public Affairs. The Robert A. Taft Institute Seminar is entitled, "Bicentennial 1976--What Has Survived from Our Founders' Dreams?"

Among the seminar speakers will be Richard Rosenbaum, chairman of the Republican Party in New York State; William Murphy, Rensselaer County Executive and an alumnus of the university; and Congressman Edward Pattison and his wife, Eleanor Pattison, who will speak as a team on "The Importance of Being Involved".

Assemblyman Stanley Steingut has invited the class to the Legislative Office Building where he will speak on "The Role of Responsible Public Officials". At another session Robert Fichenberg, executive editor of "The Knickerbocker News" will speak on "Politics and the Media."

Other speakers are Robert Cronin, mayor of Glens Falls; Norman Adler, director of Council 37, SCEM, AFL-CIO, and of its political action program; and John McLaughlin, WTEN-TV newscaster and commentator.

The program will include lectures and discussions on a range of topics. Attending will be 30 elementary and secondary school teachers, administrators, and librarians of social studies, civics, or government classes. Edward H. Sargent and James A. Riedel of the university's faculty have additional information.
